Foes to Filibuster to Block Vote.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—The long awaited senate fight on President Roosevelt's proposal to pack the Supreme court got under way suddenly and in earnest today, with a warning from Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson that night sessions would be held if the opposition leaders carried out their threats of a filibuster. Senator Robinson quickly amended the original bill to a new "compromise" scheme.

Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.], a leader of the opposition, responded to this threat by immediately suggesting a quorum call, one of the favorite filibustering devices, when there were about 88 senators present.

Threatens Baseball Fans.

In calling up the court packing bill, Robinson announced that it was his intention to keep it before the senate until final disposition should be made of it and that not even a matter of such import as the All-Star baseball game scheduled to be played here tomorrow could interfere with the pending business. This announcement caused something of a sensation, since the general expectation of senators yerning to see the game was that the senate would recess early today and not come back until Thursday.

"Senators may attend the game if they wish to, but it must be subject to call in order to keep a quorum," Robinson warned.

Robinson finally accommodated the baseball fans by recessing until 10 a. m. tomorrow, two hours earlier than usual, in order to quit at 1 p. m., in time for the game.

Moves to Substitute.

Immediately after moving to take up the President's original bill, which called for an immediate maximum increase of six justices in the size of the court, Robinson offered an amendment in the nature of a substitute which provides for temporary increases in the size of court by not more than one justice a year on the basis of present members more than 75 years of age who refuse to retire.

This is the Hatch-Logan compromise adopted by the administration when the President's original bill, obviously dead, was abandoned. The administration leaders declare they are certain of at least 51 votes, two more than a majority, in favor of the compromise, and the opposition leaders vow that no vote will be taken on the substitute if they have to filibuster till snow flies.

In response to a question by Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, Robinson said he might not even permit occasional adjournments, rather than recess of the senate, in order to provide a "morning hour" upon reconvening when other business is in order.

Affects Filibuster.

The difference between recessing and adjourning has another important bearing upon a filibuster, for the senate remains in the same legislative day when it recesses, and can do so indefinitly. There is a rule which prohibits any senator from speaking more than twice in any one day on any pending business, and the administration leaders contend that this applies to a legislative day. A legislative day may run for several months.

"I shall not commit myself to any policy which would aid or encourage a filibuster," Robinson declared. "I now announce that it is my intention to keep this bill before the senate until it is disposed of."

This was regarded in some quarters as a threat to hold 24 hour sessions, but the opposition leaders said they were not worried. They do not believe the administration could keep a quorum of the senate present for indefinite day and night sessions.

Bitter Personal Exchanges.

The debate on the court bill reached the stage of bitter personal exchanges, which are strictly against the rules of the senate, before Senator Robinson had concluded.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], who was acting as a sort of officer of the day for the opposition, kept propounding questions to Robinson, and once did so "at the risk of making a nuisance of myself."

"O, the senator from Nebraska does not make a nuisance of himself," Robinson replied. "Nature does that."

Senator Robinson, who will be 65

GERMAN PRESS HITS BINGHAM'S 'DESPOTS' CRY

Calls London Speech Insulting.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

Robert Worth Bingham.

BERLIN, July 6.—Robert Worth Bingham, the United States ambassador to London, today joined the company of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York City and Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago as the butt of Nazi anger. The ambassador was assailed because in an independence day speech in London he said the United States had been compelled to join Great Britain in rearmament by dictator countries in Europe.

The Nazis charged that Bingham insulted Germany and Italy and displayed "arrogance and ignorance," as the official Nazi newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, phrased it.

Defense Plea Stirs Wrath.

The newspaper, angered at Bingham's plea that democracies defend themselves against despots, said the Nazis are not seeking to spread their principles abroad.

"If there is any talk of defense, then we should speak of defense against the arrogant and teacher-like attitude of the defenders of western ideals," it added.

[Bingham told the American society in London that "if there is no argument but the argument of force then we must fall back on that. My hope is that there must be in these despotisms at least some remnants of sanctity. There must be some who realize that they have imposed upon the British commonwealth and the United States an armaments race.

["We did everything in our power to avert it, but it is a race, and the British and ourselves inevitably must win. I admit the strongest argument that can be made for dictatorships—they offer a better method of preparing for war. But I am very sure that democracies provide a better way to finish a war."]

Points to Strikes in U. S.

The newspaper attempted to ridicule Bingham's statement that democratic nations are happier than nations with dictatorships.

"American troops are busy controling American workers who for nearly a year have been diverting themselves by staging strikes, some of which are of the most violent kind," the article concluded.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin said:

"Is an American ambassador accredited to a European capital to make inflammatory speeches about other European peoples? Ambassador Bingham in London has incited the so-called democracies against the so-called dictatorships in an absolutely incredible manner.

Defends German Policy.

"This diplomat, who has a peaceful mission to fulfill, proclaims America's renewed interest in Europe, but with an appeal for competitive rearmament. He asserts that a 'despot' has forced England and America to rearm and that now these two countries must make certain of winning the race.

"Any American diplomat ought to know that Germany was forced to follow others in rearmament after the others failed to carry out specific treaty provisions calling for disarmament.

"In the course of previous disarmament negotiations, former American diplomats commendably exerted themselves in favor of general disarmament—but, unfortunately, had to see their efforts wrecked by the opposition of highly armed nations.

"This diplomat [Bingham] has such a peculiar conception of his official mission and a mentality so foreign to us that it would be a waste of breath to argue with him."

THE SPIRIT OF GEORGE THE THIRD

Not a Drink, So Teacher Balks at Being Fired

Saugus, Mass, July 6.—[Special.]—Gossip of cocktail parties allegedly presided over by pretty Isabelle Hallin, and which led to her dismissal as a teacher in the high school, has blown up a tempest in this New England village. The citizenry is split into two hostile, bickering camps.

Miss Isabelle Hallin. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Today the blonde Miss Hallin indicated that the school board members will have to do more than extend an "invitation" if they expect to oust her from the position she has held through two school terms. She has engaged an attorney, and indicated that the board not only will have to to fight to separate her from her job but will have to fight in the open.

Offers No Explanation.

A bit puzzled, a bit angry, the 26 year old teacher asserted:

"They haven't told me of any charge against me, although I did hear a rumor that I was supposed to have had the cast of the high school play at my house for cocktails and cigarets. But that is nonsense."

The school board at its meeting last week gave Miss Hallin "leave to resign," but no explanation of its action. Members said there were no charges against her.

The teacher promptly announced her rejection of the invitation, adding, ". . . even in the dark ages, the accused had the right of trial by ordeal. I should like a public hearing."

Refused Public Hearing.

As promptly as Miss Hallin's rejection of the "leave to resign" came the school board's refusal to grant her a public hearing.

Her attorney, Daniel J. Canning of Lynn, called a public meeting for July 29—the night before the next school board meeting—in town hall "to demonstrate public confidence in Miss Hallin."

The lineup in the school board remained at 3 to 2 in favor of forcing her resignation.

A graduate of Jackson college, Miss Hallin has been teaching at the high school for two years. Under the school board rules, a "probationary" teacher must be elected three consecutive times before she becomes a permanent member of the department.

"If Miss Hallin does not resign," a board member explained, "she will come up for reëlection and probably will be defeated."

A robber-rapist, who uses a knife to terrify his victims, struck for the second time in six days in the same west side neighborhood last night. He entered the room of Miss Catherine Neary, 21 years old, 1850 Monroe street, and stabbed her in the left side when she screamed. Then he escaped.

Miss Neary, a maid at the Presbyterian hospital, was asleep when the prowler invaded her room. She awakened to see him bending over her, knife in hand. "Don't scream," the man warned.

Cries Out in Terror.

Miss Neary cried out in terror and the intruder lunged at her with the knife. The victim's screams brought her sister, Helen, running to the room. The stabber fled through an unlocked screen door at the rear, by which he had entered the house.

The wounded girl was taken to the office of Dr. B. C. Kolter, a physician, 1834 Monroe street. He said the wound was not dangerous.

Miss Neary and her sister said the intruder wore a white handkerchief to conceal his face. They said he was about 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighed about 155 pounds.

Girl, 13, Attacked.

Warren avenue police said the description tallied with that of the moron who attacked a girl, 13 years old, as she lay in bed beside her sleeping baby brother early on the morning of June 30. Then the man, who was armed with a knife, forced the girl to go to the room where her parents slept and bring him their money, amounting to $5.

The innocent victim of that attack, whose name was not published because of her youth, was treated at the County hospital.

'Just a Joyride,' Flyer Says of Atlantic Flight

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 6.—"The trip was relatively easy—like a joy ride," declared Capt. Harold E. Gray, as the Pan-American Clipper III. glided down to the waters of the River Shannon at Foynes, Ireland, at 10:50 a. m. [4:50 a. m. Chicago time] today.

He and his crew of seven had completed in 12 hours and 29 minutes the west to east survey flight of the projected British-American trans-Atlantic passenger and mail route.

Sixteen minutes later [5:06 a. m. Chicago time] the British Imperial Airways flying boat Caledonia landed at Botwood, Newfoundland, the western terminus of the 1,995 mile line. Capt. A. S. Wilcockson and his crew of four made their flight in 15 hours and 28 minutes.

Shaved and Fresh.

The crew of the Clipper stepped from the plane at Foynes showing no trace of fatigue, although they admitted no one had slept. They had dinner en route. All were smoothly shaved.

"We can do our shaving and dressing just as well in the air as we could on a train," said Capt. Gray.

"We flew above 10,000 feet the whole way, with a nice sky and sunshine above the clouds," he said. "On the other hand, in all my experience in ocean flights over the Pacific I never have seen such an unbroken stretch of clouds—they lasted nearly throughout the flight.

"We entered the stretch of clouds just 200 miles after leaving Newfoundland and emerged only as we reached the coast of Ireland. Sitting atop the clouds for twelve hours, however, is a delightful experience. We were able to take astronomical observations from the sun and stars and make certain of our bearings, and I was able to pick up radio messages from the ships along the route from time to time."

Pass, but 60 Miles Apart.

The Clipper and the Caledonia, Gray revealed, passed each other in mid-ocean at 9:15 p. m. [Chicago time] last night but were sixty miles apart.

"We spoke to each other by Morse code," he added, "and I was able to give Capt. Wilcockson detailed weather reports of what lay ahead of him, while he was able to do the same good turn for me.

"The trip was relatively easy, but it would hardly be fair to judge Atlantic weather on the basis of this one journey. Nevertheless, I do not think there should be any difficulty in operating a regular service across the Atlantic."

Capt. Gray said the boat landed with approximately 900 gallons of gas left. It had averaged about 156 miles per hour.

Viscount Swinton, British secretary of state for air, sent telegrams of congratulations to the American and British flyers. The Clipper will fly to Southampton tomorrow, according to present arrangements, and there will prepare for the return flight.

Irish Crowds See Landing.

Crowds of people, some of whom started out in the early dawn in donkey carts, massed along the quay side at Foynes to see the Clipper arrive. As the Clipper's engines were heard in the distance the crowd began to cheer. Then the giant flying boat was seen coming in from the sea.

It circled around Foynes and, gradually reducing speed, floated gracefully onto the water, taxiing a short distance down the river with the crowds yelling "Bravo! Welcome to Ireland!"

Capt. Gray waved a greeting to the thousands jammed along the river-

WARSHIP WITH PLANES TO SCAN PHOENIX REEFS

No Trace of Flyers Missing Five Days.

HONOLULU, July 6.—(AP)—The battleship Colorado changed its course today and sped toward Winslow Bank, 175 miles east of Howland Island, in the hunt for Amelia Earhart, and the navy moved to coördinate the far-flung searching expedition.

The tactical shift coincided with an apparently growing belief that if Miss Earhart and her navigator, Capt. Fred J. Noonan, were alive they had reached an island or a coral reef. Small islands are numerous beginning some 200 miles to the south, east, and northwest of Howland, but virtually are unknown in the previously searched area to the north. All these islands will be scanned by planes.

Flyers Missing Five Days.

Miss Earhart and her navigator have been missing five days. Their plane came down last Friday on a 2,570 mile flight from Lae, New Guinea, for Howland.

The Colorado, which had been heading from Honolulu toward the area north of Howland where the coast guard cutter Itasca, the navy minesweeper Swan and the British freighter Moorby had been searching, planned to release its three catapult planes over the Winslow Bank area late tomorrow. Winslow Bank, a reef, lies on the northern fringe of the Phoenix Islands, which center at about 280 miles southeast of Howland.

Special lookouts were stationed on the battleship late today to watch for any floating objects and officers said they would light searchlight beacons.

Navy Takes Over Cutter.

Coast guard authorities said the Itasca, which is under the command of Commander W. K. Thompson, had been placed under temporary supervision of the navy to permit better search coördination.

The two ships were expected to meet early tomorrow to refuel the Itasca, which has borne the brunt of the search since the aviatrix disappeared. The Moorby, which had been assisting the Itasca and the Swan, decided to proceed to its next port of call.

The Japanese airplane carrier Kamoie and the Japanese survey ship began a search of the Marshall Islands area, about 500 miles northwest of Howland.

Believes Flyers Are on Land.

Shortly before the search plans were changed, George Palmer Putnam, husband of Miss Earhart, reported the directional bearings taken on the most likely of the mysterious radio signals from that region all pointed to the Phoenix Islands.

Putnam said if any of the numerous radio reports seemingly from the lost world girdling plane were genuine, the ship must have been down on a reef or an island.

He said he had determined defintly that the plane would not have been able to send signals if down in the water.

Putnam expressed appreciation of the naval and coast guard efforts, which included sending of the big aircraft carrier Lexington and three destroyers from San Diego, Cal.

"They have done everything possible," he said, "and I am grateful for their extensive efforts."

Roosevelt Expresses Concern.

President Roosevelt at Washington, D. C., expressed concern for Miss Earhart's safety. He said the searchers had been ordered to cover as much territory as possible.

Despite the unprecedented mobilization of naval forces for the hunt, the navy department said it was impossible to estimate whether it involved costs in addition to regular operating expenses.

Officers said the normal daily operating cost of five naval vessels involved was about $13,750, but pointed out this expense had to be borne whether the ships were in port or under way.

Hopes Raised, then Dashed.

Belief Miss Earhart and Noonan might have fallen short of Howland instead of overshooting it followed navigators' reports indicating they may have been bucking brisk head-winds.

Hopes were raised but quickly dashed early today when the Itasca sighted lights it at first believed were flares but which officers later concluded were meteors or heat lightning.

"Sighted flares, proceeding toward them," the cutter radioed at 3:46 a. m. [Chicago daylight saving time].

"We can see your flares; are coming toward you," it radioed in an attempt to contact the missing plane.

But after a tense wait, listeners heard the Itasca report:

"Objects sighted were apparently meteors as Howland reported same effect."

It would have been impossible for the Itasca and Howland Island, more than 280 miles apart, to have seen the same flares.

Investigate "S O S" Report.

San Francisco coast guard authorities investigated without comment the report of Radio Amateur Charles Miguel of Oakland, that he heard a woman's voice at 9:35 a. m. [Chicago time] call "S O S," giving the signature of Miss Earhart's plane and mentioning a position 281 miles north of Howland.

The area was searched in vain previously by the Itasca seeking the source of a similar message. No other stations reported the call Miguel said he heard.

Coast guard stations continued to pick up unidentified "carrier signals" until about 9:30 a. m. [Chicago time] but were unable to read them and said there was no assurance they were from the Earhart plane.

Lexington Picks up Speed.

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—The naval aircraft carrier Lexington reported to navy headquarters tonight that she was 2,500 miles from Howland Island at 4 p. m. [Chicago time].

The Lexington, which is carrying 5[illegible] planes, will join the search for Amelia Earhart if she has not been found by the time the vessel reaches the scene. The Lexington left San Diego Sunday.

The carrier reported she was proceeding at 33 knots, within a knot and a half of top speed. This was five knots above the highest previous report of 28.

The Lexington's commanding officer has said he expected to reach Lahaina roads, about 75 miles from Honolulu, at 8 p. m. [Chicago time] Thursday.

The naval tanker Ramapo, en route from San Diego to Guam, has been ordered to divert its course, meet the Lexington at Lahaina roads and refuel her. Officers said refueling should take only a few hours.

Rules Against Compulsory Fire Drills in Schools

The Chicago fire department and its fire prevention bureau do not have the right to hold compulsory fire drills in public, private, or parochial schools in the city. This was the opinion Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes sent yesterday to Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan and Chief George E. Graves of the fire prevention bureau. Informed of Hodes' opinion, Graves said the fire department will not conduct drills unless invited to by the proper authority, but requested will supply help for drills.

WINDS AND OCEAN CURRENT STUDIED IN AMELIA HUNT

One reported message from Amelia Earhart placed her plane's position 281 miles north of Howland Island and drifting southwest. Last night the battleship Colorado was heading for a point 100 miles southeast of Howland Island. The two points are shown on a map on the back page as I [north] and II [south].

At point I the United States hydrographic office chart for July shows a water current moving east. Prevailing winds blow toward the west and southwest. Boatswain's Mate Louis Wedemeyer of the United States coast guard said that wind would affect the course of the plane if it were high out of water, and water currents if it were almost submerged.

If the reported message from Miss Earhart is true, her plane apparently is being blown southwest against the current by the southern edge of the northeast trades.

In position II Miss Earhart's plane would be in a water current of westward drift, with a velocity of from 24 to 72 miles an hour. Prevailing winds in that area are from the east and southeast—tending to blow the plane west and northwest. As wind and water would join in moving the plane in the same direction, it may be assumed the plane would be moving rapidly northwestward either toward or beyond Howland Island.

side as he came ashore. He was welcomed officially by President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State, by Minister of Industry and Commerce Sean Lemass and officials of the British air ministry and the Imperial Airways.

The flyers were entertained at a public luncheon attended by De Valera and many local notabilities.

The success of the experimental flights of the Clipper and the Caledonia was hailed here as showing conclusively that the projected Atlantic service has become a practical possibility.

Britons Fly in Clouds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOTWOOD, Newfoundland, July 6.—The British flying boat Caledonia, making an experimental commercial flight from Foynes, landed in the harbor at 7:36 a. m., Newfounland time, today. The giant boat circled the harbor twice before landing, and the captain, A. S. Wilcockson, and the crew came ashore in a launch at 8 a. m.

Capt. Wilcockson, First Officer Charles H. Bowes, and Wireless Operators Thomas E. Hobbs and Thomas A. Vallette composed the personnel of the flight.

"We made the trip in 15 hours 28 minutes from buoy to buoy," said the captain. "Flying conditions over the Atlantic were not so good for three-quarters of the way. There were rather low clouds, a lot of drizzle, and head winds of 30 to 35 miles an hour which dropped to about 20 miles an hour for a time and gradually died away for the last quarter of the course. The average speed was 132 miles per hour.

Ship Behaves Perfectly.

"We are delighted at the time made under the conditions. The ship behaved perfectly. We struck the Newfoundland coast ten or fifteen miles off Funk Island, then headed across the mainland under wireless direction from the Botwood station, which was very useful and successful all through. We were interested to note the large and numerous bodies of water while flying over Newfoundland.

"We took a course 25 miles longer than the great circle course. We used 1,700 gallons of gasoline and landed with about 900 gallons left."

The Caledonia will fly next to Montreal and from there to New York. The captain declared the successful trips of the Caledonia and the American Clipper III., which reached Ireland this morning on a flight from Botwood, show that regular trans-Atlantic service is close at hand.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—[Special.]—A football helmet borrowed from the team at the University of Minnesota will protect Dr. Jean Piccard, the stratosphere flyer, when he goes aloft at Rochester, Minn., to test his strange craft of 80 small rubber balloons. Dr. Piccard, who is connected with the university's aeronautical engineering department, believes the headgear will shield his head from any bumping inside the gondola under the balloons. He plans to make his flight within ten days, and expects the cluster of balloons to take him up 2,000 or 3,000 feet. The flight will test the efficiency of such a craft for a stratosphere attempt.

MAYOR SUGGESTS RAILROAD TRACKS UNDER AIRPORT

The possibility of depressing the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks in a covered subway instead of removing them from the Chicago airport in order to enlarge the landing field was suggested yesterday by Mayor Kelly.

The mayor pointed out his proposal was merely an idea in case the present plan of removing the tracks fails to go through because of some insurmountable obstacle. Engineers are now striving to perfect details of the present plan under which the city would give the railroad a new right of way for the line across the airport.

The tracks now bisect the square mile of land available for airport facilities.

Engineers of the city, the railroad, and the Bankers Trust company of New York, mortgage trustees for the railroad, are making surveys and appraisals in an effort to agree on a right of way north of the airport.

BRITAIN MASSES TROOPS TO BALK PALESTINE RIOTS

Fear Outbreak as 3 State Plan Is Announced.

JERUSALEM, July 6.—(AP)—Excitement mounted tonight on the eve of a report by a British royal commission expected to recommend partition of Palestine into three states.

Extensive military preparations were made in case of an emergency. Lieut. Gen. Sir George Weir, commander of British troops in Egypt, arrived here to confer with Lieut. Gen. John G. Dill, ranking officer in Jerusalem. Seven British regiments, approximately 7,000 men, and about 3,000 police reserves were held in readiness.

It was believed that the Palestine commission's report would propose that Palestine be divided into a Jewish state, an Arab state and a territory under British mandate from the league of nations. The report's proposals will be made public at 11 o'clock tomorrow night.

Loudspeakers attached to radios and public address systems have been installed in all polling booths and all theaters, where performances will be interrupted for the announcement.

Both Arabs and Jews have shown strong opposition to the partition plan as it has been described unofficially.

YOUNGHUSBAND SUIT DEPOSITION PLEA IS GRANTED

Attorneys for J. Leslie Younghusband and his wife, Mrs. Lillian Hawes Carter Younghusband, who is suing for divorce, were given permission yesterday by Judge John C. Lewe to take depositions from residents of Florida.

The wealthy cosmetics manufacturer has met his wife's charge of cruelty with a counter charge, accusing her of misconduct. One of his witnesses, his petition states, will testify he saw one John Doe, clad in bathrobe and beach shoes, leave her apartment in a Miami Beach hotel last March 6.

Judge Lewe continued until Monday two other petitions. One, by Younghusband's lawyer, asks that the $125 a week temporary alimony be vacated, and the other, by her lawyer, asks additional solicitors' fees of $5,000.

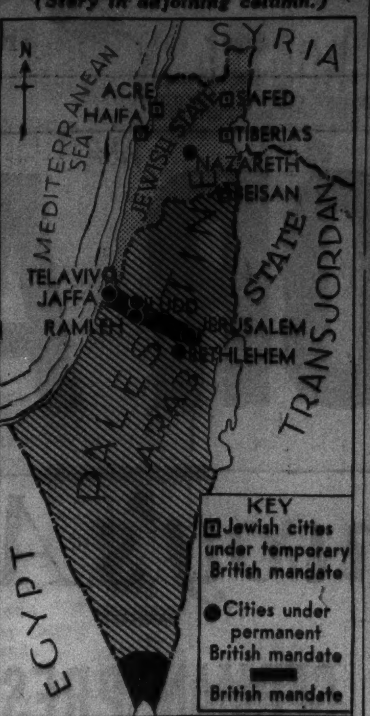
Uniforms were issued yesterday to 1,064 young men who reported for duty at the annual Citizens' Military Training camp at Fort Sheridan. About 250 more are to arrive today. Tomorrow morning the oath of allegiance will be administered by Col. Charles H. Bonesteel, post commander. Col. R. C. Rogers will be in charge of the camp, which will close Aug. 4. Starting today the cadets' routine will be: 5:45 a. m., reveille; 6, calisthenics; 6:30, mess; 7:30 to 11:30, drill; 12, mess; 1 to 4, supervised athletics; 5, mess; 11, taps.

Palestine Partition

(Story in adjoining column.)



Map shows partition of Palestine expected to be recommended under British plan to be announced today. There are to be a Jewish state, an Arab state linked to Transjordan, and a corridor which will remain under permanent British mandate.

EMPLOYES DOUSE LIGHTS OF CAFES IN PARIS STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 6.—About 9 o'clock tonight the Champs Elysees, Paris' famous boulevard, was hit by one of those sudden strikes which has characterized the past year of the Popular Front régime.

Three cafés—the elegant Rond Point, looking out on the famous La Lique fountains; the Marignan, favorite hangout of the movie folk; and the Colisee, red lethered, plate glassed café in the colossal manner of the Berlin beer hall—all near Place de la Concorde, suddenly turned out bewildered foreigners and doused their lights. Police, nightly bivouacked nearby for just such emergencies, rushed up to shoo away the guests and crowds of spectators. Employés demanded that the national 40 hour week be made to apply to them.

Fourquet's in the upper Champs Elysees, the swankiest of all Paris terrace cafés, also was temporarily affected. At the exposition five restaurants were closed by strike. Employés of hotels which are filled with exposition visitors threaten to strike Saturday.

DE VALERA FAILS TO GET MAJORITY IN IRISH ELECTION

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 6.—(AP)—President Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party failed to gain even a majority in the Free State's dail eireann election, complete returns showed tonight. The announcement was a blow to the New York born president, and political observers predicted he might call another election within a few months in an effort to get a clear mandate.

De Valera, however, won his fight for a new constitution cutting Ireland's ties with Great Britain. The country accepted the proposed charter by a vote of 686,042 to 528,296, the final tabulation showed.

De Valera's party won 69 places in the dail eireann [lower house of parliament], the same number taken by all the other parties together. However, one of the president's adherents will be speaker of the dail, who votes only in case of a tie.

Former President William T. Cosgrave's United Ireland party, took [illegible] places. Laborites won 13 and Independents, 8. In the old house, De Valera had a majority of four over all the other parties and a majority of 24 over Cosgrave's party.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF 3 LOS ANGELES GIRLS IS INDICTED

Los Angeles, Cal., July 6.—(AP)—The county grand jury tonight indicted Albert Dyer, former Works Progress administration school crossing guard, for first degree murder for the raping and slaying of three Inglewood girls.

As the indictments returned by the grand jury in special session were being read in court Dyer shouted out, "I plead guilty!"

District Attorney Buron Fitts said the indictments were voted in a few minutes after Dyer repeated to the jury his story of how he lured the three girls—Madeline, 7, and Melba Everett, 9, and Jeanette Stephens, 8—into the Baldwin hills, strangled them with a rope, and raped them. He said he would ask the death penalty.

SPANISH REBELS ROUTED IN FIGHT WEST OF MADRID

Franco Loses Ground Held for Many Months.

MADRID, July 7 [Wednesday].—(AP)—An official communique early today said a "very hard" battle was going on about 15 miles west of Madrid, where the government launched an offensive yesterday morning.

The struggle was fought around Villanueva de la Canada and Quijorna, and the rebels rushed up strong reinforcements, the announcement said.

The government said it had captured the town of Brunete after an early morning air bombing and held it, seizing 81 rebels.

The loyalists claimed an advance of 15 miles—which means a deep slash into enemy territory with a serious threat to the rebel forces besieging Madrid. The loyalists occupied positions which had been held for months by the rebels.

The attack began with intensive aerial action against the rebels' front lines and rear guard. A gasoline depot, 18 miles southwest of Madrid, was set afire and destroyed. Loyalist planes in a battle above Navalcarnero brought down two German made rebel planes.

Advance on Santander.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 6.—(AP)—Rebel dispatches from the northern front tonight declared Gen. Francisco Franco's army had pushed its north coast conquest into Santander province with the capture of two strategic pinnacles.

Troops advancing along the Bilbao-Santander road by way of Castro Urdiales overcame government forces and took Mount Castro Alen and four trench lines. The peak is a natural fortress 2,600 feet high on the border between Vizcaya and Santander provinces.

Mass Troops Near Teruel.

VALENCIA, Spain, July 6.—(AP)—Government observers reported tonight large forces of rebels, including Moors, were massing along the Teruel front. New troops, they said, were being distributed along the whole length of the rebel salient inland and north of Valencia.

The heaviest concentrations were reported at Villel, about sixteen miles south of Teruel at the confluence of the Reggio and Turia rivers. The Turia flows southeast to Valencia, a distance of about seventy miles on a straight line from Villel.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Gust Heft, 53 years old, 1201 West 47th street, a laborer, died in the County hospital last night after suffering a heart attack in a restaurant.

JAILED

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Enzo Fiermonte (right), boxer husband of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick, handcuffed to another prisoner as he was taken to workhouse in New York yesterday to serve term for old trafic offense.

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Enzo Fiermonte, who gave up the boxing ring for the society page when he married Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick, lost by a delayed count in Jamaica trafic court today.

He was given five days in the workhouse by Magistrate Gustave Wieboldt for ignoring a summons for speeding and having no operator's license, served on him on Grand Central parkway three years ago. In addition, he was given a verbal spanking.

Before he went down for the jail count, the impeccably dressed Italian floored a photographer getting ready for a picture. The photographer refused to make a complaint, accepting an apology instead.

Fiermonte not only ignored the original summons, but also evaded a warant issued for his arrest.

By sticking pretty close to his 600 acre plantation near Charleston—given to him by his wife as compensation for not going back to Italy to fight for Il Duce against the Ethiopians—the former fisticuffer was not disturbed by the law.

Then he came north and publicly announced an intention of competing in the second international Vanderbilt cup race. The authorities, whose memory proved good, saw to it that he was arrested at the Roosevelt raceway on July 1.

Mussolini Builds 60 New Airports for Military Use

ROME, July 6.—(AP)—An official announcement today said 60 airports, virtually all of them for military purposes, were under construction in Italy, a total of 25,000 workmen being employed in the project.

FRANCE INSISTS FASCISTS REJOIN PATROL OF SPAIN

Threatens to Cease Watch for Arms at Border.

PARIS, July 6.—(AP)—France tonight demanded reëstablishment of the nonintervention patrol around Spain on the threat of ceasing to guard her own southern frontier and thus allow arms and men to reach the Spanish government.

French officials declared both the naval patrol, disrupted when Italy and Germany withdrew in anger over alleged Spanish attacks on their patrol vessels, and neutral guard of the Portuguese border must be renewed.

Andre Charles Corbin, the French ambassador to London, was instructed to present the French stand at the Friday meeting of the 27 nation nonintervention committee, officials said.

France Fixes on Terms.

Conditions which France placed as a price for continued surveillance of the Pyrenees bordering Spain were outlined thus:

"FIRST—Naval control must be reëstablished under some form or other, but offering sufficient guarantees to be approved by the French cabinet.

"SECOND—Control of the Portuguese frontier must function as formerly or following a new formula of equal efficacy."

[An end of the Portuguese frontier patrol, which had been under the supervision of British officers, was announced by Portugal last week after disruption of the naval control scheme.]

Officials indicated that unless France's provisions are met by the neutrality committee France must feel obliged to end supervision of her own territory considering it unfair to permit the possible arrival of men and munitions to rebel Spain while the government frontier is closed.

Britain Moves for Compromise.

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—The British government moved toward a compromise tonight to break the deadlock over nonintervention in the Spanish civil war.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons:

"We have not only made our own proposals; we have declared our readiness to consider any other proposals that are just and fair."

British statesmen still were adamant in refusing to continue the nonintervention scheme without naval control, but informed sources said Lord Plymouth, chairman of the nonintervention committee, might not object to regarding observers without warships as constituting full-fledged control. Under this plan neutral observers in Spanish ports would be substituted for the naval cordon in waters around Spain.

Meets Italo-German Objection.

Informed sources pointed out that its merits were that the warship problem raised by Germany and Italy would be eliminated, while France and Britain would win their point for maintaining control. They said, however, the British government has not advanced this plan "as yet."

The British steamer Gordonia, bound for Santander, failed to reach her destination when confronted by a Spanish rebel warship. It was reported at first the merchantman had been stopped by the rebel vessel and two British warships steamed to her side.

The British admiralty later said the Gordonia's owners had instructed the ship to proceed to Bayonne for further instructions. The British warships, the admiralty said, "just happened to be there" and only observed the incident.

Government officials professed no alarm over the incident, pointing out that the board of trade yesterday warned the British shipping rebel vessels were trying to capture all shipping in the vicinity of Santander.

SEAPLANE OPENS MAIL AND PASSENGER LINE TO YUKON TERRITORY

WHITEHORSE, Yukon Territory, July 6.—(AP)—A big silver winged seaplane of the United Air Transport company reached Whitehorse last night to complete the first scheduled passenger and airmail flight from Edmonton to Whitehorse.

Arrows indicate route of new air mail and passenger service in Canadian northwest.

The trimotored plane, carrying six passengers and Pilot Grand McConachie, made the journey of approximately 1,000 miles in 16 hours and 40 minutes. After passing Grand Prairie, 250 miles northwest of Edmonton, head winds slowed the ship down to ninety miles an hour.

Weather Grounds American.

CLEVELAND FINDS 10TH BEHEADED TORSO IN RIVER

Cleveland, O., July 6.—[Special.]—The ghost of the "Mad Butcher of Kingsbury Run" rose again today to haunt this city as police were confronted with another torso murder mystery—the tenth in less than three years.

Parts of the dismembered body of the latest victim were taken from the Cuyahoga river, near the West 3d street bridge, this morning.

Five parts of the body were found, but the head was missing. Both thighs, cleanly severed at the hips and knees; the left upper arm and the lower portion of the torso were found just east of the bridge, almost within the shadow of the Terminal tower. The upper part of the torso was found wrapped in a newspaper dated June 22 inside a burlap bag.

Today's victim was found a short distance from the spot where the ninth victim, a woman, was found a month ago.

FINALLY DECIDES TO GIVE UP CCC JOB FOR $40,000

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—(AP)—N. Harold Barmon decided to resign today from a $30 a month job in a CCC camp, despite his 45 years, and take charge of a $40,000 inheritance. He decided after a Probate judge grew impatient at his delay in claiming the money.

Barmon inherited the estate from his mother last March. But, he explained, he had obtained an accountant's job last fall in a CCC camp, when he needed a job badly, and was loath to give it up.

When Barmon appeared today before Probate Judge Mitchell J. Henderson and still appeared reluctant to devote the necessary time to settling the estate, the judge took matters in his own hands and sent a telegram to the CCC camp at Warrensburg, Mo. Then Barmon agreed to resign.

Bomb Wrecks Priest's Home; Renews Porto Rican Strife

PONCE, Porto Rico, July 6.—(AP)—A bomb exploded today at the residence of the Rev. Father Aguilera, destroying part of the building, library, and furnishings. Bombings have been frequent since eighteen persons were killed in a clash at Ponce last March 21, Palm Sunday, between Nationalists, militant advocates of independence from the United States, and police.

PUNISH LAWYER EAVESDROPPING IN STATE HOUSE

Denver, Colo., July 6.—[Special.]—Colorado's sensational and much involved statehouse microphone scandal broke wide open today when the state Supreme court suspended Earl H. Ellis, prominent Denver attorney, for his admitted responsibility in placing secret listening devices in the offices of Gov. Teller Ammons.

This was the first action taken against any of the five persons involved in the "listening ins" in the governor's chambers soon after Ammons assumed office last January.

It is alleged that Ellis, with his private investigator, Jack Gilmore, and Walden E. Sweet, a Denver Post reporter, secretly placed microphones in the governor's office and that conversations heard in the executive chambers and in the apartment of Frederick E. Dickerson, Democratic attorney-lobbyist, were transcribed into lengthy records.

A special Denver county grand jury convened on July 1 to investigate the matter and it was understood tonight that the jurors began reading the transcripts.

The first witnesses called before the grand jury included Ellis, Gilmore, Sweet, Mrs. Jewell Methvin, wife of a Methodist minister and stenographer who took down most of the conversations coming over the wires, and Mrs. L. H. Shannon, another stenographer.

All of the conversations heard in the Dickerson apartment and in the governor's executive chambers have been kept secret. Why the instruments were installed remains unanswered by any of the participants.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Benjamin C. Hilliard of the Supreme court, held that Ellis' actions were potentially inimical to free government."

NAZIS FREE THREE PASTORS; NIEMOELLER TRIAL IS POSTPONED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 6.—The GSP [secret police] today released three Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] pastors who had been jailed on charges involving resistance to Nazification of the church. Those freed are the Rev. Mr. Mueller of St. Anne church in Dahlem, Berlin suburb; the Rev. Mr. Luecking of Dortmund, Prussia, and the Rev. Mr. Stein.

Prosecutors said the trial of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, Confessional leader and former world war submarine commander, who is in Moabit prison, has been postponed indefinitely. Niemoeller was allowed to receive mail and food from outside prison.

EXPOSURE FAILS TO SLOW SALE OF DEMOCRAT BOOK

Drive Continues in Spite of Law Evasion.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—Exposure of the Democratic national committee's sandbagging of corporations for political contributions in violation of the law has caused no cessation or even slackening of the committee's activities in this direction, it was learned today.

If anything, the campaign to collect sufficient funds from corporations and individuals to erase the party deficit is being pressed with even greater vigor. Additional canvassers are being sent into the field to tap those concerns that have profited from past or hope to profit from future government contracts.

Roosevelt Keeps Silent.

President Roosevelt, while waxing righteously indignant over evasions of tax laws, continues to condone by his silence his party's evasion of the corrupt practices act through the device of selling to corporations for $250 each copies of the Democratic convention book specially autographed by the President. This method of evasion was explained in a national committee letter.

The boldness of the continued violation of the law by the committee is due to the fact that the Democrats control the prosecuting machinery and through their overwhelming majorities in both houses can prevent a congressional investigation.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house, has received a deluge of information to support his demand for an investigation. Among the affidavits supplied him is one by Hildreth Frost, an attorney of Colorado Springs, Col., who told of a series of alleged reprisals with which he says he was threatened after he refused to subscribe $500 for 100 copies of the ordinary edition of the convention book.

Friendly Relations Ended.

Frost said that the Colorado Map, Abstract and Title company, which he controls, entered into a contract with the Denver office of the Resettlement administration in March, 1936, to supply abstracts of title to submarginal lands in the northern part of Teller county which the Resettlement administration was acquiring for a public playground. The Resettlement administration, he said, also accepted a number of options which he offered.

His relations with the Resettlement administration, Frost said, were friendly until he refused to subscribe for the convention book. He said he told the representative of the Democratic committee who called on him that he did not feel obligated to subscribe, as he was a Republican.

The Democratic committee's salesmen, the affidavit said, reminded him of the profits he had received from the administration and assured him that he would be "better off and would profit greatly in future business" if he made a contribution.

At first the salesmen, Frost declared, promised that two of the books would be autographed by President Roosevelt, and later, as an added inducement, hiked the number of autographed copies to five.

Frost, according to his affidavit, offered to pay $5 for a copy, but the Democratic salesman refused to consider anything less than $250.

Immediately after his refusal to subscribe, Frost said, "trouble began." He was visited by an attorney for the Denver office of the Resettlement administration.

Alleged Threats Listed.

The attorney in that visit and in subsequent telephone conversations "made a series of threats," which Frost listed as follows:

"A threat to cancel the contract with the abstract company. [This was later done by the Resettlement administration in Washington, Frost said in the affidavit.]

"A threat to dispute certain items in the bills.

"A threat to hold up the making of vouchers and the sending of them to Washington for payment.

"A threat to prevent, or greatly delay, the payment of vouchers.

"A threat to secure the use of WPA funds to set up a competing set of abstract books in Teller county, Colorado, to put my abstract company out of business.

"A threat that the resettlement people would put their own agents in the field to make abstracts direct from the Teller county records."

Judge Joseph B. David yesterday granted an uncontested divorce to Mrs. Rita Wilson Joost, 30 years old, from William H. Joost, 56 years old, wealthy retired head of a grocery chain. The grounds were cruelty.

A temporary alimony order of $175 a month was increased to $200. Recently the couple arranged a property settlement. Mr. Joost receiving his prized possession, a stuffed 18 pound wall eyed pike.

Several months ago Joost settled for $3,500 an alienation of affections suit filed by his wife's former husband, Fred H. Wilson, 2309 Devon avenue, a former employé. Wilson has remarried. Mrs. Joost, who lives at 6928 Wayne avenue, retains custody of a daughter, Norma, 7, by her marriage with Wilson.

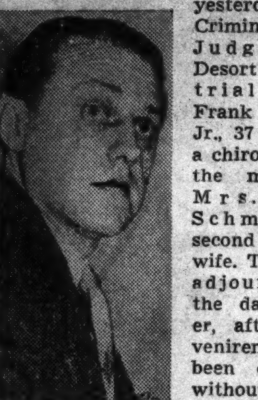
Selection of a jury qualified to inflict the death penalty was started yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Rudolph Desort for the trial of Dr. Frank J. Furch Jr., 37 years old, a chiropodist, for the murder of Mrs. Norma Schmidt, his second divorced wife. The session adjourned for the day, however, after fifteen veniremen had been questioned without one juror's being chosen. Both Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Meyers and Defense Attorney Samuel A. Hoffman used their peremptory challenges freely.



Dr. Frank Furch.

Attorney Hoffman indicated he plans an emotional insanity defense to combat the state's charges that Dr. Furch killed Mrs. Schmidt in her apartment at 317 Belden avenue last Feb. 26 because she refused reconciliation with him.

Mrs. Myrtle Furch, the defendant's first wife, and her two children, Joan, 14, and Buddy, 9, were in court, but Jacquelyn Schmidt, 11, adopted daughter of Mrs. Schmidt, who saw the shooting, was absent because of illness. She is expected to be the state's main witness.

BOOKS TO TELL CAREER, POLICIES OF ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has decided to prepare for publication early next spring a selection of various public documents in five volumes dealing with his administrations as governor of New York and as President of the United States. That was announced today. Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, an adviser, will help.

The object is said to be to demonstrate the continuity of Mr. Roosevelt's social and economic philosophy. The works are to be published by Random House and will carry his career up to his second inauguration.

PRESIDENT TELLS BUDGET PLANS FOR ECONOMIES

Cites 10% Cuts Asked of Departments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today announced he hopes to balance the budget in the present fiscal year, which began July 1, by a voluntary slashing of appropriations voted by congress.

Mr. Roosevelt revealed that in a letter June 23 to department heads he urged that each impound ten per cent of its appropriation and attempt to return the saving to the treasury. He estimated that if his wish is followed 400 million dollars will be saved.

For Layman's Balance.

The saving of 400 million dollars, he said, would achieve a "layman's balanced budget." Accountants still would hold the budget out of balance, because it would not include the 400 million statutory debt retirement item.

A saving of 400 million dollars would not have balanced the budget of the fiscal year which ended last June 30. The deficit for last year was $2,811,318,310.

The President explained that not every department could make a 10 per cent cut, but that some departments would be able to make greater cuts to set the general average at 10 per cent. The army and navy cannot be expected to cut pay, nor can they be expected to reduce rations from 45 to 35 cents a day, he said. Nor can the national debt cost be reduced.

Some reduction in activities will follow as a result of the budget balancing effort he said. He made it clear that the departments would not be policed by the budget bureau, but would direct their own economies.

Worried About Woman Flyer.

At the conference on the afternoon of his return from a five day visit to his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y., the President said he was very much worried over the plight of Amelia Earhart. He revealed that he had been following every step in the search since her plane was forced down.

He declined to comment on reports of a break with John L. Lewis, C. I. O. leader. He also refused to discuss a report that he had been approached by a senator with a proposal under which he would attempt to heal the breech between the C. I. O. and the American Federation of Labor.

Asked if he still was bringing pressure on Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] to run for mayor of New York, the President laughingly said that was another form of the "have you stopped beating your wife?" question.

He expressed hope congress will enact his government reorganization plan at this session and said he plans to send letters within a day or two to the chairman of the senate and house agriculture committees urging passage of the "ever normal granary" farm bill.

MAIL THIEF WHO POSED AS PRIEST GETS 3 YEAR TERM

Stanley Nemchausky, 23 years old, who donned a priest's garb to cash checks which he had stolen from mail boxes, was sentenced yesterday to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Charles H. Woodward.

Nemchausky pleaded guilty to a charge of theft from the mails and admitted he had cashed more than $2,000 in checks which he found in stolen letters during the last eight months.

Six weeks ago, according to Assistant District Attorney John J. Moreschis, Nemchausky rifled the mail boxes in the homes of two Catholic priests, the Rev. Father S. B. Goodwin, 1055 Loyola avenue, and the Rev. Father Edwin A. Dickenson, 7111 Constance avenue.

He then purchased priest's clothing and cashed two checks.

ROBINSON FILES NEW SCHEME TO PACK HIGH COURT

Foes Will Filibuster to Block Vote.

years old in August and is the foremost contender for the existing Supreme court vacancy, apparently was unabashed by this perilous approach to senility when he talked about "the failing powers," of justices who have reached the retirement age, and won't retire. As he put it "men are not always conscious of the time when they have passed the climax of their usefulness."

Age Limit Extended.

"I have often thought," said Mr. Robinson later, "that politics is not an occupation; it is a disease, and, by the eternal, when it gets in the blood and brain there is no cure for it."

Senator Robinson emphasized repeatedly, however, that age limit fixed by the substitute proposal is 75, instead of 70, as in the President's original bill. This seemed to be particularly pleasing to Robinson, for it would give him ten years on the bench, exactly the time of service required for retirement on full pay.

Senator Carl Hatch [D., New Mexico], who signed the judiciary committee's report severely condemning the President's bill, spoke today in favor of the compromise which he helped to draft. He said he had been deluged by letters commending his stand against the original bill.

Not Humiliating President.

These letters, Hatch said, contained such expressions as "Now is the time to humiliate the President?" "Now is the time to beat Roosevelt," "Follow up the report by impeaching the President." He denied vehemently that those who signed the adverse report had any intention of humiliating the President.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], another signer of the adverse report, also denied that any reflection upon the President was intended. He anticipated this argument on the part of administration leaders, saying:

"It is perfectly obvious to me that an effort is now being made to make it appear to the country that we are trying to humiliate the President."

VAN DEVANTER SURE COURT WILL WEATHER STORM

Philadelphia, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Bulletin, in a copyright dispatch from a staff correspondent at Simpsonville, Md., today quoted former Justice Willis Van Devanter as saying that "The Supreme court has weathered storms before and I am sure it will weather the present one.

"And when the court has weathered this crisis," he added, "the country will proceed in the prosperous way it did before.

"The people of the country have been greatly benefited and blessed by the constitution and I don't think they are going to give it up.

"And they cannot well do so without surrendering many of their liberties and advantages they have under it."

GPU TERROR HITS RED ARMY IN FAR EAST, JAPS HEAR

Report Hundreds Seized, Vladivostok Shaken.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 6.—Utter confusion prevails in Vladivostok, Russia's chief far east port, following the arrest of several hundred officers and soldiers of the soviet army by the GPU [secret police], according to reports received here today from Mukden.

Commander Victrov of the soviet Pacific fleet was reported among those arrested. Several GPU operatives were said to have been killed and scores injured. Large numbers of employés of the Amur river railway were arrested following the destruction of bridges.

Soviet Mutinies Reported.

A dispatch from Hsinking, Manchukuo, to the newspaper Nichi Nichi stated that Russian Dictator Josef Stalin's purging operations are spreading unrest in the soviet far eastern army all along the border. Mutinies were reported in several places and an ominous atmosphere prevails on the frontier.

From Harbin came reports that large numbers of Russians were entering Manchukuo seeking refuge. Manchukuo authorities were said to be endeavoring to prevent a further influx.

Semi-martial law prevails in many soviet areas along the Manchukuo border, according to the dispatch.

New Border Battle Fought.

MOSCOW, July 6.—(AP)—A government communique tonight said both sides suffered heavy casualties in a clash between soviet and Japanese-Manchukuan soldiers Monday.

[Last week a border dispute over Sennufu and Bolshoi Islands in the Amur river resulted in an armed clash and bitter diplomatic exchanges which ended in an agreement to withdraw armed forces from the disputed area. Tonight new tension arose in Hsinking, Manchukuo, over alleged new invasions by soviet forces. Hsinking dispatches said there were three clashes, not one, as reported in Moscow.]

The soviet version was:

A Russian detachment on the Vinokurka frontier observed Japanese-Manchukuan soldiers on soviet territory. The Japanese-Manchukuans opened fire and fled back toward Manchukuo, leaving behind knapsacks and munitions. Later the detachment opened fire from ambuscade on soviet territory. A clash ensued, resulting in a number being killed and wounded.

FEAR TWO DROWNED AS DOWNPOUR BRINGS FLOOD IN DELAWARE

Wilmington, Del., July 6.—[Special.]—Swept away by flood waters, two men are believed to have been drowned while Delaware experienced its most destructive wind and rain storm in forty years last night and today. Approximately 100 families were driven from their homes.

Crops on thousands of acres of farm lands were destroyed or badly damaged, bridges were washed out and virtually every important road in the state was under water, marooning long lines of motorists. Property damage was estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

British Plane Lands 3 Cent Air Mail in South Africa

DURBAN, Natal, South Africa, July 6.—(AP)—The Imperial Airways flying boat Centurion was groomed today for its return flight to England after inaugurating a new low cost airmail service between England and South Africa. The Centurion left Southampton June 29, and landed here yesterday. It carried nearly two tons of first class mail at the ordinary postage rate of three cents per half ounce over the 7,260 mile route. The flying boat Corsair left Durban Sunday on a pioneering flight to England.

JAIL FIREWORKS VENDORS; SAFETY DRIVE PUSHES ON

City Injury List More than Double That for 1936.

The campaign for a safe and sane Fourth of July continued in Chicago yesterday even after the close of the three day holiday which took a toll of 563 lives throughout the nation.

Vendors of illegal fireworks were fined and those unable to pay went to jail and police continued to track down others from information gathered from fireworks victims.

The nation's holiday death total included drownings and automobile accidents, and only four of the fatalities were attributed directly to fireworks. None of these was in Chicago.

Injury List Doubles.

Although fireworks did not bring death to any person in Chicago, the list of those injured by explosives totaled 158, more than double of last year's total of 61.

Three injuries were reported yesterday. Leo Bobrowski, 12 years old, 1521 Lincoln street, lost portions of two fingers when he stumbled while running from a firecracker some one else had thrown on the Foss park beach in North Chicago and fell with his hand on the firecracker as it exploded. Daniel Ritter, 12, of 3458 North Clark street, was burned by an exploding firecracker, and Leona Anderson, 22, of Kewanee, was burned by a firecracker tossed into an elevated train at the Fullerton avenue station.

Heaviest of the fines imposed on fireworks vendors here yesterday was one of $200 and costs meted out to Florian Pacanowski, 23 years old, a clerk in a grocery at 2301 South Sacramento avenue, by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Des Plaines street court.

Frank Hawski, 10 years old, 2329 South Sacramento avenue, who was severely cut on his face by a tin can hurled by an exploding firecracker, testified against Pacanowski, who could not pay the fine and was sent to the Bridewell.

Grocery Owner Fined.

In Shakespeare avenue court Judge McCarthy fined John Dominik, 48 years old, owner of a grocery at 3300 North Kildare avenue, $100. He, too, went to the Bridewell. Dominik testified he had fireworks only for his own children.

Mary Ann Maye, 20 years old, 267 West 22d place, was fined $100 by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in the Women's court. The penalty was suspended for six months, and another charge of selling fireworks against Mary Ann's sister, Albertin, 18 years old, was dismissed.

Woman Fined $1.

Robert Bougaer, 21 years old, 321 West 73d street, was fined $10 and costs for selling fireworks by Judge Cecil Smith in the Stockyards court, and a $1 fine was imposed on Mrs. Josephine Denkowitch, 10774 Stevenson avenue, by Judge Harold O'Connell in the South Chicago court for a similar offense.

Charges against Barney Schulman, 38 year old, 1330 Newberry avenue, and Michael Beeler, 26 years old, 849 Maxwell street, were dismissed by Judge McCarthy in Des Plaines street court for lack of evidence.

EX-TAVERN HOSTESS GETS 14-17 YEARS AS SLAYER OF HUSBAND

Manitowoc, Wis., July 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Letha Lester, one time roadhouse proprietor and hostess, was sentenced today to a term of 14 to 17 years in the state prison for the murder of her husband, Earl, last Valentine day. Judge H. A. Detling passed sentence after denying a new trial, for which Attorney Gerald Clifford had pleaded for more than an hour.

When asked by the court if she had anything to say, Mrs. Lester answered in a low voice: "I am innocent."

Mrs. Lester, who is 33 years old, is the first woman to be tried for murder in this county in nearly 50 years. She shot her husband, a world war veteran, as the couple returned from Green Bay, where she had followed and found him in a roadhouse bedroom with another woman, Kasha Newberger.

The trial lasted a week and the jury deliberated nearly 18 hours.

DROWNING HELD ACCIDENT.

Ickes Lives in Office to Escape Tiring Trips

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, prevented by recent illness from making daily trips between the city and his farm home 20 miles away, set up temporary living quarters today in his office suite in the interior department. The secretary of the interior was at his desk today for the first time since he went to Naval hospital about a month ago for treatment of a stomach ailment.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THUMBS DOWN ON EMOTION?

By CALEB

A GREAT American store with a long history has announced that it will henceforth use no flowery adjectives in its advertising copy. From now on, its advertising will carry only data—facts and figures.

That sounds commendable. Advertising copy should not exaggerate or unduly excite the reader. At the same time, we wonder if it is fair for any store to refrain from fully promoting the joys and satisfactions to be had by its customers in possessing very nice things.

We see no reason why heart appeals should be used in selling a can opener—or for that matter, moth spray, shoe trees, or spool cotton. But evening dresses, infants' wear, silk hosiery, piece goods, millinery, accessories, fur coats, furniture—these and many other things are a different matter.

Merchandise should set the tone of the physical surroundings in which it is offered and the tempo of the advertising copy which describes it. A terry robe for hall-walking may contain precisely the same number of yards of fabric and be of the same color as a breath-taking hostess gown. Described dispassionately, the terry robe might be done justice and the hostess gown and its potential possessor a grave injustice.

So long as the words are honest and sincere, why should there not be a flash and movement and music to copy descriptive of bright and sunny apparel? Why should not type compose a fitting paean of deserved praise for a misty negligee?

An antique oriental rug may contain no more colors and no glossier threads than an inexpensive but honest modern imitation. But what of its mellowed warmth, its shimmering beauty, and the incomparable delicacy of pattern wrought through months of artistry by tireless human fingers? Can data tell the tale of these?

In the extent that emotional appeals induce people who should have things to buy them, those appeals serve society and prosperity generally. In the degree their omission slackens sales and production, colorless selling performs a dis-service to society.

The fault with advertising is not that it uses emotional, picture-provoking words. The trouble enters when turgid and stirring copy is used to describe not what is for sale, but what the writer thinks the reader wants it to be.

200 INDICTED IN OHIO RIOTS AS PLANTS REOPEN

Troops on Guard as Men Return to Jobs.

Youngstown, O., July 6.—[Special.]—While steel mills reopened under the impetus of a back-to-work movement in Cleveland and Johnstown, Pa., the Mahoning county grand jury today returned indictments against more than 200 persons after investigating disorders and violence in the strike.

Among those named were Robert Burke, a former student at Columbia university in New York, and John Stevens, alias Stevenson, recently dismissed as an organizer by the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, the present spearhead of John L. Lewis' radical C. I. O. attack.

Burke is charged with rioting during the battles between police and strikers at the Republic Steel corporation plant here on June 10 and 19. Two men were killed in the latter riot.

Held for Rail Damage.

The indictment against Stevens charges him with ripping up railroad tracks when rail service into a plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company was disrupted. Others named in the indictment face charges of inciting to riot, carrying concealed weapons, and removing railroad property. All indictments were ordered served immediately.

"This grand jury is not through yet," declared County Prosecutor William A. Ambrose. "It has been investigating the strike violence for four days. We are receiving additional complaints and evidence of lawbreaking in the strike.

Under the protective guns of 1,500 Ohio National Guardsmen workers entered the three plants of the Republic Steel corporation at Cleveland, which had been shut by the strike for forty-one days. Only a few pickets were on hand to hoot and jeer.

Estimate Half Are Back.

Normally the mills employ 6,000. Company officials estimated 3,000 were back at work. C. I. O. leaders disputed the figures, asserting most of the returned workers were clerks and stenographers, not makers of steel, and that strike breakers were being imported from Alabama.

National Guardsmen, posted beside machine guns at company gates, were reinforced in the dangerous strike zone near the plants proclaimed by Sherif Martin O'Donnell, by 384 city policemen and seventy-five deputies.

PEACE PARLEYS FOR E. CHICAGO MILL COLLAPSE

More Payless Pay Days in Sight at Youngstown Co.

More payless pay days for the employés of the strike closed East Chicago plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company were threatened last night when a peace conference in Indianapolis called by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana broke up.

The company stood firm in its original position that the law provides for protection of workers who want to work and that the plant will not be reopened until Indiana authorities are willing to give that protection.

Menaced by Pickets.

Because of the menacing picket lines and the threats of Committee for Industrial Organization leaders, the company has been asking Gov. Townsend to send troops to safeguard workers who wish to return to the plant. The workers themselves and ministers of East Chicago have joined in the request, and Mayor Andrew Rooney of East Chicago has made a formal appeal for troops.

But the governor said last night, after the collapse of the conference, that he saw no reason for sending troops, as there had been no disorder as yet.

Truce Hoped For.

The governor, who last Wednesday night arranged a truce that brought reopening of the Inland Steel company's East Chicago plant, had hoped to effect a similar truce that would reopen the Youngstown plant, which, with more than 7,000 employés, is the only important steel mill in this area that is still closed because of the strike.

The Youngstown company sent to the conference A. C. Argetsinger, vice president and general counsel; R. M. Welch, assistant to the president; J. E. Daily, manager of the East Chicago plant, and George Zink, secretary to Daily.

Van A. Bittner, Great Lakes director for the Steel Workers' Organizing committee of the C. I. O., hurried to Indianapolis.

Company Representatives Leave.

The governor and Indiana's labor commissioner, Thomas F. Hutson, conferred first with the company representatives. But after two long sessions, the company officials departed, saying their position was unchanged. Bittner then conferred with the governor, but left after a brief visit to return to Chicago.

Employés, idle since the strike began May 26, have been clamoring for a chance to go back to their jobs for some time, despite efforts of the C. I. O. leaders who called the strike to keep them in line.

The employés are becoming increasingly bitter against the C. I. O. in view of the fact that they are kept idle by the C. I. O. leaders' tactics while employés of the Inland company and the Youngstown plant in South Chicago have gone back to work. The Youngstown South Chicago plant has the protection asked by officials, supplied by police.

Gov. Townsend's next peace move, it was announced, will be an arbitration plan.

WOMEN'S CLOTHING MAKERS PLAN FOR NEW YORK STRIKE

New York, July 6.—(AP)—The International Ladies Garment Workers' union tonight announced the joint board of the cloakmakers' unions had ordered a stoppage of fall clothing work Thursday in coat and suit factories throughout this city, affecting 35,000 workers in 2,000 factories.

The move, the announcement said, was due to the refusal of employers to insert in the recent tentative agreements a clause that work should not be sent out to factories of allied needle industries operating under lower work standards than those prevailing in the coat and suit industry.

The tentative agreement was reached last week as renewal of contracts which expired June 1, and called for an average 10 per cent wage increase and a 32½ hour week effective June, 1939.

SHERIF PROTESTS AGAINST TROOPS SENT TO AKRON

Akron, O., July 6.—[Special.]—Protesting that stationing of National Guardsmen in this rubber manufacturing center of the country may incite trouble in a peaceful community, Sherif Walter P. O'Neil today asked Gov. Martin L. Davey to withdraw the armed forces.

Akron is untroubled by the steel strike. Earlier Gov. Davey said he stationed the guardsmen here for shipment to strike areas as needed. Near Akron, in the Canton-Massillon district, officials were increasing police forces, hoping thus to speed withdrawal of state militia.

STRIKE TIES UP PITTSBURGH'S FRUIT SUPPLIES

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—Tonight hundreds of carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables stood neglected on railroad sidings as laborers, handlers, and draymen employed in the Pittsburgh produce yards voted to strike.

Railroad and city police were ordered to the scene, where strikers milled about the railroad yards in Pike street, not far from the downtown "golden triangle."

Police Inspector Dennis Hennessy said he expected "trouble" at 6 a. m. tomorrow when picket lines were to be formed, but added he had been assured by railroad authorities no attempt to unload the produce would be made before that time.

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed a bill permitting blind persons to take trained guide dogs with them on Pullman and passenger coaches.

C. I. O. Blocks Employes at South Bend Plant Gates

South Bend, Ind., July 6.—[Special.]—A strike today at the Bike Web Manufacturing company plant crippled production and threatened to cause violence. C. I. O. pickets sought to prevent employés from entering the plant. However, a few nonunion workers did get into the plant after police had been called. At the Campbell Box and Tag company plant negotiations were at a standstill as its strike went into its second week.

15 ARE INDICTED OVER FORD RIOT; HEARINGS START

Labor Board Considers Same Battle.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 6.—[Special.]—The fist fighting which occurred at the Ford Motor company's River Rouge plants last May 26, held the spotlight here today as a one man grand jury issued warants for the arrest of fifteen Ford employés involved in the mêlée, and the National Labor Relations board opened its hearings on complaints that the company is guilty of unfair labor practices.

Judge Liddy.

There was, however, no direct connection between the grand jury action and the labor board hearings. Common Pleas Judge Ralph W. Liddy, who was the one man jury, considered only the criminal aspects of the fight, and he charged the Ford company as a corporation and the defendants with "assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder."

Charge Wagner Act Violation.

The labor board, of course, was considering the battle only in its aspects as an alleged demonstration of the methods of intimidation and coercion used by Ford Motor company bosses to prevent workers from joining the United Automobile Workers' union. The union, which is an affiliate of John L. Lewis' radical Committee for Industrial Organization, has charged that the company prevents its 120,000 workers from enjoying collective bargaining as guaranteed by the Wagner act.

The warants signed by Judge Liddy upon the recommendation of Prosecutor Duncan McCrea, a Democrat who prides himself upon being generally known as a "friend of the U. A. W.," specifically charged the defendants named with the beating of Richard Merriweather, a member of the U. A. W. west side local which is leading the fight for organization of the Ford plants here.

AT FORD HEARING

(Story in adjoining column.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Richard Frankensteen (right), union official who was injured in riot at Ford plant, talking with Allen King, a Ford employe, before he was called to testify yesterday in Detroit at hearing of national labor relations board.

Everett Moore, head of the service department of the Ford Motor company, was the first individual named. Others were Wilfred Comment, a superintendent on the assembly line at the River Rouge plant; Samuel Taylor, a foundry foreman there, and Angelo Caruso, Warshon Sarkisian, Charles Goodman, Theodore Gries, Oscar Jones, and Russell J. Edick. In addition to these men there were warants issued for the arrest of "John Doe."

Called Professional Fighters.

In releasing the information this afternoon Prosecutor McCrea asserted that Sarkisian is a former professional wrestler, that Jones was a professional boxer competing under the name of Jackie Young, that Gries at one time was a wrestling referee. McCrea also said that Goodman has a long police record.

Judge Liddy has been investigating the fight which occurred when union leaders sought to distribute union literature to men coming off the afternoon shift at the plant, for more than a month. He had scores of witnesses testifying in his courtroom, among them Richard T. Frankensteen and Roy Reuther, members of the U. A. W. executive council, who were most seriously beaten.

It was considered strange here this afternoon that the warants did not charge the defendants with the slugging of these two union leaders. One theory was that their names were not brought into the warants issued today so that they will be free to appear before the labor board during the hearings which are expected to continue for the next fortnight.

The warants issued today were turned over to Deputy Sherif Tim Gavin for service and the defendants are expected to be seized tonight or early tomorrow and arraigned immediately. The warants are, in effect, equal to indictments in other states and the prisoners will be brought before a Circuit court judge for trial.

Attorneys for the labor board and the U. A. W., which is a party to the hearing, devoted most of today's hearing to introduction of documentary evidence. This was expected to lay the foundation for the jurisdiction of the board, to prove that the Ford company is engaged in interstate commerce, and that the company has issued "anti-union" propaganda.

To this Louis J. Colombo, head of the Ford company's legal staf, in this matter, raised a chorus of objections, all of which were overruled by the labor board examiner, John T. Lindsay.

Then the board, through Maurice Sugar, U. A. W. lawyer, began an effort to disprove the contention of the Ford company that the fighting on May 26 took place on property belonging to the company and invaded by the union organizers and leaders.

Ownership Issue Raised.

One of the first witnesses called to the stand was John K. Norton, an engineer of the Wayne county road commission. He was asked by Sugar to explain just what property around the River Rouge plant was public ground, what belongs to the Detroit street railway commission, and what portions of its belong to the Ford Motor company.

Then ensued a longe wrangle between the lawyers and the witness during which the topography of the battle ground was carefully explained. In effect it amounted to this:

The battle took place at gate No. 4, which opens on Miller road in Dearborn and less than half a mile from the Detroit city limits. At that point the Ford company has leased a large plot of ground to the street railway company, so that a dozen separate tracks have been installed on the east side of Miller road.

This has been done so that fifty or more street cars can simultaneously load or unload at that point. Perhaps half the men in the huge plant, which has a total pay roll of 87,000, come to and depart from work aboard the street cars.

The plant itself, however, is on the west side of Miller road, which lies in a north and south direction. So that employés will not be forced to dodge vehicular trafic on the street the Ford Motor company built a large overhead bridge with about a dozen stairways leading to it from the ground on the east side of the road. The bridge then extends directly to the second floor level of the automobile plants. The battle of Miller road, it seems, began when Frankensteen, Reuther, and others climbed the stairway to the overhead bridge and advanced.

This action, the Ford company contends, constituted trespass upon private property inasmuch as none of the union men was an employé of the company, and the bridge can be entered only from the ground owned by the company and leased by the street railway.

Who Owns the Bridge?

Sugar and counsel for the board, John T. McTernan, Laurence A. Knapp, and Christopher W. Hay, contend that the overhead bridge is not private property of the Ford company. They assert that the Ford company has leased the ground, the bridges, stairways, power lines, and other appurtenances of the terminal there to the railway company. By this token, they say, any person who can use the railway is entitled to use the bridge.

Sugar, at the beginning of the hearing, announced it was his purpose to prove this point, and he asserted that the Ford company had no right to protest the appearance of the union men on the bridge; that the railway company alone might have legally objected to their presence.

At the noon hour recess Norton, Examiner Lindsay, and all the attorneys for both sides went out to the plant and carefully looked over the ground. Norton brought a 200 foot steel tape and he and Lindsay carefully measured off distances at the gate.

Upon their return Norton testified that Miller road, a public highway, was 120 feet wide at gate 4, that the overpass where the fight began was 90 feet by 30 feet, and gave other detailed measurements.

Several witnesses were then called to prove that the Ford Motor company had placed several signs on the bridge on July 3—signs which read: "Private Property—No Literature to Be Passed Out at Any Time."

The signs were gone today.

Homer Libey, secretary of the Detroit street railway commission, then was called. He produced a series of agreements and suppplemental agreements which showed that the Ford company had leased the ground on the east side of Miller road to the commission. Sugar read most of the agreements into the record, and he asserted that these documents proved that the overpass had been leased by the railway commission.

The documents were worded so ambiguously, however, that those who heard the readings were in doubt about how they should be interpreted.

Colombo insisted that the agreements did not disprove the company's contention that the overpass was private, and he objected to their being accepted as evidence. This objection was overruled.

Attorney Knapp will call Frankensteen and Reuther to tell their stories of the fight tomorrow.

INLAND LAWYERS WIN FIGHT OVER HEARING RECORD

Labor Board Orders Report of All Arguments.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Acting on instructions from the National Labor Relations board in Washington, Charles A. Wood, the board's trial examiner, yesterday ruled that a transcript be taken of off the record arguments and discussions in the board's case against the Inland Steel company.

Thus the attorneys for the company won the substance of what they were asking when they withdrew from the hearing Saturday in protest against Examiner Wood's ruling against a complete transcript. The defence attorneys, however, will not be permitted to have their own stenographer take the proceedings.

Saturday's hearing broke up when the examiner ordered from the hearing room in the United State's court house a court reporter employed by the Inland attorneys. The reporter was ordered out after he had refused to stop making notes on discussions which Examiner Wood had ordered to be made off the official record. The importance of the point at issue lay in the fact that counsel rely on the record of the hearing in preparing any appeal to the federal courts from the findings of the examiner and the labor board.

Answer Goes Into Record.

Ernest S. Ballard, chief counsel for the Inland company, sent a telegraphic protest to the labor board over Examiner Wood's ruling, and yesterday inserted in the trial record a reply from Benedict Wolf, chief trial examiner of the board, stating:

"I am instructing the trial examiner to permit official reporter to make a full stenographic report of all off the record proceedings for use of the respondents. These matters not to be considered part of official transcript."

Examiner Wood, announcing his instructions from Washington, read a long statement in which he defended the exclusion of statements from the record as a disciplinary measure by which the trial examiner may confine argument within the proper scope of the case. He said he interpreted the Washington ruling as a partial granting of the petition by the Inland attorneys appealing from his ruling of Saturday.

Reporter Is Withdrawn.

Court reporter troubles continued tc delay the hearing. Examiner Wood had read his statement in the absence of counsel for the Inland company, and when they resumed their places in the hearing he instructed the official reporters to read to them the record of what had taken place in their absence.

Several times he corrected the reporter sharply on mistakes in his transcript, then asked that the head of the agency which has the official reporting contract appear before him. Following their conference, the erring reporter was withdrawn from the hearing and did not reappear.

C. I. O. Aid Resumes Stand.

Testimony was not resumed until the afternoon session. Then Stanley Sherman, secretary of two of the locals of the C. I. O. steel union which brought charges of unfair labor practices against the Inland company, resumed the stand.

Attorney Ballard renewed his request that the company be given permission to copy the list of members claimed by the union and met renewed objections from I. S. Dorfman, attorney for the labor board. In the course of arguments, Attorney Ballard indicatec that the company wishes to assemble proof that some of the alleged members have since resigned from the union, or that in some cases they might have been enrolled through coercion.

WORKER SUING C. I. O. FOR LOSS OF HIS WAGES

Noblesville, Ind., July 6.—[Special.]—The case of John W. Triplett against the United Auto Workers of America, docketed in court in this city today, raises the question of whether or not striking workers can legally keep those who desire to work out of plants by occupying the property. One hundred and fifty-five employés of the guide lamp division of the General Motors corporation are made party defendants.

Triplett alleges that the defendants had possession of the plant for two weeks during which time he was not permitted to work.

He asks judgment against all of the defendants for wages which he lost while he was not employed. It is said this is a test case to determine if an employé can be prevented from working by strikers although nothing in the complaint indicates such action.

HORNER SIGNS 41 BILLS; VETOES 8; 2 BECOME LAWS

Over 100 Other Measures Remain for Action.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner today disposed of 51 bills passed by the legislature, signing 41, vetoing 8, and permitting two to become law without his signature. More than 100 other measures remain for his consideration.

Most of the bills approved today were of a minor nature, but those vetoed involved topics on which the legislators had debated at length. The governor's negative action kept from the statute books:

1. The Easterday bill placing a one year limitation on the collection of double liability of bank stockholders. Attorney General Otto Kerner doubted its constitutionality and the governor held further that it would destroy a protection to depositors to which they are entitled.

Alien Pension Bill Rejected.

2. A measure sponsored by Representative Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago] which would have permitted payment of old age pensions to aliens who had lived in this country fifteen years and were otherwise qualified under the present law. The governor declared that not only did it constitute an inducement against naturalization but that funds were not available.

3. Representative Richard J. Lyon's bill to prohibit employment of women for tips only. This measure, designed to aid hat check girls, would have forced payment of a salary. Attorney General Kerner held it was unconstitutional as an impairment of the right of contract.

Tax Rate Proposal Vetoed.

4. A controversial measure to force increases in the corporate tax rates in downstate cities without a referendum vote, in order to meet new minimum salaries for policemen and firemen provided in other bills. The minimums, ranging from $150 to $175 a month, became law without the governor's signature. Because the cities must meet the minimums but cannot raise taxes above present levels, predictions were made that such municipalities may be forced to reduce their safety departments.

5. A measure to increase salaries for downstate county and probate judges. The governor declared that the probate judges had not suffered reductions in salaries during the depression, as had many other public officers.

Appropriation Bills Signed.

Another veto killed a bill introduced by Representative Richard J. Daley [D., Chicago], which also failed to win a constitutional opinion from Attorney General Kerner. It provided that if the principal of delinquent general taxes upon real estate had been accepted without interest or penalties, any uncollected interest and penalties would cease to become a lien against the property.

Among the bills signed were three making biennial appropriations of $681,620 to the office of the attorney general, $29,000 to Lieut. Gov. John Stelle's office, and $152,200 to the governor's office and the executive mansion.

Judge Dougherty Jails Four in Safety Court

Four motorists were sentenced to the county jail yesterday by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Safety court. Three received 10 days each for drunken holiday driving. They are William Badun, 24 years old, 2325 North California avenue; Vincent Baginski, 25, of 1753 Crystal street, and John Aponas, 24, of 8535 Buffalo avenue. The fourth, Fred Gauger, 27, of 914 Pine avenue, received 5 days for reckless driving Monday in Columbus park.

DROPS DEAD ON STREET.

John Happ, 60 years old, 3728 North Sawyer avenue, dropped dead, presumably of a heart attack yesterday in front of 4958 Lawrence avenue. The body was claimed by his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Laughlin, with whom he lived.

EVANSTON CRASH REPORT BLAMES 2D ENGINE CREW

Responsibility for the collision of two sections of the Ashland limited of the North Western railroad in Evanston last Friday was placed yesterday on Engineer William H. Schermerhorn and Fireman John Steiner in a report made by the Illinios commerce commission after an investigation. Schermerhorn and Steiner, who live in Milwaukee, were the crew of the locomotive of the second section, which crashed into the rear of the first section at the Davis street station.

At the railroad superintendent's office it was said Schermerhorn, who accepted responsibility for running through a block signal, had left the service.

Chicago Transit Chiefs Meet with Mayor Today

Mayor Kelly will seek a frank discussion of the whole question of unification of Chicago's local transportation systems in a meeting today with operating heads of the Chicago Surface lines, Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines], and the Chicago Motor Coach company. The meeting was called by Mayor Kelly last week following the failure of committees representing the elevated and surface lines to reach a basis for financial consolidation of the two systems.

Detective Freed of Death Charge After Accident

Detective Joseph Connelly, 42 years old, 7815 South Winchester avenue, was found not guilty of manslaughter yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort in a Criminal court bench trial. The case grew out of an automobile accident on Feb. 20 in which Mrs. Susan Van Allen, 64, of 9130 South Oakley avenue, was fatally injured. Questioned by his attorney, Michael Brodkin, Detective Connelly testified that his car skidded into the woman after hitting a hole in the street.

2 WOMEN KILLED, 8 HURT IN AUTO AND BUS CRASH

A second Chicago woman died yesterday afternoon of injuries received earlier in the day when a Santa Fe Trailways bus crashed headon into an automobile driven by Albert Goodson, 27 years old, 2523 Jackson boulevard, on Route 66 two miles north of Joliet.

The second dead victim was Mrs. Donald Black, 21, 1852 West Adams street, who succumbed in St. Joseph's hospital, Joliet. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Audrey Goodson, 27, wife of the driver, died at the time of the accident. Goodson, Black, husband of the second victim; Black's sister, Vera, and five bus passengers were injured.

The bus driver, Robert Karnes, 22, of Peoria, was charged with manslaughter and is being held in the Will county jail. Deputy sherifs said he was driving on the wrong side of the road. The Goodsons and Blacks were returning from a holiday trip.

Cash Bohrer, 49 years old, of 4146 Crystal street, was killed by a truck yesterday when he was changing a tire on his auto in Milwaukee avenue, in Northfield township. Bohrer, an adjuster for the American Paper Goods company, was returning with his family from a holiday trip. Erwin Kettner, '29, of DePere, Wis., the truck driver, was held for the inquest.

Driver Who Killed Boy Gives Up.

Sought since his taxi killed a boy on Friday, George F. Duffy, 49 years old, 2616 North Clark street, a Yellow Cab driver, surrendered last night to Lieut. Timothy Rohan of the Hudson avenue police. He was accompanied by Attorney George Crane.

In trying to pass another car in the 1800 block of North Clark street, Duffy's cab brushed the curbing where Robert Martin, 6, of 334 Concord place, was sitting, and killed the boy. Duffy told Lieut. Rohan that he became panicky and fled on learning the boy was killed. He was charged with manslaughter.

Vincent Lucas, 33, of 1450 Huron street, was fatally injured yesterday by an auto driven by Frank Rago, 27, of 543 North avenue, when he was crossing Huron street at Bickerdike street.

Woodrow Fullerton, 19 years old, 9838 Commercial avenue, died last night in the St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, of injuries suffered Sunday in an automobile collision at 127th street and Ashland avenue, Calumet Park. Anthony Tueselick, 19 years old, 9843 Exchange avenue, driver of the car in which Fullerton was riding, was ordered to appear at the inquest today in the hospital and to appear before a police magistrate in Calumet Park on July 14 on charges of disregarding a stop sign and reckless driving.

Mother Dies of Injuries.

Mrs. Frank Davis, 45 years old, of Joliet, died yesterday afternoon in the Methodist hospital, Gary, of injuries incurred earlier when the auto in which she was riding collided with one driven by Vincent Smith, 32, of 10101 Yale avenue, on the Lincoln highway 10 miles west of Valparaiso, Ind. Smith, Mrs. Davis' husband, and their three sons, Frank Jr., Lawrence, and Donald, were injured and taken to the hospital. Smith was held for the inquest.

To avoid hitting a pedestrian, Frank Levi, 27 years old, 2101 North Lockwood avenue, swerved his truck yesterday at Granville avenue and Broadway and crashed head-on into a southbound Broadway street car. Levi was seriously injured. He was taken to the Edgewater hospital.

From June 30, when the state legislature, because of a patronage feud, muffed its last opportunity to pass a drivers' license bill which has been effective in reducing motor deaths in other states, to 4 p. m. yesterday 12 persons had been killed and 319 injured in trafic accidents in Chicago. Between Jan. 1 and 4 p. m. yesterday 530 persons had been killed in trafic accidents in Cook county, according to the coroner's office. Of these, 411 were killed in Chicago, where 10,920 were injured in the same period.

THE PROPOSED BUDGET CHANGE.

President Roosevelt's committee on administrative management in a report issued last week proposed that a radical change be made in the method of appropriating funds for the operation of the federal government. If the committee's proposal is followed the President will be given blanket authority to spend a specified sum of money each year for whatever purposes he sees fit.

"Current budgetary control is or should be a responsibility of the President," said the committee. "This responsibility does not now rest squarely upon the President because of the improper distribution of powers in the present system of financial management."

What the committee calls the "improper distribution of powers" is the plan by which congress holds hearings to consider the justification for each item of public expense recommended in the budget by the President, and finally determines whether each item is worthy. If it be thought that congress is more willing to spend than the President it should be pointed out that rarely since the present system was adopted has congress appropriated a larger sum than the President recommended.

Under the prevailing system congress is the final authority which decides whether funds should be spent for a purpose considered desirable by the President. This is a plan which evolved from the desire of the people for insurance against burdens being imposed upon them without their consent, as expressed through their legislative representatives.

The exercise of financial control by the people's representatives "is very old," W. W. Willoughby, a well known authority, has pointed out. "It was specifically extracted from both King John and Edward I. It was violated occasionally by the Tudors, and was a crucial point in the struggle between parliament and the Stuart kings, culminating in the civil war of 1642-1649 and the revolution of 1688. The accession of William and Mary and the passage of the bill of rights settled finally the exclusive right of parliament to levy taxes and to authorize expenditures."

Nowhere except in the dictatorships of Europe does the head of a government possess the authority which the President's committee has asked for him. For, although the budgets under the parliamentary governments do not contain the detail which our appropriation bills do, there are other restraints which prevent the premiers from proceeding contrary to the wishes of the legislative branches of their governments. The very continuance of the government in office can be terminated quickly under the parliamentary system by votes of no confidence. The power of congress rests upon its power to withhold appropriations and to specify for what purposes public funds may be spent.

If what the committee recommends is good for the federal government it ought to be good also for the inferior governments. Some mayors we have had would have done even much worse than they did if they had held blank checks good for all there was in the city treasury. The Illinois legislature has just adjourned after appropriating nearly a half billion dollars. Power to spend that at a governor's pleasure would make the governorship a post of unlimited opportunity.

There can be no doubt that what the committee asks for the President seeks, for he has repeatedly sought to obtain lump sum appropriations. One lump sum grant was for 5 billion dollars and that sum was employed, as many will recall, with powerful political effect.

Under the dictatorships which have already swept away parliamentary government in a large portion of the world the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of governments are merged. The present congress, more particularly the senate, has already done much to thwart the progress of dictatorship here. It has given evidence of its determination to preserve the independent status of the judicial branch of the government. It must now defeat the vicious proposal of the President's committee on administrative management if it is to retain its own independent power.

AS MR. FARLEY DELIVERS THE MAILS.

Six unions of various hotel employés have fifteen San Francisco hotels shut down with picket lines outside and no service inside. When the strike began May 1 many of the 5,000 or so guests caught in it tried to serve themselves, but most of them soon tired of that and now only some of the permanent residents in the hotels remain, doing the best they can.

In a recent report on the situation the statement was made that "some of the guests still get food and other supplies by parcel post." Does Postmaster James A. Farley know of this infringement of his new postal regulation, adopted to keep workmen imprisoned in plants by C. I. O. fighting picket lines? Does he know that the service which the unfortunate workmen were denied is being given to the presumably well-to-do, if not affluent, Americans who are holding out in the somewhat luxurious surroundings of first class hotels?

Mr. Farley's point against the imprisoned workmen was that the plants did not customarily get the parcel post packages of food and that no unusual mail would be delivered. That made it tough for the men who wanted food and who were denied the service of the U. S. mails, although the parcels offered would have been taken to any other address than the one they bore.

If "unusual" is a word to be used to describe mail packages containing food addressed to men in mills, what word would Mr. Farley use to describe food packages sent into a hotel which, if everything were running, regards the service of food as one of its chief activities?

Mr. Farley is a nimble explainer and he might make the grade in this instance. He might even say that it had come to his knowledge that each one of the Americans so served by the mails in a hotel had proved his sound Americanism by purchasing one of the $250 books with the autograph of Mr. Farley's chief in each copy, and that also the hotels, as corporations, being permitted thus to make a political contribution which would be illegal in other form, have taken the bloc of books assigned them by him or his associates on the Democratic national committee.

It has been reported here of the Farley book agents that when they approach Chicago business firms they tell the citizen whose name is on their list that a purchase will put the purchaser on Mr. Farley's list of good citizens and that the good citizen may call Jim up any night and ask a favor of him, which will immediately be extended.

If this isn't an explanation of the freedom of the mails in San Francisco, maybe Mr. Farley has a better one.

ACHILLES AT UVALDE.

Mr. Garner has held to the principle that the Vice President should be seen and not heard, wisely, it would appear, even more for him than for most men who have been in his position. Once when he did reply to a question asking him how in the world he could get along with the outfit running the federal government he said something that made good reading everywhere except in Washington.

Now Mr. Garner has decided that he needn't even be seen. He not only is not heard on Capitol Hill but he has withdrawn his presence from the busy place, and, although he doesn't talk, he is causing a great deal of it.

Some of his cronies may know why he is taking so long and so mysterious a vacation in Uvalde, Tex., but others are wondering. It's beginning to be common gossip that Mr. Garner's absence from the halls of statecraft is intentional and intended also to have significance. It is supposed to be his way of saying that as a right winger in the Democratic party he has had all of the left wing he can stomach.

The Achilles simile should not be overelaborated. The V. P.'s tailor probably finds little of the Greek god in his patron's measurements, although we have no doubt that if Mr. Garner got his spirit up he'd chase any one around the walls of Troy until he caught up with him. The Achilles motif in American public life just now also suffers from the fact that the besieged are for the most part the people who want to work and who are in factories which our modern Greeks, both intellectuals and warriors, want to keep closed.

In a way Mr. Garner is doing a commendable thing. His absence may indicate that presently there will be a real split in the Democratic party, with the right handers socking the left handers and the left handers socking back. No ill to the country would come of that. For the present Mr. Garner has done something worthy of emulation. He has retired unto himself, and one of his recent pictures shows him as a poultry farmer. A whimsical Vice President, Thomas Marshall, came out of his befitting silence once long enough to remark that what this country needed was a good five cent cigar. Probably what it needs now is a good long vacation of a political sort.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.

An important transfer in the state department brings to Washington, as assistant secretary of state, George S. Messersmith, who relinquishes his post as our minister to Austria. Mr. Messersmith is one of our career diplomats of experience and distinction. Entering the consular service in 1914, he has served in Canada, the Dutch West Indies, Holland, Belgium, Argentina, and Berlin, and as minister to Uruguay and Austria. His promotion has been well earned and brings into Secretary Hull's immediate official staf an aid of demonstrated ability in both the consular and diplomatic services.

Editorial of the Day

SECURITY KILLS INITIATIVE.

[Burlington (Vt.) Free Press.]

President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton university raps the present day emphasis on social security as an ideal for youth:

"In our quest for happiness we are in danger of elevating security from the minor position in which it belongs to a dominant place in the scale of human values. by By confining its eyes to the limited horizon of security a nation may not only wither its own soul but act positively to defeat the economic as well as the spiritual security which it seeks. Preoccupation with security breeds insecurity. For society concentration upon security is suicidal, doomed to practical as well as spiritual failure. Each one of us requires the spur of insecurity to force us to do our best. Unfortunate he who has been born in security, double unfortunate is he who molds his conduct with security as his goal."

The young man who has courage and enterprise today to sell anything on commission is a rare bird. We venture to estimate that not one of the college graduates out of 100 in this part of the country cares to enter sales work where their ability to produce sales determines their day to day income. What has changed? Simply this,—they seek security. They will probably lose plenty of income and plenty of opportunity while they are pursuing anything so time serving and elusive as security. Meanwhile the boys with real gumption have less competition and much better opportunity than their parents. False notions even widely held cannot prevent change, progress, and growth of energetically and intelligently conducted business enterprises in this country.

One of our former gangsters, who might well have been ruined by repeal, as so many were, instead turned legit and is now part owner of a tavern. As such, he is a holder-up of the moralities and is much pleased that his wife and children go to church with some regularity. He often says so in the vernacular of his ex-calling. . . . END OF DREAMING.

Empty are all your dreams when I would hear
The salty wind and feel the tangy spray,
And see white sails dip low, then disappear
Beyond the curving water's lifted splay.

To join its iron throb along the pier
With what incoming tides will have to say.

When dreams no longer mark my east and west,
I shall resume my hours with homey things;
Forgetting that I felt against my breast
The urging beat of restless eager wings,
Then I shall listen as a good mate should
If you but talk . . . and I believe you would.

Why the Ice Cream Was Late.

(Campbell, Neb., Citizen, via Anon.)

Our morning Hooten Nanny became derailed Monday morning just west of the crossing in Russiatown, the cause being cattle grazing along the right-a-way. Buts Koch's big white faced bull disputed the right away but came out badly the loser. He was knocked down and the train trompt on him and rolled him for about fifty feet, and it is doubtful if he had a whole bone in his body. However he did succeed in causing the four front wheels to jump the rails, and the car bumped on the ties for almost a hundred feet. The rear wheels remaining on the rails. The train also hit a cow, but at last reports she is still going on all fours, but somewhat bruised up. Postmaster Balthazar went out with a car and retrieved the mails as did a few of the merchants who went after their icecream. An engine was sent for from Edgar and they made town about noon.

And the Irish were always, except in America, agin the government.

CONCEPTS change from generation to generation, and Mary Marie points out that the funny papers have now convinced the newest lot that the rolling pin is an exclusive weapon used by Amazonian ladies in the subjugation of mere husbands.

SIR: Recently the editor of the Hometown paper went with his wife to a movie. Tired after a hard day's work, he dozed and the good lady informed the occupant of the next seat she feared he would soon be sound asleep. The neighbor inquired if Ye Ed snored. "He does," said the lady, "and loudly—advertising is his business."

HEALTH RESPONSIBILITY OF EMPLOYERS.

EVERY employer is interested in the health of his staf. In order to maintain production and preserve the high standard of the product, every one about the "shop" must be mentally alert, possess good vision, and be free from aches and pains. A workman with a blinding headache cannot be expected to maintain top efficiency. Industrialists everywhere recognize the significance of physical well-being because perfection in the manufactured article counts for so much. A life may depend upon the strength of a bolt or the fact that the threads are cut true.

While some occupations are more dangerous than others, risks may be reduced to a minimum through the installation of protecting devices guarding the eyes, fingers, hands, and other parts of the body. It is generally agreed that safety campaigns have saved not only thousands of lives but ten times the number of potential disabilities. Most concerns have established, therefore, health centers of their own with a twofold objective: [1] that all employés shall be kept in optimum physical trim for their own sakes and that of their families, and [2] that the company shall be subject to the fewest possible days lost because of illness.

Every one should be willing to submit to a physical audit, as thereby disease, if it exists, is detected before much damage has been inflicted. In addition, the design is to fit the man or woman to the job; to evaluate his or her ability and to make certain that placing a person in a position of responsibility will not endanger co-workers.

Realizing that health education may be at a relatively low ebb in certain communities, many organizations have inaugurated a system of health instruction. Bulletins dealing with seasonal diseases, suggestions as to diet and exercise, and the hazards of ill health are set forth in simple terms. Furthermore, the sanitation of the plant is an example that speaks louder than words, and light, ventilation, cleanliness, adequate bathing and toilet facilities, lunchrooms, etc., all play a vital rôle.

There are two destroyers which careful checkups will help to conquer—tuberculosis and syphilis. The former may come on so insidiously that early detection is imperative. Practically every case that is identified in the beginning stage is certain of cure, and there is a reasonable chance of recovery for those in whom the infection is recognized late. This emphasizes the value of X-ray plates of all workers, particularly in the younger ages, who exhibit symptoms of fatigue, lassitude, or lack of zest. Such a procedure costs something, but it is one of the most important safeguards of health.

The time may come when routine blood tests will be demanded, as the untreated victim of syphilis is bound to face incapacity sooner or later. He will be obliged to stop work in order to fight a fire that has gutted the building [the body]. If a positive Wassermann is discovered at the outset the flames may be quenched before the conflagration has passed beyond control. As most of us realize, in its later stages this plague affects the nervous system profoundly, fogs the brain, and destroys the power to perform.

But to guard against these diseases one examination is not enough. Tests should be repeated every two or three years, with the instruction that the patient is to report to his private physician promptly upon the appearance of symptoms.

A man of 50 has the right to assume that he will live 20 years; a man of 60, that he will live 14 years. But one cannot ignore ordinary health standards and expect the maximum longevity. Every one should conform to rules of hygiene which are of common knowledge—proper clothing; good food; some attention to the mouth, the teeth, the digestive tract, and the skin, and enough rest to insure rebuilding of used up tissues.

RHEUMATIC FEVER.

Mrs. P. R. writes: What are the symptoms by which rheumatic fever can be recognized in children? My six year old runs a temperature of 100 degrees or more in the evening.

REPLY.

Symptoms of rheumatic fever include a temperature ranging from 100 to 102 degrees F., moderate fretfulness, malaise and some prostration, loss of appetite, sore throat, and pain in the joints. After the onset of the disease there are usually profuse sweats, great thirst, coated tongue, constipation, and scanty, highly colored, acid urine.

As in most infections the evening temperature is higher than at any other time of day. Hence a careful examination should be made as the cause must be found and eliminated if possible.

AIR SICKNESS.

O. T. writes: Would taking a glass of orange juice, toast, and coffee before a 5 hour air trip prevent air sickness? Should one suck an orange or a lemon? How about smelling salts? What could one give a 7 year old child to prevent nausea.

REPLY.

Unless you should happen to encounter "rough" air you will probably not be sick, and maybe not even then. Freedom from apprehension is more important than a light meal. If you think citrus fruits and smelling salts will help you, take them along. Children seldom suffer from air sickness.

PUFFY EYES.

O. J. K. writes:

1. What does puffiness under the eyes signify?

2. What causes the facial muscles about an inch under the eyes to twitch?

REPLY.

1. Slight puffiness may indicate merely that you are growing old; severe puffiness may indicate kidney or heart disease.

2. Habit spasms are often dependent on some mental habit. Occasionally, however, there is a real nerve irritation, especially of the seventh nerve, or one of its branches. If the symptom appears frequently more rest is in order.

DECAYED TOOTH.

F. Y. writes: I have had a badly decayed tooth for years but it has never caused pain. Should it be removed?

REPLY.

A badly decayed tooth is a source of infection and a menace to the general health. Its prompt removal is advised.

TWO MASTERS OF STUDIES IN LIMBS OF BROWN

From Across the Sea

BY ANDREAS BACKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway.—The first thing to attract the attention of the traveler arriving by boat at Oslo, Norway's capital, is the fortress and castle of Akerhus.

Akerhus is one of the most famous buildings in Norway, second in interest only to the cathedral of Trondhjem and the Häkonshallen in Bergen. It dates from the 13th century and was built by King Haakon V. He often lived there and later it became the residence of the kings.

The fortress has suffered many sieges, and in 1527 it was destroyed by fire. It was rebuilt and during the reign of Christian IV., somewhere about 1624, the fortress was repaired and has not been altered since.

That same year, Oslo, the old capital of Norway, was burned to the ground and King Christian ordered the population to move into a new town situated just below the Akerhus and protected by its cannon. He christened the new capital Christiania, by which name it was known until 1925, when it was renamed Oslo.

In 1716 the Akerhus was besieged by Charles XII. of Sweden, but it proved too strong for him and he was forced to retire. Now the fortress is just an "ancient monument". A good deal of money is spent in keeping it in repair and it is of course open to the public. Local festivals are held here and it is here that important foreign visitors are entertained.

The fortress contains "Liberty Bell" which was presented to Norway by American women to commemorate the separation of Norway from Sweden in 1905. This bell is rung only twice a year—on New Year's eve and on June 7, the anniversary of the historic separation.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence, follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Oak Park, Ill., July 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am the executor of an estate which has been turned over to a lawyer to be probated, but I would appreciate any advice or information you can give me on the questions following: The value of the estate is approximately $4,300—there being about $300 in cash turned over to the lawyer [after funeral bills were paid] and property which was sold by him through a real estate agent for $4,000.

1. What legal fee should be expected for the handling of an estate of this size? Does the court set this fee, or the lawyer?

2. How long after the estate has been taken to court for probating can we expect the money?

3. Will the lawyer furnish a full accounting of any money spent by him and deducted from the estate?

4. Since the property was sold by the lawyer through a real estate agent, is there any way of checking the price received for the property? L. S. W.

1. The Illinois statute says that the administrator's fee shall not exceed 6 per cent of the personal property. In our opinion the lawyer's fee should come out of this.

2. Ordinarily an estate should be closed shortly after the year for filing claims.

3. Yes, in the sense that a final account will be filed in court.

4. One way would be by getting in touch with the purchaser.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROBATE OF WILL.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would sincerely appreciate it if you could answer the following questions for me:

1. What steps are necessary in order to probate a will?

2. Can an heir be an executor of the will?

3. Is there any set fee for the services of an executor? A. S.

1. In the narrow meaning of the term, the word means merely proving the will in court. If you mean the administration of the estate, we can hardly outline the entire procedure for you.

2. There is no legal objection.

3. The Illinois statute says not over 6 per cent of the personal property.

A BRICK IN THE BOUQUET.

Chicago, July 2.—Please accept my appreciation of your editorial in today's issue, "Some Acts of the Legislature." This leads me to say something I have deferred saying for a long while which I want to get out of my system, and it will express the same thought of most of my friends, who have frequently said to me what I am going to say to you. They, like myself, are Republicans most of the time.

There is not a better newspaper than THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in all America, and there is not in all America a newspaper which is less esteemed than THE TRIBUNE. That ought not to be. In addition to being the best newspaper, you make the best appraisals of political situations. Because of these two virtues you ought to be the most beloved newspaper in all America.

The trouble lies in the way you state your cases. You don't like the C. I. O. and hence there is nothing you can say good about this organization, and yet it must contain literally hundreds of thousands of men who are just as sound in principle as you and the rest of us try to be. There is nothing too bitter for you to say about it, and Mr. Orr's cartoon in the same issue expresses this bitterness in its most ideal form.

The result of these overstatements—wholly rabid in their expression—is that you cause a reaction in the minds of many of your readers to an extent that they refuse to believe even that which they may know to be true. A man as well as a newspaper should not be overzealous of his virtues, and the only time this occurs is when there are overstatements of a given fact or situation.

The public wants to know the truth no matter whom or what it concerns, and if it is told the truth there will always be enough people who will form true judgments that they will constitute a majority whether Democratic or Republican.

Your editorial referred to gave the Illinois legislature credit for having passed some good laws even though it consists mostly of Democrats. Would it not be equally right that you should be equally fair in all things you publish and give the readers a chance to form their own judgments as to the right and wrong of an event? You have the same right, of course, but it is the manner in which you state it that causes your paper to be less esteemed than it should be.

It gets my goat to have to buy the New York Times in order to get both sides of the case when we have right here in Chicago a far better paper. Of all the institutions that deal with public affairs and seek to influence public opinion, a newspaper should be the one which more nearly reflects a true situation and an honest opinion. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is capable of doing both. Why won't it? W. W. WILLIAMSON.

THEM COTTONWOODS.

Chicago, July 2.—Perhaps if M. E. M. found it his unappreciated privilege to rake his yard several times a week, pick the cotton which accumulates on rosebuds, etc.; ferret in among the growing plants in beds to eliminate the long strands which bear the cotton and seeds, and, lastly, to eliminate the countless millions of plants which spring up from these seeds in flower beds and walk borders, he might not consider the request of Mrs. N. S. that all cottonwood trees be destroyed as quite so foolish. Even the screens in windows and doors become so thickly covered with this flying cotton they must be cleaned. There are many beautiful trees which do not make the nuisance of themselves the cottonwood does, and I think I speak authoritatively, as there is one in the yard next door to us which is absolutely a nuisance to all the people in the block. I think Oak Parkers were wise when they voted to cut down all cottonwood trees.

A COTTONPICKER.

WAGES AND PRICES.

Chicago, July 1.—Fellow worker, to my conception logic inescapably shows that labor leaders fail to perceive that it's economic futility to call workers out on strike for an increase in wages so long as there is a power above—the government fixing prices which we as consumers must pay. What good is a 3, 5, or 10 cent an hour increase in wages when that increase is invalidated over night in so far as the grocer, the butcher, the clothier, the shoeman, fuel, and the landlord are concerned?

If our labor leaders were as fundamentally interested in the principles of unionism as they are in seeking membership, then organized labor would, to my comprehension, get somewhere. By this I mean the trend which is prolonging the depression, curtailing employment, and suppressing right and initiative can only be explained by laxity of leadership in the principles of unionism, which to my mind is due to selfishness and stupidity.

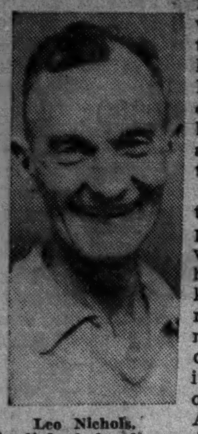
AN ODD JOBS MAN FOR 20 YRS. GETS $650,000 LEGACY

Plans to Buy House, Big Auto, and Visit Denver.

La Porte, Ind., July 6.—[Special.]—It was a long, hard pull. Some times he thought he wouldn't make it, the way his debts kept piling up. But he stuck it out during the lean years with an odd job or two.



Leo Nichols.

His wife and two daughters plugged along with him. So did his creditors. He kept his self-respect. He did not accept relief or private charity. He never was on the WPA rolls. And in the end he licked the depression.

Tonight the face of Leo Nichols, 48, is one vast grin. He said he received word from District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles, Cal., that he is to receive an unexpected inheritance of $650,000 from the estate of a great-uncle who made a fortune in the '49 gold rush.

Goes to Work as Usual.

"The Lord helps those who help themselves," said Nichols as he went, as usual, to his job as night watchman at the Gardner Dairy Equipment factory.

"Ella and I have had a hard time and a lot of bad breaks," he said, "but we're in the clear now."

Then, as his mind toyed with the size of his inheritance, he said: "I'm flabbergasted. I hardly can believe it."

Wife Visits Her Neighbors.

Mrs. Nichols was flying about among the neighbors, accepting congratulations on her good fortune. One daughter is Olive Belle, who lives with them. The other, Mrs. Harlan Wright, wife of a young farmer.

"First off I'm going to disappear completely, starting tomorrow," declared Nichols. "Already a flock of people have started telling me how to invest my money.

"When I get the first payment of $100,000 in August, I'm going to buy a big auto and a house for Beverly Jean and her parents. Then Ella and I are going out to Denver for a year. I've always wanted to see Denver. We'll travel for a while, then invest our money, and come back here."

$20 a Week His Top.

The best job Nichols ever had was in a Milwaukee munitions plant during the war. After that he moved here, and never has made more than $20 a week.

"I piled up a lot of debts during the depression, trying to keep my head up and off relief," said Nichols. "My creditors stuck to me. Now they'll find my word was good."

His inheritance comes from Joseph Daniels, who died 25 years ago.

Casts Doubt on Fortune.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 6.—[Special.]—Word that Leo Nichols of La Porte, Ind., had received news of an inheritance of $650,000 from a relative who had been in the California gold rush met with doubt here. District Attorney Buron Fitts declared that neither he nor any member of his staff knew of such an estate for which an heir was being sought. As far as the local newspapers were concerned, they were unable to confirm the story.

"The names Daniels or Nichols mean nothing to me," the district attorney said, "though there have been several inquiries about them today and about a supposed will that we never heard about out here."

HAT FLOATS TWO DAYS IN RIVER; UNDER IT IS FOUND BODY OF MAN

Osseo, Wis., July 6.—[Special.]—Sunday a gray felt hat was noticed floating in Beef river, but as it was out of reach, no one paid any particular attention. For two days it floated slowly about, changing position constantly. To day it came nearer shore. The hat was pushed aside with a pole, revealing the head of a man. Condition of the body indicated it had been in the water more than a week. He was a stranger and no marks of identification were found.

OVERCOME BY EXHAUST FUMES.

Harold O. Jarvis, 31 years old, was overcome by motor exhaust fumes yesterday after riding from St. Louis to Chicago on a truck. He collapsed in a restaurant at 5100 South Kedzie avenue, and was taken to the County hospital.

ROOSEVELT PICKS CHICAGOAN TO BE ENVOY TO SOFIA

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—Ray Atherton of Illinois, counsellor of the American embassy at London, was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be minister to Bulgaria. Grenville T. Emmet, former law partner of the President, was nominated to be minister to Austria.

Ray Atherton.

Mr. Atherton, a career man in the diplomatic service, left a Chicago architectural firm in 1916 for the state department. He has served at London since 1924.

Mr. Emmet was a law partner of the President in the firm of Emmet, Marvin & Roosevelt in New York City from 1920 to 1923, when Mr. Roosevelt resigned from the firm. Since 1934 he has been minister to the Netherlands.

C. I. O. ON SHORT END OF BAKERY VOTE IN PHILA.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 6.—[Special.] The American Federation of Labor defeated the Committee for Industrial Organization today in a collective bargaining election in the baking industry in Philadelphia.

With close to a 100 per cent vote recorded, employés of the Freihofer Baking company expressed preference for the A. F. of L. by 631 to 519. Workers at the Ward Baking company cast 111 votes for the federation to 35 for the C. I. O.

The result not only obligates the C. I. O. to renounce its newly signed contracts with these companies but also to ask the General Baking company, which has not been involved in the election, to release the C. I. O.'s Bakery Workers Industrial union from a closed shop contract.

Son of Former County Judge Righeimer Fined $1

Righeimer's father, a former county judge, who got his first ride in a patrol wagon when he protested the arrest, was not in court.

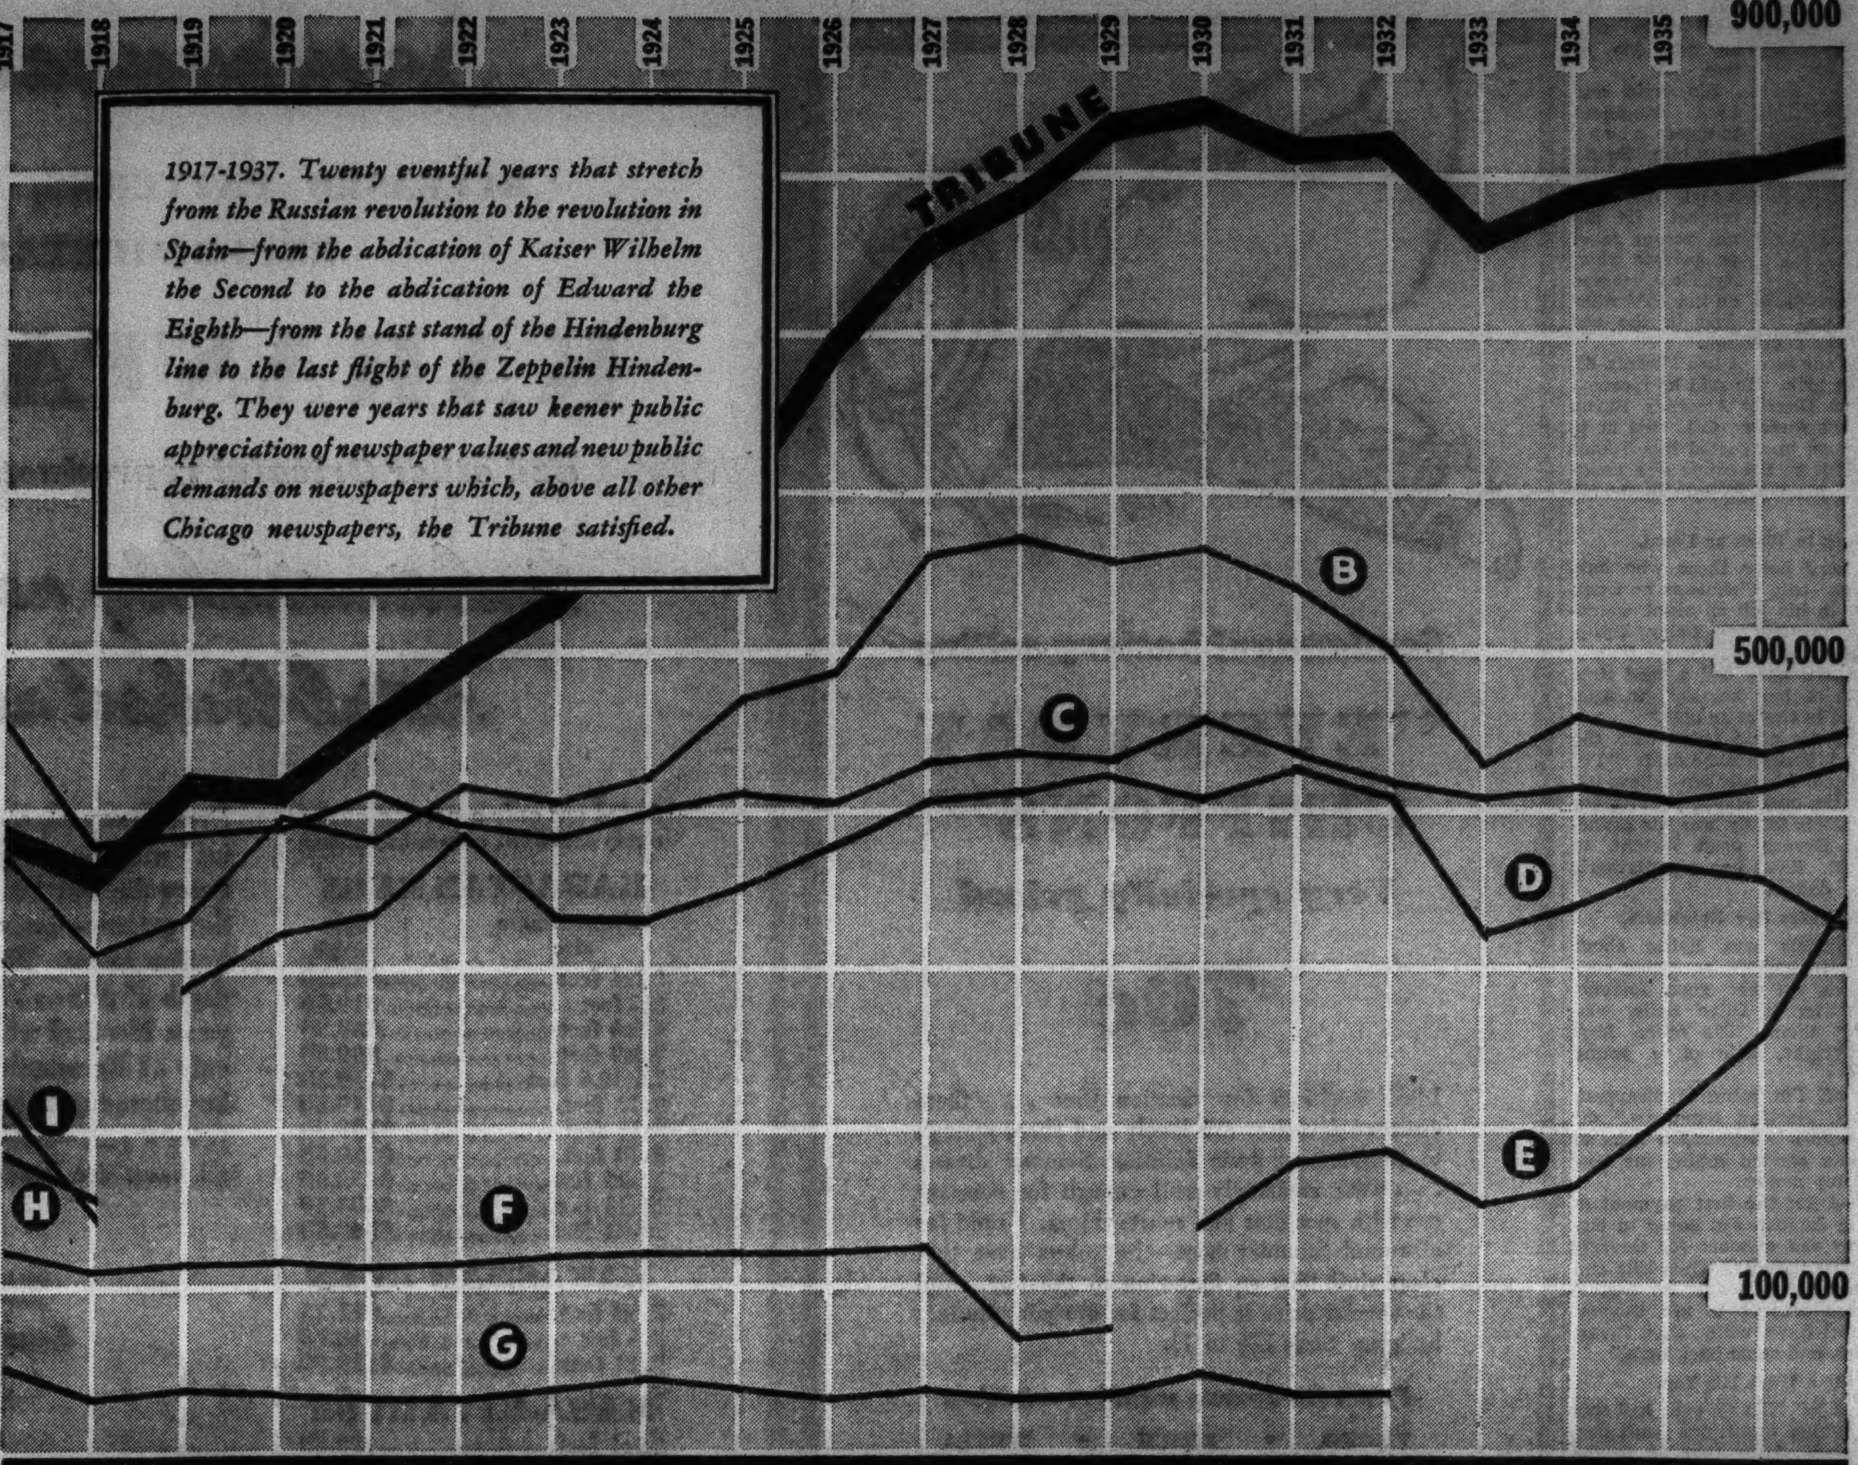
A 20-YEAR HISTORY

of Circulations of Chicago Newspapers



BOTH the short term view and the long haul perspective benefit advertisers. Knowledge of new developments coordinated with a familiarity with well-established trends enable the advertiser to buy space more effectively.

The chart and figures on this page report conditions today and the changes in the total daily circulations of Chicago newspapers during a period in which headlines blazed the news of two major depressions and five presidential elections—a full generation in time and, in the history of the majority of going concerns, a major span large enough to obliterate from consideration all but the basic facts.

This dynamic period offered to all Chicago newspapers the same opportunity to win new thousands of readers.

The chart shows how one Chicago newspaper capitalized this opportunity to the full.

It shows the steady progress by which the Chicago Tribune, from its 1917 status of second in the field, doubled its circulation and attained to its present position of leadership in total daily circulation as a result of an uncompromising policy of printing the news.

Today Tribune total daily circulation stands at 822,486. This is 375,016 more than the total daily net paid circulation of any other Chicago newspaper—an all-time high in reader preference for the Tribune.

In the 1917-1937 period Tribune total daily circulation increased from 395,442 to 822,486—a gain of 427,044, or 108%.

This is a gain over seven times greater than that of any other daily newspaper in existence in 1917. It is a gain practically as large as the present total daily circulation of any other Chicago newspaper.

Between the lines of the chart may be read a fundamental truth about the newspaper business: People buy a newspaper first of all to get the news. They want it while it is fresh, not history.

They want first-hand accounts written by competent full-time reporters, not press bureau handouts slanted to suit the purposes of some individual or organization.

Because the Tribune delivers in attractive format the most comprehensive coverage of the news, it is the only newspaper today which delivers majority coverage of all the families in metropolitan Chicago.

Because it prints the most provocative editorials and the most appealing feature departments, comics, cartoons and photographs, the Tribune today reaches practically as many families as any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined.

A newspaper's effectiveness as a medium for selling the products of advertisers is in proportion to its ability to sell its own product. What the advertiser gets out of a medium depends on what the editor puts in.

As the Chicago newspaper which has achieved the most success in widening the market for its own product, the Tribune is best able to help merchants and manufacturers widen the Chicago market for theirs.

HOW COURAGEOUS CHICAGOANS KEEP OFF RELIEF LISTS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Many Chicagoans who were thrown out of work during the depression five years ago now are pulling themselves out of the rut by finding other employment, even though it be menial and unlike their former jobs.

There are nearly 80,000 cases on the county's relief load for July, but other persons have had the courage and persistence to find work rather than become burdens to the taxpayers.

Experiences of some of those people who were proud enough and industrious enough not to resign themselves to careers as relief clients, were told yesterday by case workers and officials of employment agencies.

Turn to Resourcefulness.

The experiences reveal a tenacity and resourcefulness in contrast to the attitude of following the course of lease resistance, which has been adopted by many of those on relief.

At their own requests, the names of those people, who are pulling themselves from the brink of poverty, are not published. Few of them, however, had any experience in the jobs they now are doing.

A former minister in a small farming community came here several years ago when his congregation was broken up. He and his wife and their three small children live in the vicinity of Clark and Center streets.

Start Sandwich Service.

To make a living the former minister and his wife started a sandwich service. She purchases the meat, cooks it, and makes up loads of sandwiches in baskets. Her husband travels from factory to factory during the lunch hour, selling the sandwiches and has built up a business which nets him $25 a week.

This case came to the attention of a case worker for the United Charities of Chicago. Several of the former minister's neighbors are receiving charity, but he never has made any such request.

Near the Union stockyards lives a woman whose husband died several years ago, leaving her and their four children penniless, after they always had enjoyed comfortable circumstances.

Spurns Relief; Scrubs Floors.

Disdaining an opportunity to go on the relief rolls, the woman went to work scrubbing floors in an office building. She managed to send two of the older children to high school and they now are working their way through college.

The Illinois state free employment service pointed to the case of a college graduate, a chemist, who was thrown out of work a year ago. The employment service had nothing to offer along the lines in which he was trained, so he accepted work as a bus boy in a coffee shop. Three months later he was assistant manager in the shop. A few months ago he became manager of a loop restaurant. He is 30 years old and lives near Ontario and State streets.

Another case is that of a man 60 years old, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident in 1932. He had been well-to-do, but when he finally recovered a year ago he had no money left. He found a job as elevator operator in a north side hospital—a type of work he never had done before—and he now is head of the night crew at the hospital.

A war veteran, 47 years old, living on the near north side, came to the free employment service three months ago. He had experience as a sound technician but was out of work and his family was broken up.

Takes Temporary Job.

He took a temporary job as porter in a chop suey house. A few weeks later he found a job with a film manufacturing company.

Although he is handicapped by defective vision, his ability as a sound technician was recognized by the film company. His family has been reunited.

A girl, 17 years old, with a high school education but no special training, a year ago was faced with the prospect of going on relief when her father died. She and her mother lived in a shack in an alley on North Halsted street. The girl found work as an assembler with an electric clock company.

GOVERNOR SIGNS MILK PRICE LAW FOR WISCONSIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., July 6.—[Special.]—A bill which not only extends but broadens the power of the state department of agriculture and markets to fix fluid milk prices both to producers and consumers in Wisconsin was signed by Gov. Phil La Follette today.

Under the 1935 Griswold milk price fixing law, which expired on July 1, that state department was authorized to regulate prices in all cities of the first, second, and third class, and in cities of the fourth class down to a population of 5,000. Smaller municipalities came under the law only by petition.

The new law, pushed through the legislature during the last hours before adjournment last Friday noon, makes no distinction. It authorizes the department of markets to go into any commodity regardless of size and fix producer and consumer prices if, in its own judgment, it regards such an order as necessary.

Iron Lung Fails to Save Young Man with Paralysis

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—(AP)—James Mickey, 24 years old, died today of infantile paralysis in an "iron lung" to which he was rushed 250 miles from Lincoln, Neb., Sunday night. He was the son of Prof. Clark E. Mickey, head of the civil engineering department at the University of Nebraska.

Coushatta, La., July 6.—(AP)—Jessie Pepper told a coroner's jury tonight that she had killed May Elvin Allen, her lifetime chum, in Monday's "gossip slaying" in a cow pasture near here only after being shot at, slapped, and beaten with a club.

The story of the 17 year old girl was corroborated in some details, denied in others, by additional witnesses. When she finished, the verdict of the jury was that Miss Allen, also 17, "came to her death by gun wounds at the hands of Jessie Pepper."

H. H. Allen, father of the dead girl, announced he would file formal charges of murder against his daughter's chum. A second warant today charged her mother with "assault, intention of murder, and assisting in murder."

On the witness stand, Mrs. Allen, mother of the slain girl, disclosed the cause of the quarrel.

"They had been telling lies on Elvin," she testified. "She spent a month with her Uncle Bill in Vivian. Jessie told that Elvin had a baby while up there. She told Elvin's fellow, Percy Methivin."

Wife Granted $10 a Week Pending Divorce Hearing

Although he was an automobile salesman, said Mrs. Evelyn Kulan, 23 years old, 7411 South Peoria avenue, her husband, Anthony, refused to take her for a ride, saying this privilege was reserved for cash customers. At the request of her attorney, Victor Frohlich, Judge John C. Lewe awarded Mrs. Kulan $10 a week pending a hearing on her divorce bill charging cruelty.

SHOWBOAT CAST GIVES UP ITS TOUR AFTER COLLISION

Rammed accidentally Sunday by the United States naval reserve boat, Hawk, the showboat Dixiana, tied up at Michigan City, Ind., yesterday became a showboat without a show. The "Tobacco Road" company of actors, after viewing the wrecked stage and scenery, decided to leave for New York. The play, banned in Chicago by Mayor Kelly, had been given nightly on the Dixiana at Michigan City since June 11.

The crash occurred when a control stuck on the Hawk, commanded by Capt. O. F. Heslar, preventing it from changing course. The reserve boat, an old yacht, was returning to its station after a week-end training cruise.

The Dixiana, a part of Chicago's theatrical life for several years, was leased this year by the owners, Floating Theater, Inc., to Sam H. Grisman and Jack Kirkland, producers of "Tobacco Road," for a Great Lakes tour.

WOMAN IS KILLED BY C., B. & Q. TRAIN AT CICERO DEPOT

The body of a woman killed by a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy suburban railroad train at the Cicero station, Cicero and Ogden avenues, yesterday was identified in the county morgue last night as that of Mrs. Bertha Hess, 47 years old, 4734 Grace street. Her husband, Walter, said Mrs. Hess had been ill for three years. She leaped or fell in front of the train, as it was slowing at the station.

ATTORNEY FAILS TO PAY ESTATE; GETS 6 MONTHS

Attorney Samuel Feciura, 46 years old, 6822 Fullerton avenue, was sentenced yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell to six months in the county jail for failing to repay $924 to the estate of his brother, Peter, a former druggist, who was adjudged incompetent in 1932. According to Peter's wife, Martha, and her attorney, W. R. Matheny, Feciura would drop in at the drug store at his own suggestion to pick up deposits for the bank. But instead Feciura diverted the funds to his own use, they said. An order to make good the shortage was entered last March 12.

SHAWNEETOWN READY TO MOVE TO HIGH GROUND

Model City to Be Erected on Nearby Site.

Shawneetown, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—Shawneetown, one of the oldest communities in Illinois and twice ravaged by Ohio river flood waters in the last quarter of a century, is preparing to move.

The actual work of removing the Gallatin county seat to higher ground adjacent to the Shawneetown High school will begin this month, a government authority disclosed here today. The high school is situated on Illinois route 13 about three miles west of the town's present site.

Completed engineering estimates indicate that two years will be required for the project. Drawings and plans have been made and a model for a new town is on display at Shawneetown. The model was prepared by a woman architect, Mary Long Whitmore of Metropolis. Her plans were accepted by the Gallatin county housing authority.

New Step for Housing Board.

The relocation of Shawneetown, with its 1,400 inhabitants, marks the first time the state housing board has used the powers which are enabling the Gallatin housing authority to launch condemnation proceedings if necessary.

Rebuilt on its new site, the town will be free of all flood menace. No part will be on ground less than 400 feet above sea level, and all will be 25 to 50 feet above the point reached by the crest of last January's flood. The new town will be laid out as a model city.

Purchase of a site was made possible through funds to be forthcoming from the state department of public works and buildings. The biennial appropriation for the department was increased $150,000 so that the state could buy the site of the present town for a state park.

Other Assistance Given.

The Federal Housing authority, the Disaster Loan corporation, the Home Owners Loan corporation, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation have guaranteed assistance. In addition, rehabilitation grants made by the Red Cross will aid in establishing flood sufferers in new homes.

All buildings will be constructed for permanence and each home will be modern in design. Various types will be available, and families financially able may buy homes of more expensive design.

The design of the new city is revolutionary. Main street will be 100 feet wide. Bordering it will be a five foot side walk. Inside this walk will be a thirty foot parkway, planted in grass and trees. Between the parkway and business houses will be sidewalk 12 feet wide.

GIRL'S TRADING ACCOUNT ENTERS MRS. HALL'S SUIT

An accountant testified yesterday that a $3,500 balance remained in a $29,000 trading account in the name of Miss Bernice Cwik, 23 years old, secretary of Charles L. Hall, wealthy publisher of horse racing tip sheets, and that Hall had access to the account.

The witness was called before Justice George W. Bristow of Paris, Ill., sitting here in Superior court, by Attorney Benjamin H. Ehrlich who contends Hall covered up his assets when his wife, Cathryne, recently won a divorce and an $80,000 settlement.

Pending Hall's appeal, Mrs. Hall has received none of the settlement except $60 a week. The hearing on her petition for a larger sum was continued until tomorrow. Miss Cwik has been named by Mrs. Hall in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit.

TO SIFT RESIGNATION OF CHICAGO COLORED BOY FROM ANNAPOLIS

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—The resignation of George J. Triver, colored youth of Chicago, from the naval academy at Annapolis, Md., will be investigated by Representative Arthur W. Mitchell [D., Ill.], only colored member of congress, he said today.

Mitchell said he had made an appointment with Acting Superintendent Todd of the naval academy to discuss the resignation. The congressman quoted Triver's mother, who lives here, as saying she did not know why the boy resigned. Mitchell quoted the superintendent as saying that Triver made no complaint of mistreatment when he resigned. The boy explained that he realized he was not fit for naval service, Todd added.

"Another Negro whom I appointed to the academy was railroaded out of it," Mitchell declared. "And I want to find the facts in this case. They said the first boy, James L. Johnson, Jr., was deficient as to eye sight, English and deportment, all of which was a lie."

RAILROADS JOIN BATTLE AGAINST GRASSHOPPERS

Denver, Colo., July 6.—[Special.]—Elimination of the "bug bowl" with its billions of grasshoppers in Colorado and Wyoming has been made the chief objective for the past weeks of railroads, farmers, WPA workers and even Colorado National Guardsmen.

While hundreds of men and trucks have been pressed into action in mixing, carrying, and spreading the poison to kill the insects, which already have devastated hundreds of acres of farm lands, railroads added to the offensive their lethal weapons of fire-belching weed burners. The burners throw a singeing blast onto the hoppers along the rights of way.

RECORDS FALL AS AMERICANS GO SIGHTSEEING

50 Pct. Gains Reported by Travel Agencies.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

Gains as high as 50 per cent were recorded by the travel industry in the first six months of 1937 over the same period of 1936. The increases applied to both the foreign and domestic fields.

That was shown by a survey yesterday of the railroad, steamship, airplane, and bus agencies in Chicago. The figures did not include the record breaking totals rung up over the three day Fourth of July holiday.

Some of the facts disclosed:

In the period ending July 1 approximately 13,000 more persons sailed for Europe aboard ships of the Cunard-White Star Line than in the first half of last year. Carryings this year were 49,562, as compared with 36,639 in 1936, a gain of 35 per cent.

Four Carry 4,670 Passengers.

In the last few days of June four eastbound vessels of the French line carried 4,670 passengers—a figure not equaled by that company since the boom days of 1929.

There were more than 7,000 passengers on six ships of the Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd between June 26 and 30. This surpassed all previous records made by that company.

Between June 25 and 29 more than 3,500 persons embarked on or debarked from steamers of the Holland-America Line, thereby hanging up another new mark.

Ninety-one ships will leave New York, Boston, Montreal, and Quebec for European ports this month. That makes an average of nearly three a day.

Rail Trafic Grows.

The western railroads operating out of Chicago showed increases up to 25 per cent last winter, and expect to do even better this summer.

One of the Great Lakes steamers leaving Chicago last Sunday morning had to turn down 200 applications for space.

Business is so good in the national parks that the Lake hotel in Yellowstone has reopened to take care of the overflow. It had been closed since the beginning of the depression.

Many of the cabins and hotel rooms at Mammoth cave in Kentucky have been reserved for months in advance.

FIRST CHICAGO 1936 TAX BILLS IN MAILS TODAY

Chicago taxpayers will begin receiving their 1936 property tax bills today. The first of the bills for the city, which were placed in the mail yesterday, were for South township which includes the loop district. Bills for the rest of the city are expected to go out in the next two weeks.

The real estate tax bills for South township show an average increase of 9.84 per cent over the 1935 bills, while the personal property bills are up 9.2 per cent. The total 1936 real estate bills for the township aggregate $26,607,725 against $24,213,837 for 1935, while the personalty bills amount to $15,779,088 compared with $14,449,527.

The tax rate for city townships is $9.52 for each $100 of assessed valuation against an average of $8.37 last year. Although the rate is at a record high, the tax bills are considerably under those of seven or eight years ago, due to decreases in assessed valuations.

Aurora Magistrate Parks on Left Side; Fines Self $1

WED IN SWEDEN

Prince Charles of Sweden and Countess Elsa von Rosen, a commoner, who were married yesterday.

STOCKHOLM, July 6.—(AP)—Prince Charles of Sweden sacrificed any chance of inheriting the throne today. He married Countess Elsa von Rosen, a commoner. The nephew of King Gustav V. of Sweden and brother of the late Queen Astrid of the Belgians lost his title and prerogatives in the Swedish royal family.

He acquired a new title, however, becoming by royal decree Prince Charles Bernadotte. His bride, daughter of the Swedish court master of ceremonies, became Princess Elsa.

Prince Charles was the third member of the Swedish royal family in recent years to forfeit his crown rights for love. The new princess, seven years older than her husband, who is 26, was divorced in 1935 from M. Aglos von Rosen. She has three children.

Four in Sisterhood Leave to Teach in Kaiseng, China

Four Sisters of Providence—two of them Chicagoans and two Chinese—left Chicago last night to teach in the high school in Kaiseng, China, operated by the order. The four sisters were graduated last month from St. Mary's of the Woods college in Indiana, where they were trained for the sisterhood. They are Sister Theodata, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Haggarty, 1322 Albion avenue; Sister Mary Evangela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill, 3010 Fullerton avenue; Sister Agnes Joan of Kaiseng, and Sister Bernadette of Peiping.

READIN', WRITIN' AND PERSONALITY LAND THE JOBS

Employers Put Scholarship Second on List.

They've landed jobs—128 June graduates of the University of Chicago. They're glad now, they can tell you, that they burned the midnight oil. There's only one thing more important than a good scholarship record, they've found, to a young man looking for a job.

That's personality.

There's no course in it. There's no defining it. Those young men with jobs wouldn't say it's knowing when to wear tails and when to wear a tux. They wouldn't say it's knowing how to wear sport clothes well or when to play a customer's game of golf.

They might say it's looking as if you knew all those things, and more.

Aided by Placement Board.

The 128 with personality and a place on the pay roll aren't the only June graduates who've found jobs. They're the ones whose jobs came through the university's board of vocational guidance and placement, headed by Robert C. Woellner, executive secretary, and John C. Cannon, placement counselor.

Mr. Woellner and Mr. Cannon disclosed yesterday that the 230 men of the June graduating class who asked their help in finding work learned this:

Big corporations hiring college men are most interested in personality. Scholarship comes next. The employers prefer men who come from the upper 20 per cent of their class. Men who've been debaters, or editor of the school paper, or class officers have an advantage. It helps, too, to have an athletic record.

Formal Education Ended.

The jobs found by the 128 are principally with banking houses, insurance firms, and manufacturing corporations such as steel and rubber companies. Having won bachelors' degrees, the 128 have completed their formal education. Others of their class will take higher degrees in preparation for professions.

The average pay the 128 will get at the beginning is $115 a month, with a range from $100 to $150 a month. At the worst of the depression the average for the university's graduates was $75, and the jobs, even at that average, were scarce.

That's a good start toward the first million.

Out of Work 10 Months; Gets Job and Falls Dead

Elizabeth, N. J., July 6.—(AP)—Unemployed for ten months, George Ditzel, 50 years old, got a job as a night watchman today and fell dead as the boss was explaining his duties.

Shoulders Are Key to Wearing Clothes Well

Miss Donnelly Gives You Some Posture Tips.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we promised to speak today of the "clothes shoulders" that have come to be of such recognized value in movie scouts' search for future box office attractions.

What are clothes shoulders? It's a good phrase, isn't it? You recognize those shoulders at once, although you may not be able to diagnose them. You recognize them instinctively in women who wear clothes with a particular air of distinction. The dress may be picked off a bargain rack, but if you have the clothes shoulders you can fool all of the people all of the time about its cost. More, you have the well known "air" which makes you distinctive looking, too. You carry your head better and you walk with the awareness that bespeaks poise, youth, and lightness.

We get into the habit of thinking of shoulders as erect or rounded, something to be whacked at and thumped to keep on the upright track. A good way of thinking, at that, if thinking reminds us that we are slumping ourselves. But thinking of them as clothes hangers is an even better idea for the sex that is vain about its clothes, at least. If it is a nice frock we take pains to see that it is put on the closet hanger so there'll be no wrinkles or shoulder bulges when next we go to don it.

Let us think of our shoulders in the same way. Make them de luxe hangers. If they're rounded, as you know, they'll crinkle and wrinkle the frock. If they're thick they'll ruin it. If they're hollowed out, again the dress line will be spoiled. But thinking about them as clothes hangers isn't enough. You must begin further away to whip them into shape. You don't force them back on their own momentum, really. They won't stay, for one thing, and the military erectness is not milady's charm.

You have to work them loosely and easily. But you'd better begin away down at the toes, get them pointed straight ahead, pull the abdomen in, raise the chest, and let the shoulders fall where they may, with the head held with prideful erectness.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

SLAM MATHEMATICS READJUSTED BY PSYCHOLOGY.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Outside of the question of the delicate plays involved in many slam contracts, the longer one plays with a weak player against strong opponents the greater the mathematical probability of disaster. Therefore, with an inferior partner and superior opponents a small slam should not be bid on an even chance, such as a blind finesse. With a superior partner against inferior opponents a small slam should be attempted on slightly less than an even chance for success, and a grand slam with slightly less than a 2 to 1 chance.

TODAY'S HAND.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The following hand will, I hope, interest you as an example of turning dummy into the long trump hand.

South, dealer.

NORTH
♠ K 10 5
♥ A 8 6 2
♦ K Q 8
♣ 8 7 5

WEST
♥ Q J 10 9
♦ J 7 6 3

EAST
♠ 6 3 2
♥ K 7 5 4

SOUTH
♦ A 10 5 2
♣ J 10 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

"West opened the heart queen, which North won with the ace. A club was led, which the king won. The heart jack was returned and declarer trumped. A spade to the ten put the lead with North, for a second club, which the queen won.

"East could see no better way of getting declarer's trumps out of the way than a third heart lead. The last club was won by the ace, and the last heart returned. Declarer trumped. Declarer led his last trump, threw the lead into dummy with a diamond, led dummy's king of spades, and the last two tricks were won by high diamonds.

"Yours truly,
"W. G. P., Champaign, Ill."

Dummy reversal undoubtedly was the correct technique on this hand, but the declarer's precise method of effecting this reversal left a great deal to be desired. It was not only unnecessary but highly dangerous to put on defenders the onus of leading hearts for the declarer to ruff. They might not have been so accommodating.

After West won the club king the return of a heart was all right. But when declarer ruffed this, entered dummy with the spade ten and led another club, East certainly should have seen the light. At this point the situation was as follows:

NORTH
♦ K Q 8

♥ 10 9
♦ J 7 6 3

EAST
♥ K 4
♣ Q 9

SOUTH
♠ A Q J
♥ None
♦ A 10 5 2
♣ J

Now, the low trump lead by East would have cooked declarer's goose. He would not be able to draw trumps without loss and, at the same time, ruff out all of dummy's hearts.

South's technique went astray at the second trick. After winning the heart ace a heart should have been returned and ruffed, then a low spade led to the ten spot. A second heart ruff should be followed by the cashing of the spade ace, which would reduce dummy to the spade king, East to the six, and South to the queen. A diamond to the queen, the ruffing of dummy's last heart with the spade queen, another diamond to the king, and the cashing of dummy's high trump, while declarer discarded a club, would complete the correct dummy reversal process without having depended on the enemy for assistance.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: South opened the bidding with one no trump. Opponents did not bid. North responded with three no trump. What should South do now with:

♠ A 9 4 ♥ A 8 3 ♦ A Q 7 3 ♣ K Q 7?

Answer: Pass, as partner was not strong enough for a forcing takeout.

Good Morning!

The apparent ambition of producers to make Robert Young appear as screwy as possible is again realized in this opus.

The entirely ridiculous story discovers him going about the business of being a nutty good Samaritan to a pretty girl employed in a ticket office, and her backward insurance salesman fiancé to whom she's been engaged for five years. . . .

The hectic night he and she spend batting around here, there, and everywhere—for reasons the picture shall disclose—results in the breaking of two engagements and the formation of a new one.

The picture is a crazy conglomeration—sometimes funny and sometimes not. But you do like the players, and so, forgive the scenario writer much.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Mary Jane Wegg is one of the Frederick J. Weggs' attractive daughters. She will be one of the coming season's debutantes, unless her parents decide it is better not to combine a debutante season with a school career and send her to Pine Manor Junior college. The Weggs are making tentative plans for a trip to California later this summer.

Through the Looking Glass

PARIS.—[Special.]—"Pedicure Chinois" is a placard you'll find hung out all over Paris. It is the fashion, and has been for some years, for the French woman to have her pedicures as religiously as she has her manicures—and the Chinese pedicure is by all odds the favorite.

There is something utterly luxurious about a good pedicure. It makes one feel rested as well as beautifully turned out. And the Chinese pedicurists, who are so popular in Paris, pride themselves on their skill in giving the perfect foot massage to top the treatment. They, as one French woman explained to us, seem to have almost boneless but strong hands which make the massage a ritual of relaxation.

In the Chinese pedicure each toe nail is cleansed, shaped and lackered as the finger nails are in the regulation manicure. The aim is to have one's toe nails as flawless in shape and in texture as one's finger nails. The cuticle is tenderly pushed back, the nail itself oiled and creamed and buffed. Each toe is manipulated to preserve or to encourage an attractive as well as a healthy toe-line.

Lacker to match that on the finger nails is usually worn—and with the open toed sandals popular here this is usually of a dark shade. Each foot is massaged with cream or a friction lotion for as long as fifteen minutes, at the end of which the foot is snow white and the skin satiny.

Here the pedicurist steps pretty much into the chiropodist's territory. Where at home we consider the pedicure merely ornamentation and the chiropodist session the best bet for corrective treatment, the Chinese pedicurist of Paris is inclined to combine both fields. Whether or not that's a good idea we can't say—but we will say that the French woman's foot is apt to be more attractive and certainly better tended than her American sisters.

Crisp Spinach Is Featured in a Quick Meal

It's to Be Used Fresh in a Healthful Salad.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Fresh, crisp spinach, delicately flavored summer squash, and cold, succulent watermelon, a triumvirate of refreshing summer foods, take possession of the business woman's quick dinner for today.

Spinach is about the most inexpensive vegetable on the market now, and it is delicious not only cooked and served with a little bacon fat and vinegar, but raw, as a salad ingredient. It's as a salad, or part of a salad, that spinach is used in this menu.

BUSINESS WOMAN'S DINNER
Breaded Veal Round — Baked Potatoes
Fresh Spinach and Hard Cooked Egg Salad
Sautéed Summer Squash
Cinnamon Rolls [Bakery]
Watermelon — Coffee

To prepare the veal cut in pieces for serving and dip each piece into diluted egg. Roll in fine seasoned bread or cracker crums. Brown in hot fat on both sides, reduce the heat to very low, cover the pan closely, and allow the veal to cook until tender.

There are excellent baking potatoes available now. Their skins are smooth and firm and they need little washing. In order to save time medium potatoes rather than large ones may be selected for baking. They should be well brushed with unsalted fat before they are placed in the hot oven, so that the skins will be tender enough to eat.

The most common summer squashes are the scalloped "pattypan" and the Italian zucchini. The latter somewhat resembles a cucumber. If the skins are tender, the squash may be cut in pieces and cooked without paring. Seeds of young squash are good, too, but if any of the seeds seem particularly large, they may be scraped out. Squash should be cooked only until tender, in boiling, well salted water. Overcooking gives a mushy, unappetizing product. When the pieces may be easily pierced with a fork the water may be drained from the squash and the vegetable is ready for sautéeing in butter.

To make the salad, the spinach leaves, carefully washed and dried, are chopped rather coarsely and combined with sliced hard cooked egg. A French dressing to which a little chili sauce has been added is excellent for use with spinach and egg. A little finely sliced green onion and chopped pickle may be added to the plain dressing if chili sauce isn't available.

The only important point to mention in connection with the service of watermelon is that the melon should be fully ripe and very cold.

Hutchins to Assist St. John's in Revival of Liberal Education

New York, July 6.—(AP)—Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, announced today he had accepted appointment to the board of governors of St. John's college in Maryland in order to assist in "a revival of the ancient purposes of education."

He said the Maryland school "is an excellent place to try out the idea of educating people to live, instead of to earn a living."

Stringfellow Barr, who succeeds former United States Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock as president of St. John's, and Scott Buchanan, the new dean, served for the last year on a University of Chicago "committee on liberal arts" which has drawn up a report on how to revive the ancient liberal arts education.

Dr. Hutchins predicted the undertaking at St. John's "might be a turning point in American educational history." Four young men from the University of Chicago and one from Oxford in England are being added to the faculty in addition to the new dean and president.

"There will be emphasis on the classics—not on the languages but on great books," he said. "We want to get away from present liberal arts courses which are dreary because they are just a mass of history and social science and badly taught language and literature."

The trouble with most schools, he said, "is that they are overwhelmed by the professional and vocational interests of students and professors, feeling their jobs are undignified, are more interested in research work of their own."

FRANCONIA BOTH HEMISPHERES WORLD CRUISE

Vacations Call Chicagoans to Trips Abroad

Visits to Relatives, Travels Fill Summer.

BY JUDITH CASS.

KEEPING track of the whereabouts of one's friends will be something of a problem for the next two months or so, with more vacationists leaving town each day. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ball, who have been visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball, returned east yesterday to sail for a six weeks' holiday in England.

The young Balls will arrive in time for the last gay weeks of the London season, and will visit a number of friends and relatives, including, of course, her parents, the George Pinckards, in London, and his sister and brother-in-law, the Gerald Wellesleys, who are back at their place in Sussex after their air trip to the Dutch East Indies.

The Balls are remaining in town most of the summer.

The Solomon B. Smiths cut short the holiday week-end to leave for a vacation in Germany, where they will explore the countryside by motor with a school friend of Mrs. Smith. They will be away five weeks.

Mrs. Jacob Baur Returning to London.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, who went abroad in time to see the coronation, has been in Germany as a delegate to the convention of the International Association of Commerce in Berlin. She represented the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Mrs. Baur is returning to London for another visit with her son-in-law and daughter, the Bartle Bulls, and probably will go to Paris and to the Riviera for her usual visit with Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick before returning home late in the fall.

Mrs. Robert C. Orr is joining Mrs. Ralph H. James and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick when they sail from Montreal for England July 16. Miss Ellen Adair Orr, the Orrs' elder daughter, who went abroad with Miss Jane Swift to see the coronation, is visiting friends in France now, and her sister, Miss Nancy Orr, sailed just the other day. Mrs. Orr is joining her daughters in London and will motor with them through England, returning home in September.

This will be Mrs. James' annual visit to her children, Mrs. Gordon B. Stannus and Mrs. Charles C. Smith, who are living in England, and Charles James, who now has his atelier in Paris and is living at the Plaza Athénée. From Paris Mrs. James will go to Florence to visit her aunt, Miss Margaret Enders, before sailing for home on the Rex on Sept. 30.

Mrs. McCormick to Visit Relatives.

Mrs. McCormick will visit her brothers and sisters in England, and they will go to Austria, where her son, Leander McCormick, and his wife are now at their home in Kitzbuehl.

This is the house that the duke of Windsor was rumored to have leased as a honeymoon refuge for himself and his bride, but Mrs. McCormick says that the duke's interest in the place dates back to two years ago. One of the duke's equerrys visited the house with the intention of renting it for the prince of Wales, but found it too small for the host of aides-de-camp and secretaries who accompanied him even on vacations.

Mrs. McCormick will remain abroad about three months and will sail for home from Trieste on an Italian boat that puts in at Ragusa, the Island of Patmos, and Algiers.

Mrs. Americus F. Callahan is foregoing her usual trip to England this summer, since her son, Miller Callahan, who has been living there for several years, is coming here with his wife and 6 year old son. They will arrive Aug. 14 for a month. Most of the time that they are here they will spend with Mrs. Callahan in Michigan or Wisconsin.

Harold Beacom sailed last week on the Bremen to spend six weeks on the continent. Dr. W. Oliver Brackett is sailing today on the Queen Mary to join his wife and children in Scotland for several weeks. They will return to Lake Forest late in August.

Sun-Back Frock with Bolero

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

That indispensable summer mode, the one piece dress with low back, and accompanying bolero jacket, takes a turn for glamor in the version presented today. It is so sophisticated an outfit that you will wear it on many and varied occasions, for spectator and active sports, for teas, matinées and informal suppers.

The original is fashioned according to the scheme shown in the sketch at the right. The frock is of sparkling white pique, trimmed with black rickrack braid. The bodice is carefully fitted all the way to the waistline, and the skirt gradually acquires width so that the hemline is crisply flared. The jacket of the original ensemble is of black and white printed pique. It has no collar. The sleeves are generously puffed and the little coat extends only to the waistline.

There is simply no end to the color and fabric combinations you can create for this outfit. Another sparkling version is illustrated in the sketch at the left. The frock, untrimmed, is of printed cotton, linen, or tub silk, with the jacket of a harmonizing plain shade.

The stripped crown hat which goes so well with this ensemble has its own pattern, No. 2541, and is available in one size only. This separate pattern costs ten cents extra.

Style No. 1504 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with 1¾ yards of braid for the dress. The bolero requires ⅞ yard of 39 inch material.

Constance Bennett Sues Ben Hecht and MacArthur

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Constance Bennett is suing the writing team of Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur for $52,500, contending they failed to deliver a motion picture manuscript as provided by contract. The suit came to light today when Miss Bennett's attorneys sought permission to examine the writers in advance of trial. Hecht and MacArthur deny they signed a contract requiring them to complete a script by June 1, 1936.

Relaxed Mental Discipline Held Danger to Schools

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 6.—(AP)—One of the gravest dangers to modern education is the relaxation of that mental discipline which attended schooling in other years, Dr. Houston Peterson, Columbia university sociologist, today told delegates to the first midwest conference of the American Association of Adult Education. Dr. Peterson said the new educational methods tend to neglect attention to both books and the severe mental discipline of former years.

Famous Star to Appear Next Monday.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Helen Morgan, singing star of "Show Boat" and "Sweet Adeline" and a feature of hundreds of important night club revues, will appear at the band shell in Grant park at 7:30 o'clock next Monday evening in connection with the twelfth of the current series of free lake front concerts. This announcement was made last night by Maj. James P. Holmes, commentator for the 1937 programs.

Miss Morgan is the first nationally known guest star to appear this season. Last year's roster included Rudy Vallee, Dave Rubinoff, Andre Kostelanetz, and John Charles Thomas.

Last night's program was given by the admirable Chicago Philharmonic orchestra, which boasts Richard Czerwonky as conductor and Michael Wilkomirski as concertmaster. Ruth Lyon served as soprano soloist.

The first half of the evening offered music from the standard symphonic répertoire; after the intermission came lighter things of the salon order.

Mr. Czerwonky knows how to give interest and definition to outdoor music and manages to prevent an impression of diffuseness even in a work as long and serious as the Tschaikowsky fourth symphony. This he does by means of powerful phrasing, vivid differentiation of parts, and consistently good tempi. One might quarrel, however, with his extremely rapid pace in the andantino of the symphony.

Miss Lyon has a lovely lilt and joyousness in her singing. The numbers she chose were well suited to emphasize these qualities. The "Bird Song" from "Pagliacci" was followed by Strauss' "Voices of Spring"; that, in turn, by "The Maids of Cadiz."

Night after night these concerts given in cool and spacious Grant park are rolling up an attendance figure that any attraction in the world might respect. They are free, of course, which makes a great deal of difference but which does not account fully for the enthusiastic public acceptance that they have won.

Some of the reason may be found in the excellence of the programs themselves. These are no old fashioned summer band concerts offering nothing but the "Poet and Peasant" overture, and medleys from "Il Trovatore" and "Aïda" and a few marches. The symphonies of Beethoven, Brahms, and Tschaikowsky, and excerpts from the Wagner music dramas find frequent representation on the programs and satisfy the taste of that large and important section of the populace which desires the best in art but which cannot afford the luxury of winter concerts.

This series of nightly programs is sponsored by the park district of Chicago in coöperation with the Chicago Federation of Musicians. James C. Petrillo, board member of the first and president of the second, is in charge of the project.

This early fall daytime dress features a double necklace of old gold coins strung on a fine gold chain attached to the dress at the back. The short sleeves are moderately shirred and the dress has a molded bodice top. These new details offer a preview of the new showings already in Chicago shops and stores.

Royal Archers Guard King at Scottish Court

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 6.—(AP)—King George VI. of Great Britain paid tribute to his Scottish consort tonight by holding the first royal evening court Scotland has seen in more than 30 years.

The oak paneled throne room of Holyrood house, where Bonnie Prince Charlie danced with his court 200 years ago, was a brilliant setting for the modern court.

A gold brocade gown in a scroll design and with an Indian embroidered gold train was worn by Queen Elizabeth whose father is the Scottish earl of Strathmore. Upon her head glittered a diamond and ruby tiara.

Nearly 500 attended the function held with all the formality of similar affairs in Buckingham palace. More than 200 were presented to their majesties, the majority of them Scottish debutantes who usually must journey to London for presentation at court.

Men of Scotland's ancient families appeared either in their colorful Tartan kilts or in the uniforms of crack Highland regiments.

The royal company of archers, the king's ancient bodyguard in Scotland, was on duty in the state chambers in green cloth uniforms embroidered with golden thistles and wearing cocked hats decorated with cock feathers.

Turreted Holyrood will be the scene of other brilliant functions, including a garden party, receptions, and other affairs during the state visit.

Smart Costume Jewelry Cools Daytime Frocks

Offers Dramatic Contracts at Budget Price.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Cool your daytime clothes with summer costume jewelry. None of it is expensive, and all of it is amazingly decorative with dark blue and black. Choker necklaces of plaster white beads, both dull and shiny, have price marks around a dollar. Big blobs of clips come at the same price.

Clever strip effects of white patent lether outlined in gold metal are still spectacular accents on trim copper brown, navy, cypress green or black tailored suits and they're still modestly priced.

Small iridescent sea shells jingle merrily in bracelets and clips. Tiny metal forget-me-nots in chalk white and delectable shades of pink, blue, and green are popular. See the whites with glittering rhinestone centers or the lettuce green or powdery blues for an extra thrill.

The cracked ice bracelets and necklaces, looking just like the names, are new and are causing excitement. Melon ball necklaces, the kind that resemble large hailstones, are fastened to vivid green leaves and strung on a frail thin gold metal chain. These are beautiful against light or dark colored clothes.

Tiny white simulated berries are effective with all kinds of summer clothes and even for early fall black sheer wools and crêpes. These come in clips, bracelets, and chokers. The white confetti ornaments come in multi strand ropes for high necklines and in bracelets. Some of the white is accented with scarlet or green button closing devices.

This white costume jewelry can be used for smart clothes dramatics at a smaller cost than white frills.

Fashion photograph . . . preview of the new fall necklines . . . showing a dull crêpe dress with moderately shirred short sleeves, a high smooth neckline and the newest of gold coin necklace trim. Such a necklace is attached to the dress itself providing the only contrast. The dress will be found in a Chicago shop.

"I Devise and Bequeath"

By Louise Bargelt and Fielding James

SYNOPSIS.

On his return from abroad Michael Eden, heir to millions, postpones his marriage to Katharine McCann because his foster father, John Millis, tells Michael his foster mother is ill and needs him. Katharine's roommate, Joan, is engaged to Michael's friend, Terry Newton. From all sides Katharine is warned to break Michael away from John Millis. Millis asks Michael to sign a will making him Michael's heir. Michael signs, expecting to change the will after his marriage to Katharine. Mrs. Millis attempts suicide when she discovers her husband flirting with her nurse. Michael rescues her and agrees to take her away from Millis without telling any one where they are going.

INSTALMENT XXI.

TREACHERY CONTEMPLATED.

"It shouldn't be hard to pull up stakes and move on," Mrs. Millis said ruefully. "We have left most of our baggage behind."

Michael kissed her gaily. "We'll accumulate some," he promised. Then he whistled to the dog and strode out to the back steps, where he stood, hatless and coatless, in the biting air, staring up at the bright sun and the intensely blue sky. He was a strikingly handsome figure, and the environment became him. But his eyes were somber now. He wondered what Katharine was doing. He supposed that same sun was shining down on Katharine.

Mrs. Millis watched him almost resentfully. She could not see his set face, nor hear him murmuring softly, again and again:

"O-o damn! O-o damn! O-o damn!"

. . . .

John Millis had been shocked by his wife's ultimatum, but considerably relieved. The situation had been growing increasingly difficult.

Laura had made him a fair proposition. She was to do nothing to set Michael against him or to rouse the boy's suspicions. Not only would she allow the boy's natural generosity in money matters to function as usual, she was to see to it that at no time did he forget John Millis and his needs. In return for this Millis had solemnly promised that never would he do anything to harm Michael. Millis recalled with slight discomfort the menace in his wife's eyes as she exacted this promise. He had been relieved at the way it had been worded. He was strong for the letter of the law and the honor of a gentleman.

Millis had spent the afternoon and evening with a lady whom he admired. He had recently taken up women of fashion and blameless reputation. He liked them difficile. It was the chase which amused him, not the ultimate capitulation. When that happened, he lost interest. Today he had lost interest. He returned home late in the evening, slightly triumphant, a good deal angry and bored.

It was in moods like this that he always came back to Laura. This time Laura was not there. The house was empty. He felt shaken, and more than a little misused. Why should she leave in such indecent haste?

He had not known how empty a house could be. He sat on the low sofa in the hall where his wife had liked to sit and stared at the winding stairway and at Michael's window seat. He could not believe that, sooner or later, one or the other would not appear on the stairs. Only a servant passed him noiselessly. Millis fancied that the man looked at him with some curiosity and that his respect was just a little exaggerated.

Millis dismissed the thought hastily. It would never do to let his imagination run away with him. But he decided that he would get rid of these servants and hire a fresh batch. They knew more than was good for them. He would say that he was closing the house for the winter, as mother and the boy were going south, and he would be with them much of the time. Then he cringed slightly. He knew how politely they would accept his statement, and the comments which would be made below stairs.

Suddenly it came over him that he was not in an enviable position. The middle of the month was approaching, and bills must be met. His own balance at the bank had dwindled to almost nothing. He had been warned three months ago that the allowance made to the Millises for the support of Michael ended automatically when the boy came of age. Business men were already less keen about extending credit. It was Michael to whom they were kowtowing now. Millis grinned as he recalled the boy's annoyance at their obsequiousness. Queer duck, Michael!

It had not been a bad life he had led here, he reflected. He rather wished it might have gone on indefinitely. It might have, too, if he had been left to handle the boy without any interference. He'd have knocked a lot of silly notions out of his head and would have got him harness broke. He could have taught him not merely how to handle his money, but how to spend it. Of course Michael might still be handled. The trouble was, the boy was hairtrigger, and nobody's fool. It would be, even now, an interesting battle of wits, but Michael had the whip hand. For that matter, Millis scarcely cared to spend the rest of his life earning the respect of his foster son, and that would be absolutely the only hold he would ever have on Michael now.

The man moved restlessly. What was it he had been meaning to do? O, yes—get the thermos bottle. He wandered up to Michael's room. It was not dismantled at all, and the spirit of the absent boy was so present that Millis felt guilty in intruding. But the thermos bottle was gone. So the kid had taken it with him? Well, it was his.

Millis paused to look about him. It was a room which he had never invaded. It was the kid's room. The walls were literally covered with pictures, small snapshots, beautiful enlargements, pencil sketches, photographs made by skilful professionals—a bewildering array. All of one girl! Millis was ready to admit that the boy had made a wise choice of subjects. Katharine photographed superbly.

The man strolled about examining them all. After some deliberation he selected the one that pleased him most. It was a charming little snapshot of Katharine in a bathing suit, standing on the edge of a stormy lake. Her hair was blowing in the wind, her face was ecstatic with joy, and she looked like the exceedingly lovely spirit of the storm.

"Good legs!" the man said approvingly. He gave it a long and pleased survey. "Mighty good legs!"

With ruthless indifference to its exquisite mounting, he ripped the picture from its frame, and stored it away tenderly in a small memorandum book which he carried in his breast pocket. Then he threw himself into the old Morris chair and gave himself up to lazy contemplation of the interesting picture gallery. His expression was not quite what it should have been.

It was an agreeable hour which Millis spent there, stretched out lazily in Michael's chair, wooing in imagination Michael's sweetheart.

"That," he said amusedly, "would be an experience worth having. Mike would be sore, but how would he know? Those are not things girls tell."

He rose, snapped on the lights, and surveyed himself in the mirror, a cool appraising survey. Suddenly, with an angry snort, he picked up a heavy silver mounted brush from the dresser and hurled it at his own reflection. He was his own most exacting critic.

The crash of glass and the forlorn litter in the peaceful room cheered him considerably. He picked up one of Michael's Indian clubs and laid about him vigorously. When the wreck was complete, he walked out coolly and closed and locked the door.

"Hobson," he said to the magnificent young English chauffeur whom he kept as a badge of respectability, and whom he cordially disliked because the man resolutely declined to be undignified, "my son asked me to say that for the next week you will put yourself at the disposal of Miss McCann. Be at her apartment in the morning and again at night. Be ready to take her to work in the morning and in the evening, and be waiting for her when she is ready to go home. If you can do anything on earth for her, do it. If she discourages you, give her one of your inimitable bows, and tell her that you will be back tomorrow; that it is Mr. Michael's orders."

"Yes, sir. Do I take the little coupe, sir?"

"The blue limousine."

"Your car, sir?"

"I have no car, Hobson. The cars belong to Mr. Michael. So do you. So do I."

GASOLINE ALLEY—A CLOSE CALL

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Second Choice

Budget Needed for Marriage Debatable One

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Just how much money a chap should have saved before he may think of marrying is a popular query at this time. It is one that can't be answered offhand, merely by quoting figures. Too much depends upon the two who are embarking on the new life.

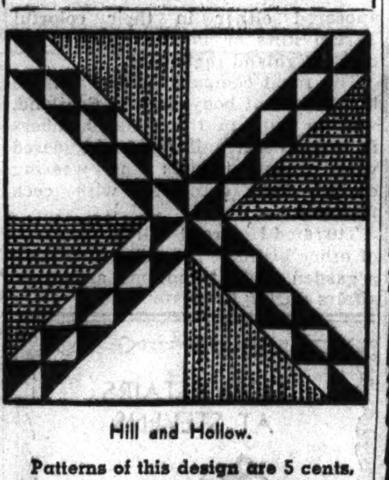
The environment in which the young man and the girl have been raised is a determining factor. True, they will not expect to start out on the same scale exactly to which they have been accustomed in their parents' homes, yet the status of those homes has a definite influence on their ideas and their plans for their home. Things that would be considered necessities by some couples would be real luxuries to others. One couple may be contented to live in small rooms in an unpretentious neighborhood, the girl working along with the boy, willingly and gladly doing without the weekly manicure, the latest coiffure, and content with an occasional movie for recreation.

Such people could marry on very little and still find happiness. For another couple, this life would be drudgery. The things that were luxuries, and thoroughly appreciated whenever available to them, would be necessities to the second couple, and without them they would not be contented. So, the thing to do is to sit down with paper and pencil and figure out just what you'll need to start with. You have your own scale and know just what you must have.

Then, too, a young man must consider the kind of girl he is marrying, whether she is one who would adjust herself to reverses should they be met early in their life. Would she stand by him, see him through the difficulties, encouraging him, even willing to assume some of the responsibility, if necessary? Or is she a helpless creature, one who likes to brag about her inability to do anything around the house? If so, he'll need a bank account, for he can expect no help from her.

Some young men have a way of meeting difficulties and overcoming them, letting nothing stand in the way of their success, while others are inclined to be discouraged by the first setback.

Quilt Based on Triangles Gives a Rustic Effect



Hill and Hollow.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A slightly rustic note is achieved in the title of this quilt, and the theme is cleverly carried out in the pieced block by the simple use of triangles. A combination of printed and plain materials is used, and the blocks are set together to form an all over design. Blue, white, and blue and white printed materials are the favorites for this cool looking pattern which is ideal for use as a summer spread. "Hill and Hollow" was pieced in Tennessee in 1855, and recently has enjoyed a revival of its old time popularity.

Vacations Call Chicagoans to Trips Abroad

Visits to Relatives, Travels Fill Summer.

ings, are in Scotland now visiting a great aunt in Glasgow. In another week they will leave on a 40 day tour of literary England which a Cambridge professor is conducting. They will spend a week in Paris and another in Normandy.

The Percy Wilsons are giving a tea Sept. 11 at their home in Lake Bluff for their debutante daughter, Miss Patricia Wilson, and Miss Lily Fleming is planning to return the day of the party to be one of her friend's assistants. The two girls were at Ferry Hall together. A few days after her debut Miss Wilson will return for her sophomore year at Vassar.

Mrs. John Crerar is reversing the order of travel this season, and instead of her usual trip to Europe is going to Honolulu. Mrs. David Shields Cook Jr., who is visiting her sister and brother-in-law, the James Ransom Walkers, at their summer home at Stockbridge, Mass., will return in time to leave with Mrs. Crerar next Tuesday. After a month in Hawaii they will visit in California before returning home.

Mrs. Furness Hately Seeing Old Friends

Mrs. Furness Hately, who came from New York for the wedding of the former Miss Ann Small to John T. Abbott last month, has been staying with the Ralph D. Smalls, seeing many of her old friends. Among them are the Charles H. Conrads, who have been here from their present home in Tryon, N. C., for ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad are having dinner tonight with Mrs. Elisha D. Chandler and her daughter, Miss Louise Chandler, who visited the Conrads during horse show time in Tryon last spring. Tomorrow the Conrads will leave by motor for Zanesville, Wis., and Duluth, Minn., the former home of Mrs. Conrad. After going to Nantucket for a visit in August they will return to Chicago in September before going home for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Wetten spent the holiday at the Seigniory club in the province of Quebec. They are expected at home by the first of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. William de Riemer are the parents of a son, David Steers de Riemer, born Saturday night at St. Luke's hospital. The baby's mother, the former Claire Steers of White Plains, N. Y., has been one of the prettiest of the Service club chorines since she came here as a bride about two years ago. Her mother, Mrs. Newton I. Steers, came west to greet her grandson.

Pink a Favorite of Arlington Fans

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr. have returned from a week-end at Coleman lake and will be among the guests today at the Post and Paddock club, at Arlington Park. The senior Mrs. Collins rarely misses a day at Arlington. She will entertain a large group of guests on Saturday when the Hyde Park stakes will be run.

Pink linen was the choice of many of the women present yesterday. Among the lovely frocks of this tone was that of Mrs. Warren Wright, with its pale ruby buttons. Mr. and Mrs. Wright entertained at luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Lowe of Hollywood. Mrs. Lowe wore a large brimmed dubonnet hat and a white print frock. Mrs. Roy Carruthers, also a guest of the Wrights, wore white linen with touches of navy blue, and Mrs. Charles R. Crane III. was in yellow print with a small red figure.

Mrs. John D. Hertz wore black sheer printed in gray and Mrs. Lawrence F. Stern wore a cyclamen gray gown and matching turban.

Radio Reaches Keyhole Era in Sports Events

Sneak Broadcasts That Others Pay For.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

While the NBC-CBS war has been the noisiest lately on the Shakespeare front, the sports sector has been the scene, too, of many a lively skirmish.

In recent weeks NBC "sneaked" the Poughkeepsie regatta and the national open golf tournament, for which CBS had made exclusive deals. So CBS has been looking for opportunities to retaliate. Saturday the chance came in connection with the National A. A. U. track and field meet which NBC had signed for on an exclusive basis for the next four years.

As the NBC crew prepared to broadcast they found Ted Husing and other CBS staf men looking down upon them on Marquette field from a platform they had built atop a nearby Lutheran church guild hall. Ken Fry, head of NBC special events staf here, set about foiling the efforts of the CBS men. An appeal to the pastor to call them off is said to have failed. Then he called the attention of the building commissioner to the fact that no permit had been issued. The CBS crew thereupon talked that official into an oral permit.

NBC considered hanging up some canvas to obscure the CBS view but finally decided the elms were doing a pretty good job of that. The Husing crow's nest was said to be about fifty yards from the starting point and two hundred yards from the finish of track events. Though your observer made no comparisons of the two broadcasts, an NBC spokesman said Husing's announcements all were well behind those of NBC.

NBC is said to have shelled out $10,000 for rights to the N. A. A. U. affairs for the next four years. If that is true, it was plenty. Track meets by radio usually are pretty dull affairs. But the Milwaukee meeting could have been made interesting had any third broadcaster described the dog fight between the two big networks.

A minute after Tenor William Miller went off the NBC-Contented hour Monday evening at 9:30 o'clock W-G-N announced he would be a headliner of the special Stephen Collins Foster program Henry Weber was presenting that very hour. It's quite a stretch from NBC in the Merchandise Mart to W-G-N studios, but Miller was on hand a few minutes later when it came time to face the W-G-N microphone. Weber's musical tribute to Foster, who was born July 4, was one of the finest radio offerings we have heard in many a month.

Several times he has visited the mausoleum where Miss Harlow's body lies in a crypt purchased by Powell.

Just One Day Left to Write Letter to Sally

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[The activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

You boys and girls still have one whole day to get in your bids for an invitation to see "A Day at the Races"! The party is to be at the United Artists theater, July 15, just a week from tomorrow. One hundred happy boys and girls will see the Marx brothers' latest picture.

There is still time to get your letter in, because the mail won't be read and judged until tomorrow—so if you're quick about it, you can probably have a note on my desk in time to have it judged.

All you have to do is write in your own words why you think you'd enjoy this party. I wish to select as my guests 50 boys and 50 girls who'll have a good time at this movie, and I can't judge that unless you tell me why you like the Marx brothers.

You don't have to buy or sell anything, and you don't have to be the world's best letter writer—all you have to do is convince me that you'll appreciate a chance to see Harpo and Groucho and Chico. If you win you'll see your name in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. Be sure to tell me your full name, address and age, and write your letter yourself. Don't ask for invitations for friends or brothers and sisters—every child must earn his own invitation by his letter. The address is Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Youngsters who have been invited to see "The Singing Marine" at our party tomorrow should have received invitations by this time. If yours hasn't arrived, you'd better notify me as soon as possible.

Use Team Work in Training Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In talking yesterday of the lack of harmony between a father and a mother, which threatens a child's sense of security, so important to him, some serious aspects of the subject were mentioned, aspects not easy to change. But today the type of disagreement I have in mind is one which, although bad for a child, is easily adjusted. All it needs is for the mother and father to realize the necessity of a change. I am thinking now of a pulling in opposite directions where the actual management of a child is concerned. For instance:

Do you discipline your child rather severely and does your husband spoil her?

Are you easy with your child and is your husband strict with her?

Do you refuse your child's request and when she appeals to her father does he reverse your decision, or vice versa?

Is it possible for your child to go to one or the other and always get what she wants?

Do you argue before your child as to what she should be permitted to do, usually disagreeing?

If your answers are "yes," it is hard on your child. It bewilders him. It tends to make him whine or coax or tease to get what he wants. It makes him doubt his parents' wisdom. It gives him a sense of insecurity.

To remedy the matter:

First, decide whether you are taking out your own petty grievances on your child. That is straight talk I know, but often we do things like that without realizing it.

Next, get together on fundamental ideas of child management. Honest talks or a little brief reading together may clear up all of this. The chief thing is good will between you, for the good of your child.

Then, be consistent and uphold each other's decisions as often as possible. If one parent has been hasty or unfair, this problem might be discussed quietly and a different answer explained to the child.

And don't interfere with each other's handling of a situation. That is a mistake much too often made.

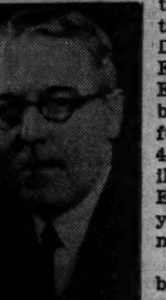
DELIBERATOR GETS A CHEER AT ARLINGTON

Makes Best Speed of Meeting.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Speed horses at Arlington Park will have something to think about at the breakfast table this morning. If they didn't see it they heard about Deliberator from Fred A. Burton's Everglades stable stepping six furlongs in 1:10 4-5 while he easily captured the Evanston purse yesterday afternoon.



Fred A. Burton.

It was the most brilliant speed performance of the season at Arlington and the 4 year old son of Wise Counsellor-Azurita was roundly cheered when he sailed past the finish line a length and a quarter ahead of Fraidy Cat, which had trounced Deliberator in the Arlington Inaugural handicap last week.

Visigoth Is Third.

Four lengths back in third place was Visigoth, also from Kentucky, which had run last in the six horse field until the run down the stretch was well under way. Such speedsters as Foyot, Roguish Girl, and Higher Cloud were completely smothered by the keen display of fleetness Deliberator shook out of his flying feet.

The victory was the first the Burton colorbearers have scored in Chicago this year although earlier in the season Deliberator had performed in spectacular fashion in Kentucky and in New York.

The race attracted unusual interest because there had been a continuous argument on at Arlington this season as to whether Foyot or Deliberator was faster out of the starting gate. Everybody agreed they were the two quartered here that could get away quickest.

Foyot Takes the Lead.

Fast as Deliberator was out of the stall Foyot beat him away. He left like a shot out of a gun and for the first three eighths of a mile actually outran the fleet Deliberator.

Then it was that Deliberator got tired of taking anybody's dust. He drove up on the outside. When the stretch run started he had pulled out into a lead of a length and a half. He kept right on until his chore had been completed in the handiest sort of a way.

The quarter was run in :22 3-5 and the half in :45 3-5.

Deliberator went to the post as the favorite. The final payoff on him was $4.40 for a two dollar ticket.

There were two other high spots on the program. The first one came in the first race when Opera Star, one of the stylish fillies purchased last year by Morris Vehon of Chicago, made the first start of her career and stepped straight to town at a mutuel betting payoff of $94.40 for a $2 ticket.

Even Mr. Vehon, who knew this daughter of Victorian-Song Bird was a speedy one, almost fell out of his clubhouse box seat when she went past the winning post.

Allanwood Second.

Coming from far back to be second was Allanwood, owned by Howard Oots of Kentucky. The favorite, Sweet Showno, owned by Tony Pelleteri, finished third. Opera Star showed speed from the start. She ran the five furlongs in one minute and gave indications that she will go on to much greater deeds.

In the mile and a furlong fifth race, Col. Phil Reilly of Minneapolis stood with his chin over the rail and confidently watched his 3 year old War Fellow, son of Chilhowee-Hush Dear, score an easy victory by three lengths over the heavily backed favorite, Our Count, which sported the Woolford farm banner. Brandon Prince finished third.

War Fellow Draws Away.

Hustled along all the way by Jocky Sidney Herbert, War Fellow found his weight impost of 97 pounds little more than a feather. Going down the back stretch he pulled out into a lead of four lengths. The result never was in doubt from that stage of the race until the finish. The time was good, the mile and a furlong having been run in 1:50 4-5. War Fellow was the second choice among the speculators. He paid $8.80.

GRANGE SIGNS NEW CONTRACT AS BEAR COACH

Red Grange signed a new contract yesterday as assistant coach to George Halas of the Chicago Bears. It will be Grange's third season as Halas' assistant and he again will have charge of the back field.

Grange's coaching duties will not interfere with his duties as a field man for a Chicago mineral water concern and his coast to coast radio program during the football season.

Vanderbilt's Ranger Picked for Cup Race

Newport, R. I., July 6. — (AP) — Ranger, Harold S. Vanderbilt's yacht, tonight was named as the defender of the America's cup against Endeavour II., T. O. M. Sopwith's second British challenger. The assignment to defend the famous trophy, the third time it has been entrusted to Vanderbilt, was given him on his 54th birthday.

The announcement was made by W. A. W. Stewart, commodore of the New York Yacht club, which has had the trophy in its custody ever since the schooner yacht America led a fleet of British yachts around the Isle of Wight and brought it home.

The nomination of Ranger followed a conference aboard Tara, power yacht of E. Townsend Irwin, vice commodore of the club, which was attended by Vanderbilt, Gerard B. Lambert, and Chandler Hovey, skipper owners, respectively, of Yankee and Rainbow, veterans of previous cup campaigns and unsuccessful candidates for the defense nomination.

Presumably Lambert and Hovey, who were unable to break into Ranger's unbroken string of eight victories, were agreeable to the America's cup committee's decision.

During the preliminary contests, Yankee, runner up in defense trials of 1930 and 1934, lost five races to Ranger and won four from Rainbow. Rainbow failed to come home first in any of seven sailing duels.

GOOD NEWS FOR SWIMMERS! MORE TIME TO ENTER

You Have Until Monday; Add Fifth Section.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

A fifth preliminary section for the Chicagoland 100 yard championship swimming races has been added to the four which will be held this week-end. Yesterday it became apparent that it was impossible for the clerks to complete the lists of all swimmers for this week and to mail out postcards to all contestants. Consequently, those who receive cards this week will report for their trials as directed. Others will be asked to compete in the fifth preliminary.

This preliminary will be held at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon at Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues. Immediately following these trials, the championships in all ten age classes will be held. Qualifiers from the four trials this week-end then will compete with the winners in the final Whealan pool trials.

Entry Time Extended.

Since it has been necessary to extend the list of preliminaries, it was decided that an entry blank should be run until next Monday for those who have not entered and who wish to compete in the final trials July 18. This entry blank, if sent to the sports department of THE TRIBUNE before Monday midnight will permit competition in the eighth annual races.

The system of sending postcards to all contestants is responsible for extending the preliminaries. Each boy and girl who sends in an entry receives a card of acceptance which furnishes the time of the race, the place, and the racing number.

Don't Forget Your Card.

This postcard permits use of the pools without charge. It facilitates conduct of the trials. And by sending out the card, the list of contestants is verified.

There never has been an entry fee for competition in the swim meet and this year THE TRIBUNE will pay the A. A. U. registration fee for all swimmers 16 years of age and over. Previously, contestants paid their own registration fees. The meet is sanctioned by the A. A. U. and thus your amateur standing is not endangered.

In the list of team entries which have been received for the preliminaries Saturday and Sunday are: Lincoln-Belmont department of the Y. M. C. A.; Belding playground; Independence park and Columbus park of the Chicago park district; Whiting, Ind. Community service; Country Club of Peoria, Ill.; Jackson Natatorium, and the Jewish People's institute.

"Y" Enters 11 Boys.

Carl Anderson, swimming coach at the Lincoln-Belmont Y. M. C. A. has entered 11 of his boys in three of the five age classes. They will compete in the trials at California park on Sunday. Clarence Lynest and John Howard Jr. are outstanding swimmers in the Class E senior division. The team sponsored by Otto Kaecke of Belding playground and the team coached by Eugene Utz, director at Independence park, are registered for the Sunday trials at Whealan pool.

Catherine Ribovich, Class E, and Marion Parsanko, Class D, are veteran swimmers from the Whiting, Ind., Community Service club. Last year Miss Parsanko finished fourth in the event for girls 15 and 16 years old. Joseph Brock, athletic director, is certain these girls not only will qualify for the championships Saturday at Sherman pool, but they will win gold medals July 18 at Whealan pool.

Twelve boys from Columbus park, according to Jim Kelly, instructor, will swim in the trials Saturday at Cermak pool. There are four contestants in each of the first three age divisions for boys.

HERE Y'ARE, MEN: TWO ALL-STAR SEATS, ONLY $25!

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—Speculators, envisioning a handsome return on judicious investment under difficulties, loaded up with All-Star baseball game tickets, for which they were asking fancy prices tonight. Five dollars was sought for pavilion seats which retail at 80 cents, including tax. For a pair of box seats, of a face value of $1.65 each, including tax, $25 and $30 was asked.

The quotation was $25 the pair on grand stand seats, too, although the face value of these was $1.10 apiece.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—If the American league has anything to say about it, the 1938 All-Star game will be given back to the fans. . . . There has been such widespread criticism of the plan followed for the fifth annual contest, scheduled in Griffith stadium tomorrow, whereby the teams were picked by the managers, that the game hardly can survive. . . . The American league wanted to let the fans run it this year, but the National league, which seems to have lost sight of the primary purpose of the enterprise, objected on the grounds that the inter-league encounter should be a contest, not a show. . . . Nobody can quarrel with the idea of making it a battle, but there is no reason to feel it would be less spirited if the fans were empowered to name the two starting lineups. . . . In its present form the All-Star game is taxation without representation and the country never has stood for that. . . .

President William Harridge of the American league, who has the support of his club owners, will try to bring President Ford Frick of the National league and Commissioner K. M. Landis around to a fans' vote when arrangements for the 1938 game are discussed. . . . Mr. Harridge is interested in exploiting baseball and he could see right off that with more people having a hand in directing the game more would be arguing the relative talents of the various players. . . . And arguments of this nature are healthy for baseball. . . . The All-Star game probably always will attract capacity crowds wherever staged regardless of rules, but that's a matter of minor importance. . . . Under the system originated by the writer and observed in part, at least, for the 1934, 1935, and 1936 games, a fan from Mud Center, Ark., would have as much to say as the city slicker from Broadway and Wilson. . . . As a consequence, interest in the game would not be limited to the major league cities, as it seems to be this year. . . .

While this piece was being written, Washington was buzzing with speculation about the Dizzy Dean-Ford Frick situation. . . . Dizzy was quoted in the morning papers as telling President Frick, and sundry others, including President Roosevelt, to take a jump in the Potomac. . . . He was too tired to come to Washington to take part in a game, appointment to which is regarded as the highest honor a player can achieve. . . . Telling Mr. Frick where to jump is getting to be a habit with the Cardinals' star pitcher, but this is the first time he has taken the attitude "the public be damned." . . . But after Dizzy arrived tonight he said he'd give his best in tomorrow's game. . . .

John O. Seys, vice president of the Cubs, is the only front office man from either of the Chicago clubs here for the game. . . . Mr. Seys' main worry was who will run for Gabby Hartnett, if he gets on base, because Tuck Stainback, who gets about $8,000 a year for relieving Gabby on the runways, is not a member of the All-Star cast. . . . The American league office staf is here en masse. . . . The party includes President Harridge, L. C. McEvoy, radio supervisor; Henry P. Edwards, director of the service bureau; Lew Fonseca, who will take shots of the stars for next year's league movie; Miss Dorothy Hummel, secretary, and Edward Lehmann, auditor. . . . Dr. and Mrs. Martin W. Caveney of Park Ridge, Fred Ringley, and Peter B. Carey, chairman of the Illinois racing commission, are other Chicagoans who will attend the game. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The Chicago Cubs took possession of first place when they defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2 to 1. . . . Jack Sharkey arrived in New York to start training for his bout with Jack Dempsey. . . . Ban Johnson denied he would resign as president of the American league when he called a meeting of the club owners in New York.

PRESIDENT AND 33,000 TO SEE ANNUAL CONTEST

Stratton and Mungo Are Out.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—President Roosevelt will throw out the first ball at Griffith stadium shortly before 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Then the players whom Manager Bill Terry thinks are the best in the National league will play the fellows whom Manager Joe McCarthy has selected as the cream of the American league. This is the setting for the fifth annual All-Star game.

There was quite a bit of excitement about town when it was rumored early today that the gent Terry had named as his starting pitcher, Dizzy Dean, would not be in town. Diz had returned to St. Louis from yesterday's games in Chicago. This led to memories of his announcement made at the time he was giving the works to President Ford Frick of the National league. After vanquishing Frick in a spectacular way, much to the league president's humiliation and loss of dignity, Diz said he wouldn't play in the All-Star contest.

Mrs. Dean Promises.

Following today's rumors that Dean was standing pat with the same degree of stubbornness that caused him to win out in the war with Frick, National league officials got a wire from Mrs. Dean saying she positively would deliver the great right hander and showman in Washington. She personally would see that he was put on a plane.

Diz missed the plane first designated, but took a later one, in company of President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals.

As Surmised, Just Talk.

Dizzy denied that his return to St. Louis yesterday was prompted by any idea of running out.

"Aw, that's just a lot of talk," he said. "My arm ain't just right, but I'll give 'em the best I got tomorrow."

There was a rush to the long distance telephones today as both managers sought replacements for ailing pitchers. White Sox officials notified Manager Joe McCarthy of the American league team that doctors had ordered Monty Stratton to remain in Chicago.

Stratton injured his wrist sliding in Sunday's game against the St. Louis Browns. X-rays revealed no breaks, but the slender right-hander is in no condition to pitch tomorrow, although it was said he probably would be ready to take his regular turn against the Red Sox in Chicago Sunday. McCarthy ordered Johnny Murphy of his Yankees to rush to Washington to replace Stratton.

Castleman Replaces Mungo.

Van Mungo, the Brooklyn fireballer, who was expected to do a three inning stretch for the National league, came down with a sore shoulder after pitching against New York Sunday and he will not pitch. Terry called Clyde Castleman, his young right-hander, from New York to fill in for Mungo.

The starting National league lineup tomorrow will be composed of three Cubs, Gabby Hartnett, Bill Herman, and Frank Demaree; three Cardinals, Dean, Joe Medwick, and Johnny Mize; two Pirates, Paul Waner and Arky Vaughan and only one of Terry's own players, Dick Bartell.

Hubbell Is No. 2.

Terry's contribution of the game will not rest with Bartell, however, for the second pitcher will be his superb lefty, Carl Hubbell. The third pitcher will be Rookie Lee Grissom of the Cincinnati Reds, who has pitched four shutouts and who was defeated last Sunday by Dean in a 1 to 0 game.

Manager McCarthy will employ the policy which enabled Charley Grimm to lead the Nationals to their first All-Star victory last year. He will pack his lineup with his own boys. Three of his first four hitters are Yankees and his starting battery, Gomez and Dickey, is composed of Yanks. Thus the starting American league combination will be composed of a Yank majority, five to one each for the Tigers, Indians, Red Sox, and Browns.

All Seats Are Sold.

Manager McCarthy's follow up pitchers, it is believed, will be Bridges and Grove in that order, with Harder standing by for emergencies.

PRO LEAGUE WILL OPEN FOOTBALL SEASON SEPT. 5

First Chicago Game on Oct. 17.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Division championship races in the National Professional Football league will begin on Sept. 5 with a game between the Philadelphia Eagles and Pirates at Pittsburgh, President Joe Carr announced yesterday. This will mark the earliest start in the history of the league, but it does not advance the closing date. The regular season will end with two games on Dec. 5 and the title game will be played on Dec. 13 unless a playoff for one of the division championships is necessary.

This year's championship game will be played on the home field of the western division winner. Last year it was played in the eastern section, Green Bay meeting Boston at New York when severe weather and lack of fan interest in Boston made it advisable to move the game to the Polo Grounds.

First Chicago Game Oct. 17.

Owners have advocated an earlier closing date for several years, but were unable to wind up a complete schedule before the first week in December because of the addition of another team, Cleveland, to the league, and because several clubs must postpone their home openings to avoid conflicts with possible world series dates in cities where the football team uses a major league baseball park. The last three title games have been played under unfavorable weather conditions.

Because Wrigley field, home of the Bears and Cardinals, may not be available until after the world series, Chicago will not see its first game until the schedule is nearly half over. The Bears and Cardinals open the season here on Oct. 17. Their schedules:

ITALY'S TROTTER WILL REACH U. S. EARLY IN AUGUST

International Title Race Seems Assured.

New York, July 6.—(AP)—The first international trotting race bringing together Greyhound, champion of America, and Muscletone, ranking Italian performer, in a home and abroad series, moved a step nearer today with the announcement that Muscletone would reach this country about Aug. 1.

The first of the two races will be trotted probably late in August or early in September at a track to be selected. Greyhound, owned by E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., will travel to Italy for a return match sometime during the winter. In this country, the two horses will race for a guarantee of a minimum of $10,000. The amount probably will be more, however, as the race will go to the track making the highest bid.

In addition Baker and Givo Maiani of Milan, in whose name Muscletone races, have posted side bets of $10,000 each. The Trotting Horse club, through its president, E. Roland Harriman, has been named to handle all details of the race.

Greyhound, which hung up his record of 1:57¼ last summer at Springfield, Ill., probably will make his last start, before going into training for the big race, on July 15 at the first of Goshen's two Grand Circuit meetings.

HORTON SMITH'S 138 TOPS BRITISH OPEN QUALIFIERS

Chicagoan Leads Sarazen by Three Strokes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 6.—Horton Smith, lanky Chicago professional, today scored his second consecutive round of 69 to lead the field in the qualifying play for the 72d British open golf tournament with a 36 hole score of 138, four under par for the distance.

Entering the 72 holes of the championship battle proper, which begins tomorrow, Smith holds a three stroke lead over Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., 1932 champion, who added a par 71 over the Carnoustie links to his first round total, made on the neighboring Burnside course. Smith, who yesterday shared a new course record with Aubrey Boomer of France in his first 69 on the Carnoustie layout, played Burnside today. Boomer played no such golf today, requiring a 76 for a 36 hole aggregate of 145.

Reduce Huge Field.

The combined scores of yesterday's and today's rounds have no bearing on the title play proper, but only served to reduce the huge starting field to the low 140 scorers and ties for the qualifying 36 holes. Despite the fact that his fine 138 will not figure in the final reckoning, the galleries who followed Smith yesterday and today were convinced that he will be a real threat through the regulation 72 holes of the tournament. Although he has not quite straightened out his tee shots, Horton's chipping and putting through the qualifying round have been of a nature commensurate with his reputation as one of the ablest short players in golf.

Smith collected three birdies in the first ten holes today. He dropped an eight footer at the fourth, was on the long eighth in two, and got down another good putt at the tenth. He yielded this latter on the sixteenth, where he overshot and was shy in reaching the green coming back.

United States Is Big Threat.

There was little doubt in the minds of the golf loving Scotchmen here tonight that the United States is making its strongest bid in history for the title which Britons have won for the last three years. Right behind Smith and Sarazen were three Americans, all bracketed at 142. They were Walter Hagen of Detroit, four times winner of the crown; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., runner up for the 1937 American open, and Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., winner of the Masters' tourney.

Following Max Faulkner, British dark horse entry from Berkshire, and Scotland's Alastair McLeod, who tied at 143, were eight 144 shooters, of whom three were Americans. They were Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, United States open champion and Ryder cup hero; Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, and Joe Kirkwood, Australian born American.

Shute, Manero Well Up.

Denny Shute of Boston, national P. G. A. title holder for the last two years, and Tony Manero of Salem, Mass., finished the two day trial with 146's. Alf Padgham, defending the title he won last year, was five shots under the qualifying limit of 157 with a 152. Sixteen Americans were among the 141 seekers who shot under 157. The others included Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Charley Lacey of Great Neck, N. Bailey, another amateur entrant hailing from Battle Creek, Mich.

Henry Cotton of England, pre-tournament favorite to duplicate his 1934 title victory, finished with 73—72—145. Alf Perry, who succeeded Cotton in 1935, was around in 72—74—146.

The most spectacular performance of the second day's play was registered by Kirkwood. Joe scored a 67, four under par for the Burnside links, and a new course record.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Del Mar, Cal., July 6.—Topsy Omar, owned by Mrs. Teresa Loeff, stepped a mile in 1:39 3-5 for a new track record in winning the featured Lake Hodges handicap at Del Mar park, Bing Crosby's new racing plant, today.

Topsy Omar finished three lengths ahead of En Masse. Mickey's Man was third. The winner paid $9.80 for a $2 ticket.

Del Mar, the first track to operate in southern California during the summer months in years, is a rendezvous for the members of the motion picture colony, who flocked to the place for the official opening Saturday.

Crosby is president and chief financial backer. His associates include Pat O'Brien and Oliver [Babe] Hardy of the films. The syndicate is said to have invested $1,000,000 in the plant. The opening meeting will last 30 days, Sundays and Mondays excepted.

MOON MULLINS—DAZE DAWNING

Guldahl to Get Radix Cup at Chicago Open

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Backstage preparations for the $10,000 Chicago open golf tournament, to be decided at the Medinah Country club on July 23, 24, and 25, yesterday were progressing at a merry pace, auguring well for the success of the 1937 season's richest medal play event.

One of the most important of the several preliminary maneuvers going on in the tournament headquarters was the burnishing up of the Radix trophy, major golf's orphan prize since the Professional Golfers' association rejected it last April. The trophy for the last three years has been an annual award to the professional golfer showing the lowest scoring average per round in recognized tournaments.

Dispute Over Trophy.

The trophy was donated by Harry E. Radix, Chicago sportsman and president of the Chicago District Golf association for three years. Radix put up the trophy at the request of a former P. G. A. régime, and it was duly awarded for two years, in 1934 to Ky Laffoon and in 1935 to Paul Runyan. Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, who won the trophy for his work last season, never received it, for George R. Jacobus, president of the National P. G. A. and members of his tournament committee, turned back the prize. Leading pros resented this action, and the Illinois section of the P. G. A. filed a formal protest.

Officials of the $10,000 open, however, have invited Radix to present the trophy to Guldahl during the 72 hole battle at Medinah. Guldahl is certain to be present, having been one of the first players to enter. Ralph won the national open title last month, scored two impressive victories in the Ryder cup matches, and is currently one of the favorites to win the British open now in progress in Scotland.

Prepare Prize List.

While making certain that Guldahl will receive the Radix trophy, the bosses of the $10,000 open are interested in another angle of the prize question. This has to do with the amateur award list, which M. G. [Scotty] Fessenden, recently submitted to the United States Golf association. U. S. G. A. officials had asked those in charge of the tournament to keep the amateur prize list within bounds. The list of 36 awards planned for the Simon-pure winners was mailed to John G. Jackson of New York, president of the U. S. G. A., but it was learned yesterday that Mr. Jackson is now in Europe, and the list has been forwarded to R. Arthur Wood, Chicago member of the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. Mr. Wood will thus represent the national organization in the final discussion over the amateur prize list in the $10,000 open.

Armour-Millner Team Scores 63 in Pro-Amateur

A hole in one and a new best ball course record featured the Illinois P. G. A. pro-amateur tournament at Techny Fields yesterday. Tommy Armour of Medinah and his amateur partner, W. S. Millner, had 32—31—63 for the new record. Dave Tosh, pro at Sunset Ridge, holed his tee shot on the 175 yard 8th for an ace.

Jock Hutchison Jr. and his brother Edgar, with 32—32—64, won second, while third, fourth, and fifth were divided between George Arnold and O. W. Anderson, Kildeer; Red Dennison and A. R. Hulbert, Brier Hill, and Eddie Gayer and Sonny Rosenberg, Twin Orchards, with cards of 65.

Intradistrict team matches of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at Butterfield and one of the regular series of matches in the North Shore Golf league at Indian Hill constitute today's local golf program. The high spot of the week will occur tomorrow when Midlothian conducts its thirty-fourth Pater-Filius tournament. The tournament, best known of its kind in the country, will be a 27 hole medal play event this year.

The C. W. D. A. team matches at Butterfield today will bring together the ablest swingers from the north, west, and south sections of the association. In the North Shore league matches at Hinsdale the North Shore team will defend a five point lead over Sunset Ridge when it meets Skokie. Other matches pit Park Ridge against Westmoreland, Sunset Ridge against Ridgemoor, Indian Hill against Edgewater, and Ridgemoor against Evanston.

Ned Sawyer, Golfer, to Be Buried Today

Funeral services for Daniel Edward [Ned] Sawyer, one of Chicago's leading amateur golfers thirty years ago, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the chapel of the Forest Home cemetery in Forest park.

Mr. Sawyer died Sunday night at his Hinsdale home, where he was stricken following his return from an eastern business trip. He was vice president of the Twenty North Wacker Drive Building corporation and was a captain in the United States army during the world war. He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. John Wakefield, and two sons, D. E. Jr. and Jack.

Mr. Sawyer began his golfing career as a caddy at the Chicago Golf club about 1895. He was one of that circle of amateurs which included H. Chandler Egan, Chick Evans, Bob Gardner, Mason Phelps, Warren K. Wood, and Walter Egan and which made Chicago one of the best known golf centers in the game. He finished as runnerup to Chandler Egan in the 1905 national amateur at Chicago and won the western amateur of 1906 in a thirty-seven hole battle with Warren K. Wood at St. Louis.

KETTLES STOPS SUBSTITUTE FOE IN THIRD ROUND

Alex Kettles, former South Bend Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, scored a technical knockout over George Williams of Chicago in the third round of the scheduled six round feature bout at Western stadium last night. George Williams substituted for Paul Williams, who failed to appear.

In the main supporting bout George Engel, Plymouth, Ind., welterweight, won a six round decision over Bobby La Monte of Chicago. Other results:

Mickey Beal, Chicago, stopped Harry Ward, Indianapolis [2].
John Hellstrom, Chicago, beat Joey Richards, Chicago [4].
Joe Moore, Chicago, beat John Rock, Chicago [4].

Canadian Cricket Club Outscores Chicago, 147-128

The St. Catherine's, Ont., cricket team scored 147 runs for five wickets in a match with the Chicago Cricket club at 48th street and the Outer drive yesterday. The Chicago team scored 128 runs for eight wickets. The Canadian club will play at Winnetka today.

Williams Will Wrestle Shikina Despite Injuries

Al Williams insists that he is able to go through with the match, despite the fact that he suffered scalp wounds from the effects of a pop bottle wielded by an irate fan at White City.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois athletic commission has started an investigation as to the causes of the demonstration in which several spectators were injured. A hearing on the case will be conducted by the board next Monday.

At the same time the chairman revealed that the commission has sanctioned the match between Champion Everett Marshall and Chief Sanooke, listed at White City Monday, as a championship contest.

Supporting bouts at the Fronton:

Jack Conley vs. Frankie Talaber.
Bert Rubi vs. Jack Kogut.
Jack Curtis vs. Al Perry.
Pete Holtz vs. Ray Ryan.

Louis Thez and Wild Man Edwards will be opponents in the main event of Promoter Johnny Connor's mat card at Springfield, Ill., on July 13.

Varias Milling, Los Angeles featherweight, who was given a one year suspension by the state boxing commission last May, will have the ban lifted on Aug. 1. . . . Commissioner George Getz was unable to attend yesterday's meeting because of a cold, which kept him on his farm at Holland, Mich. . . . Ali Baba, former heavyweight wrestling champion, was given an indefinite suspension for failure to appear at the Fronton last Wednesday for a scheduled bout with Lou Talaber. . . . Rumors that Julian Black and John Roxborough, joint managers of Joe Louis, have split up were denied yesterday by Black.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil's dinner party, being given at the Stevens hotel in connection with the forthcoming international contests between boxers representing the Catholic Youth Organization and South America, will be held next Tuesday and not this week as published yesterday. F. M.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Leonard del Genio beat Mickey Duca [10]; Maxie Berger beat Midget Wolgast [8]; Italo Colonello beat Joe Lipps. [8].

Louis-Farr Bout Receives New York O.K.

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Joe Louis will make the first defense of his heavyweight championship within the next two months. Today the New York state athletic commission granted Mike Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, permission to promote a bout between Louis and Tommy Farr, young Welsh challenger, during the week of Sept. 13, in the Yankee stadium.

In explaining their action the commissioner stated that Max Schmeling had refused to enter into negotiations for a battle with Louis. When the commission voted, a week ago, to recognize Louis as the champion, it did so with the proviso that the Brown Bomber must defend his title the first time out against Schmeling, should the latter be willing.

Board Hears from Schmeling.

Maj. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, explained that he had cabled Schmeling in Germany informing him that he would receive first chance at Louis, and asking the German what his immediate intentions regarding such a fight might be.

Schmeling's reply, according to Gen. Phelan, was that he could not consider a Louis match at present, because he was preparing to fight Farr in London next month. Previously Farr had assured Jacobs that he was willing to forego a Schmeling fight for the opportunity to meet Louis.

With the receipt of Schmeling's answer, therefore, Gen. Phelan explained that the board had fulfilled its obligation as regards the German, and informed Promoter Jacobs that he had its permission to promote a Louis-Farr encounter.

Plans Championship Card.

While he asked for the September date Jacobs revealed, after the board meeting, that he will seek to move the heavyweight championship fight up a month. He prefers to stage it during the week of Aug. 23, and to present his all-championship card involving four class titleholders in the week of Sept. 13.

For his all-championship program Jacobs plans to pit Marcel Thil, recognized in Europe as the world's middleweight champion, against Freddie Apostoli of San Francisco; Barney Ross, welterweight titleholder, against Geferino Garcia; Lou Ambers, lightweight king, against Pedro Montanez, and Sixto Escobar, bantamweight champion, against either K. O. Morgan or Harry Jeffra.

DASHIELL, FATHER OF FORWARD PASS AND RULES, DIES

Annapolis, Md., July 6.—(AP)—Capt. Paul N. Dashiell, U. S. N. [retired], chairman of the national football rules committee for fifteen years, died today from a heart attack in the navy hospital, where he had gone for eye treatment. He would have been 70 years old on July 16.

Dashiell was one of a group of football enthusiasts which met in 1896 in an attempt to draw up uniform rules for the game. At that time Princeton, Navy, and Yale used one set of rules and Harvard, Cornell, and Pennsylvania another.

The rules were made uniform and the present rules committee was formed with Capt. Dashiell as chairman. He served until 1911.

He is credited with being the "father of the forward pass." In 1905, when football was under fire because of the number of injuries, Dashiell suggested the pass as a means of opening up the game.

OLD WESTBURY AND FOXHUNTERS WIN POLO GAMES

Westbury, N. Y., July 6.—[Special.]—Old Westbury and Foxhunters won today in the Meadow Brook Club cup polo tourney.

The Foxhunters, leading the Brook league, assured themselves of at least a tie by defeating the previously undefeated Pelicans, 7 to 5. It was the Foxhunters fifth straight victory.

On Waterbury field, the unbeaten Aiken Knights won the afternoon's most one-sided decision, crushing the Ramblers, 13 to 4. Elbridge T. Gerry led Aknusti to a 6 to 4 victory over Roslyn.

GOMEZ OPPOSES DEAN TODAY IN ALL-STAR GAME

ers were reserved and have been sold for days. It is estimated that 30,000 orders were rejected after announcement had been made that it was futile to send in requests. It also was said that if space had been available a crowd of 80,000 would be on hand.

The receipts, expected to total $30,000, will be turned over to baseball's funds for indigent players.

The Nationals continued the favorites among dopesters, though little betting was reported. The Nationals were favored to repeat because of their supposed pitching advantage. For some reason little account is being taken by the dopesters of the comparative hitting ability of the array of sluggers on each team.

President's First Game.

There have been some changes in the methods of player selection since the first game, originated and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was played four years ago today at Comiskey park, Chicago. But tomorrow's contest is not expected to reveal loss of the glamor of the original spectacle, a glamor which was approximated in the subsequent games, played at the Polo Grounds, New York, in 1934; in the Cleveland Municipal stadium in 1935, and, though the crowd was disappointing, in Boston National league park last July.

It will be the first All-Star game attended by the nation's chief executive. Flanking the presidential box will be notables of the administration who are forgetting the nation's cares to behold the so-called national pastime for a day.

FRENCH REDUCE DISCOUNT RATE TO EASE CREDIT

Map Plans to Replenish Nation's Treasury.

PARIS, France, July 6.—[Special.]—In a move designed to win the support of business and industry for its financial program, the Chautemps government today reduced the rediscount rate of the Bank of France from 6 to 5 per cent, making credit cheaper for the business man and industrialist. At the same time the government drafted decrees which it is hoped will replenish the treasury's depleted funds with 10,000,000,000 francs [about $386,500,000] of additional revenue.

Operations were also ordered resumed today on the commodity markets, which have been closed since June 21, when the financial emergency reached a critical point.

Decline of Franc Big Factor.

The lowering of the rediscount rate was made possible by the decline of the franc in the exchange market and the removal of the need for the government to support the market.

The rediscount rate by successive increases had been boosted to an abnormally high level to discourage the export of French capital. At its new level below 4 cents the franc is believed to be safe from further attacks such as led to the crisis of two weeks ago.

The bank's interest rate on security loans was cut from 7 to 6 per cent and the rate on thirty day loans from 6 to 5 per cent.

Scared Capital Returning.

Some French capital which fled the country prior to devaluation has returned to realize its profit. The government's stabilization fund is reported to have increased its holdings of foreign exchange. This puts it in a position to maintain the franc in the exchange market should further support be required.

Details of the decrees for raising new revenues are not yet known. It is understood, however, the government will try several measures to increase taxes and plug up loopholes in present tax laws.

New levies will produce revenue of 8,000,000,000 francs, while tightening of the present tax measures will bring in an additional 2,000,000,000 francs, it is hoped. This would be more than enough to meet the anticipated government deficit.

Exchange Bill Approved.

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—Royal approval was given to the government's exchange equalization account bill today after passage by the house of lords. The measure is designed to add £200,000,000 [one billion dollars] to the equalization fund to help Britain fulfill its monetary agreement with the United States.

PRICE OF FRANC RISES.

The franc was stronger in foreign exchange transactions in New York yesterday. The currency was quoted at 3.86 7-16 cents, an advance of .01 11-16 of a cent. The British pound rose ¼ cent to $4.95⅝. Other foreign currencies were slightly higher in terms of American money.

Gold in London yesterday was quoted at $34.975 an ounce, the smallest discount below the American price of $35 an ounce in many weeks. Engagements of $3,278,000 gold abroad for shipment to New York were reported to the federal reserve bank of which $1,612,000 was taken in England, $1,262,000 in Switzerland, and $404,000 in Holland.

Railroad-Truck Service, One Year Old, Called Successful

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The Chicago Great Western railroad and more than twenty motor truck companies today are observing the first anniversary of an integrated rail-truck service between Chicago and St. Paul-Minneapolis whereby truck trailers are carried on railroad flat cars instead of moving over the public highways. So successful has been the operation, that trucking company officials predict this innovation in transportation will be adopted on a nation wide scale.

In the year since this service was started by the railroad and by the members of the Illinois-Minnesota Motor Carriers Conference, Inc., and Keeshin Motor Express, Inc., 10,296 truck trailers have been transported between Chicago and the Minnesota twin cities over the railroad's private right-of-way.

The railroad obtained about $380,000 in revenue from this service which it otherwise would not have received. Had the railroad not carried them, the trailers would have taken this business over the highways.

Operators of trucks report that they have found the service highly profitable to them for a number of reasons. Among them are:

Freedom from the hazards of severe weather and highway travel; freedom from legislative restrictions on length of trailers, weight, and other rules, avoidance of penalties for highway operation infractions; freedom from restrictions on week-end truck operations, and the reduction of labor difficulties to a minimum.

The public is the gainer from a safety point of view because of the reduction in the number of trucks on the highways. Taxpayers benefit from the fact that the pounding of heavy trucks on pavements is reduced.

Trains carrying the trailers were reported to have been on time approximately 96 per cent of the time, while there were only one or two really serious delays. The truck operators reported that there was no pilferage while the trailers were being carried on the flat cars and loss and damage resulting from delayed delivery was small.

In the integrated service, the trailers are loaded on flat cars in Chicago freight yards and unloaded at St. Paul and Minneapolis. South bound the procedure is reversed.

10 VISCOSE RAYON CITED BY U. S. FOR PRICE FIXING

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—The federal trade commission announced today it has ordered 10 corporations manufacturing substantially all of the viscose rayon yarn made in the United States "to cease and desist from entering into and carrying out a price fixing combination."

The commission said it had found after "extensive hearings" that the corporations had entered into a price fixing conspiracy which increased the prices of viscose rayon yarn as well as the prices of cloth and wearing apparel made of rayon.

The companies named were: Viscose company, Dupont Rayon company, Tubize Chatillon corporation, Industrial Rayon corporation, North American Rayon corporation, American Enka corporation, Delaware Rayon company, Acme Rayon corporation, Belamose corporation, and Skenandoa Rayon corporation.

MIDDLE WEST ELECTS THREE NEW DIRECTORS

Yearly Meeting Date Changed to April.

BY JOHN FISHER.

Stockholders of the Middle West corporation, big utility concern, held their annual meeting here yesterday at which they elected three new directors, approved a change in the meeting date and asked the usual questions expected at an assembly of dividendless stockholders. The meeting passed off quietly.

Daniel C. Green. [Moffett Photo.]

Directors were elected to fill two earlier vacancies and to succeed Walter A. Shaw. The new members are: Martin Lindsay, Chicago, vice president of Telephone Bond and Share company and formerly chairman of the Middle West Utilities common stockholders' committee; E. A. Olsen, Chicago, vice president of Middle West Service company, and Charles K. Wilmers, connected with the Sofina corporation, a Belgian concern, and described as "a financial man," who just moved to Chicago.

Reason for Change.

Changing of the meeting date from the first Tuesday in July to the third Tuesday in April provoked queries from a few of the fifty stockholders present.

D. C. Green, president, explained that it was suggested as a matter of convenience—to place the meeting closer to issuance of the annual report in April. One stockholder suggested it would be a better idea to hold the meeting shortly after the close of the fiscal year on Dec. 31, so that stockholders could say something about the distribution of earnings, rather than after directors had already done something about it. Green said this was impossible because of the time required in getting audited reports from the underlying companies.

No questions were asked about the payment of dividends, but several stockholders did approach Green on this subject at the close of the meeting. He replied that no possible decision on dividends could be made until the close of the year. No dividends have been paid since the company was formed in 1935 as successor to the Middle West Utilities company.

Blames TVA for Decline.

Green expressed the opinion that Middle West stock has suffered no larger decline than other utility holding companies. Such decline he attributed to the government's Tennessee Valley authority project and legislation adverse to utility companies.

P. J. Ryan, holder of 32 shares, complained because of the extensive information contained in the company's 45 page annual report for 1936. He expressed wonder at the cost of such an elaborate report and its complexity.

"I think I understand balance sheets," he said, "but it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to understand this one."

Green said that since it was the first complete report the management thought stockholders would want details.

Two Express Dissatisfaction.

One of two veteran stockholders also expressed dissatisfaction on the progress of the meeting, commenting to his companion about the middle of the session that he thought he would go, explaining, "I thought I'd learn something here."

He was referring to the opening remarks of President Green, in which he called attention to the annual report, spoke on rising electricity consumption and expressed the philosophy of the operating companies.

"It is the policy of these companies," said Green, "to render efficient service at reasonable rates; be open, honest, and frank in their dealings with the public they serve, and ask a fair return on the capital invested in the business. The continued application of these policies by the subsidiary companies will determine the future of the Middle West corporation."

Sue Old Board of Continental Illinois Bank

A suit brought by stockholders of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company [predecessor of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company] against forty-seven directors of the bank for more than $6,000,000 was disclosed yesterday. The suit had been suppressed since June 26.

George M. Reynolds.

Many financially and socially promiment men are named defendants in the suit, which asks that the directors repay to the bank all losses, estimated at more than $6,000,000, which they incurred in agreeing on June 9, 1932, to liquidate the People's Trust and Savings bank and to assume all its liabilities. The Continental bank recently lost a suit to collect from the People's Trust stockholders.

The suit was brought by Emanuel Skolnick, 5047 North Central Park avenue, a stockholder of Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, on behalf of all stockholders and was filed in the Circuit court. It is directed against members of the board in 1932, some of whom are not now directors of the Continental Illinois National, the new bank.

Present Officers Included.

In an amendment filed yesterday to the original bill of complaint officers and directors of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company were added as defendants because, said the bill, they ratified the alleged illegal agreement "either by their affirmative conduct or by failure to terminate and repudiate said agreement."

The officers named in the suit are George M. Reynolds, then chairman of the executive committee, Arthur Reynolds, then chairman of the board of directors, Stanley Field, then chairman of the advisory committee, and James R. Leavell, president.

JULY FOURTH HOLIDAY CAUSES STEEL RATE IN U. S. TO DECLINE

Due to the Independence day holiday, steel operations are scheduled this week at only 67.3 per cent of ingot capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This represents a drop of 7.7 points, or 10.3 per cent, from the scheduled rate for the preceding week.

Operations in the Chicago district rose sharply despite the Monday holiday, due to resumption of operations by Inland Steel company. The rate for this week is 69 per cent of capacity against 60 per cent last week.

A month ago the national rate was 76.2 per cent, off 1.2 points from the week before. In the corresponding week a year ago the indicated rate of operations was the same as this week's rate, 67.3 per cent, a decrease of 6.8 points from the preceding week.

In the like week of 1935, the indicated rate was 35.8 per cent, up 2¼ points, and in 1934 it was 27.5 per cent, a gain of 4½ points over the preceding week.

Marlin-Rockwell Stock Hearing Is Set for July 14

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—The securities and exchange commission called on the Marlin-Rockwell corporation, with offices at Jamestown, N. Y., Plainville, Conn., and Chicago, to show cause at a hearing July 14 why the registration of its common stock on the New York Stock Exchange should not be suspended or withdrawn. The commission asserted the company had not supplied all required information in its annual report filed under the Securities Exchange act of 1934.

SENATE, HOUSE WRANGLES OVER FARM TENANCY

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—The senate and house squabbled today over the farm tenancy bill at the same time that the house engaged in battle with the administration over the general farm program. Neither contest boded well for prospects of an early adjournment.

Members of the house expressed loud resentment at the action of the senate in amending the farm tenant bill to put the government into the landlord business, a proposal specifically voted down by the house. When a motion was made to send the bill to conference, where differences might be ironed out, objection was offered and a delay caused.

The senate bill authorized the government to acquire land, to improve it and sell or lease it. The house bill authorized loans to farmers from the farm credit administration.

Monon Reorganization Case Delayed to Sept. 1

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—The interstate commerce commission announced today the postponement of hearings on the reorganization plan of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville railroad, originally set for July 27, to Sept. 1, 1937. The commission also granted authority to a bondholders' protective committee headed by Reese D. Alsop of New York to seek proxies and authorization from bondholders.

CHICAGO BANKS' BUSINESS LOANS CONTINUE RISE

'Call' Also Discloses Gain in Deposits.

(Statistics on page 28.)

Statements of condition of Chicago banks on June 30 issued yesterday showed a further expansion in employment of capital for commercial purposes and a material gain in deposits, compared with three months ago.

Loans and discounts of all Chicago banks reached a new recovery high of $762,165,000—about 50 per cent larger than the low point reached during the depression years. The total, however, is still far below the record figure of more than 2 billion 200 millions reached in the fall of 1929.

27 Million Gain for Quarter.

The increase over March 31 this year in loans and discounts amounted to approximately 27 million dollars. In the first six months of 1937 the expansion was 42 million dollars.

Combined deposits of Chicago banks recovered to 2 billion 976 millions on June 30—an increase of 314 millions over March 31 but below the record top of 3 billion 195 millions reached 9 months ago. The big expansion in deposits since March 31 has resulted from the return of funds to the city which were withdrawn over the April 1 tax date.

The figures reported by the banks on government security holdings showed an increase over March 31. On the latter date, however, the banks had reduced their holdings of government paper by sales to customers who were seeking tax exempt investments.

Comparison Out of Line.

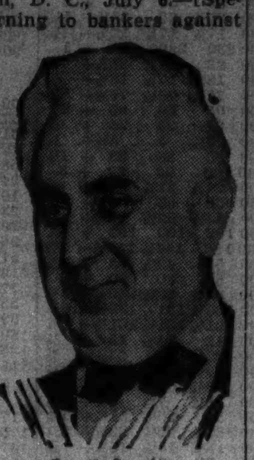
As a result the comparison with present holdings of government does not give a true indication of the trend. The banks have been cutting down by degrees their investments in government paper as the demand for commercial credit has expanded.

Among the larger banks the Continental, Harris Trust, Northern Trust and City National reported increases in loans and discounts. The First National had a small decline compared with three months earlier. All reported deposit increases.

Savings deposits of all banks on June 30 were 23 millions greater than on March 31. The present total of 535 millions for savings is the highest in more than 6 years.

FDIC Warns Banks to Halt Speculation in Securities

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—A warning to bankers against speculation in securities and disclosure that 24 banks had been cited for "unsafe and unsound practices during 1936" were contained in the annual report of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, issued yesterday by Chairman Leo T. Crowley.



Leo T. Crowley.

The statement said the FDIC "has been viewing with alarm the prevalence of speculative practices by banks in handling their investments." It added that in recent years many banks have bought securities hoping to profit from a rise in prices rather than seeking to obtain reasonable earnings over an extended period.

Important Investment Group.

"The banks," the report continued, "constitute one of the most important groups of investors in the market. As a group they cannot get in and out of the investment market without completely disrupting the market. As a consequence they cannot speculate in securities without undermining the soundness of the financial structure of the country."

Crowley said that including the citations last year there are about thirty banks against which similar cases are pending and that a close check is being made on approximately 200 others.

The 14,024 banks insured by the corporation during the last year paid $35,600,000 in assessments at the rate of 1-12 of 1 per cent of total deposits.

No Cut in Rate.

Crowley told newspaper men that the experience of the last three years has not afforded a sufficient test of the insurance system, but added that in any event no lowering of assessment could be expected until bankers had eliminated certain objectionable practices.

"We have a hospital for banks which persist in unsafe and unsound practices," he said.

The most common practices on which the FDIC frowns, he said, are operation with insufficient capital, excessive extension of credit to officers and directors, unduly hazardous or illegal extensions of credit, holding an excessive volume of hazardous assets, and operation with "dishonest, incompetent or careless management."

Use Profits for Dividends.

The report said some banks have used profits from securities speculation to pay dividends or retire preferred stock without making adequate provision for possible future depreciation in their holdings of securities.

"When banks speculate," the statement added, "they can expect to incur losses at some time. The FDIC insists insured member banks of the corporation make provision for losses, and contends that failure to do this constitutes an unsound banking practice which could lead to termination of deposit insurance."

RESTRAIN ALL BUT 4 STOCKHOLDERS FROM SUING RFC

Peoria, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—Four stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company, Chicago, were given exclusive rights in United States District court today to sue the Reconstruction Finance corporation for possession of the defunct Chicago bank's assets pledged as collateral for loans during the 1932 crisis.

Claiming a multiplicity of suits are threatened over the same issue they secured a restraining order from Federal Judge J. Leroy Adair against other litigation.

The suit asks that the RFC be forced to surrender the remaining unliquidated collateral amounting to several million dollars for the benefit of a trust fund to be established for stockholders who were recently assessed 100 per cent stockholders' liability.

323 MILLIONS MORE SENT BY FOREIGNERS TO U. S. IN QUARTER

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—Foreigners sent $323,024,000 to the United States during the first quarter of 1937, the treasury reported yesterday. This brought the net capital movement to this country from abroad to $2,929,773,000 since Jan. 2, 1935, when treasury studies began.

Of the total, the net amount going for purchase of American securities was $158,350,000 in the first quarter of 1937, compared with $600,693,000 in 1936 and $316,660,000 in 1935. This means an addition of $1,075,703,000 in foreign investments in American securities.

A much larger amount of money, however, was involved in total American security transactions by foreigners.

STOCKS STAGE BEST RECOVERY IN MANY WEEKS

Steel Shares Lead; Volume Increases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—Scoring the most impressive recovery in weeks, stocks rose from fractions to around six points today. Light profit taking in the closing hour whittled away small fractions from the larger gains. Steels set the pace, with motors, coppers, and farm equipments and several individual issues following close behind. Rails and utilities also worked higher, although some of the gains in the latter group were shaded in the last hour, when an easier trend appeared.

Volume was sharply higher, transactions totaling 1,409,960 shares, the largest turnover since May 13.

Bids Exceed Offerings.

A scarcity of offerings to counterbalance the bids that had accumulated over the week-end contributed to the advances. The improvement in the labor situation also helped and tended to remove some of the hesitation that had forced traders to the sidelines, giving them sufficient courage to come into the market.

U. S. Steel common featured with a 3¼ points jump. Big blocks of stocks changed hands at a fast clip. Subsequent support pushed Steel common to 107 for a 5⅝ points net gain. Bethlehem jumped 6 points on somewhat lesser activity than U. S. Steel. Inland picked up 5⅛ points, Youngstown 3¼ points, and Republic 3 points. Sloss-Sheffield moved up 10 points on 1,000 shares.

Chrysler Above Par.

Chrysler crossed par early in the day and later pushed up to 104⅝ for a net gain of 6⅝ points. General Motors moved in heavier volume for 3⅝ points increase. Other motor stocks worked fractionally higher.

Anaconda was the volume leader in the copper division and rose over 2 points. American Smelting added over 3 points, while other leading metal shares gained between 1 and 3 points.

Boeing and Douglas were headliners in the aviation. The former moved in heavy volume for a 2 point jump, while the latter garnered 3 points. Wright-Aero was another

New York Bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—All classes of bonds sold higher today in a burst of activity such as is rarely seen after a triple holiday. Although volume of trading in treasury bonds was no greater than toward the close of last week, the tone was higher throughout the day, gains running to as much as a quarter point.

The most extensive gains were recorded in second grade and convertible issues, which were buoyed up by the same influences as the more volatile stock market.

Republic Steel 4½s outstripped the market with a gain of 13¼ points, reflecting the strong market for steel stocks.

Foreign bonds suggested no uneasiness over news abroad. Japanese 5½s were up more than a point and Italian 7s were strong. South Americans were generally higher, led by Brazilian 8s and Chilean 6s.

Trading totaled $8,943,000, against $8,414,000 Friday.

Chicago Stocks.

The Chicago Stock exchange yesterday experienced one of the strongest sessions in the last two months. The trend was upward and volume of 52,000 shares was largest since May 13.

Gains ranged up to 5¼ points—recorded by Commonwealth Edison—and the seven heaviest traded issues showed advances for the day. Middle West had the biggest volume at 9,100 shares and rose ⅞ point. Chicago Corporation common and preferred, Armour, General Finance, Cord and Central and South West Utilities gained minor fractions.

Of the 113 issues traded yesterday 78 closed higher, 18 lower, and 17 unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

First National and Continental Illinois bank stocks rose sharply yesterday upon publication of call figures for June 30. First National jumped $15 and Continental Illinois rose $8. Personal Loan advanced $1. Others were steady.

National Biscuit.

Investors' Guide: Please send me all information about stock of National Biscuit company.—A. E. F.

Answer: Largest American manufacturer of crackers and biscuits, this company has plants located in 32 cities of 21 states. It also has three Canadian plants and one in England. Until acquisition of a number of established concerns in the several years prior to 1932, National Biscuit built up its preëminent position by steady expansion of its own production and marketing facilities.

The 500 varieties of crackers and biscuits form the backbone of business, but the company bakes cake and bread, the latter in 19 different plants. In more recent years the company has taken an important place in the packaged cereal field, acquiring the Shredded Wheat company in 1929. Other products include puddings, candy, cocoa, peanut butter and macaroni.

Far flung operations are well knit. About 70 per cent of flour requirements are supplied by the company's own mills, a molasses blending plant provides all molasses needed, and it makes most of its cartons.

Earnings increased steadily through 1930. Depression flattened budgets, then reduced sales of cakes, cookies and other more profitable fancy lines. NRA and processing taxes added to troubles, and competition prevented passing costs on to consumers.

As a result, net income declined from $22,880,000 or $3.41 per common share in 1930 to $19,739,000, or $2.86 in 1931, $17,104,000, or $2.44 in 1932, $14,995,000, or $2.11 in 1933, $11,598,000, or $1.57 in 1934 and $9,986,000, or $1.31 in 1935.

With removal of processing taxes and expansion of consumer purchasing power, the decline was broken in 1936 when net income was $12,640,000 or $1.73 a share. Higher operating costs and difficulties in increasing prices, particularly on packaged goods, cloud otherwise good prospects and resulted in decline of net to $2,539,000, or 33 cents a share in the first quarter this year compared with $2,917,000, or 39 cents in the first quarter of 1936.

Dividend payments in excess of earnings have reduced working capital, but financial position still is strong.

As earnings shrank the annual dividend rate on the common was cut from $2.80 to $2 a share in July, 1934. The present rate of $1.60 was established a year later.

Capitalization consists of 248,045 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 6,289,448 shares of $10 par common stock.

The common is rather high grade.

INSURANCE STOCKS RISE.

Insurance company stocks in the New York City market moved higher last week, a compilation by Hoit, Rose & Troster, a brokerage firm, disclosed. The twenty fire and casualty issues used had an aggregated market value on July 2 of $600,880,000 compared with $590,479,000 on June 26.

Commodities

World commodity prices generally moved higher yesterday under leadership of silk, cottonseed oil, and some metals. Several staples showed weakness, however, although most losses, except in coffee, were restricted to a few points.

Strength in copper on the London metal exchange featured metal trading through the world. Better London quotations pushed the American export copper price as high as 14.35 cents a pound after early sales of 14.125 cents. Copper futures in New York climbed 18 to 23 points [a point equals 0.01 cent] but the American domestic price remained unchanged at 14 cents.

Silk advanced 3½ to 5 cents a pound in active trading and silk for immediate delivery climbed as much as 7 cents a pound for some grades. Hides added another 32 to 35 points in the New York futures market.

Rubber futures declined 1 to 4 points and crude rubber for immediate delivery closed at 19.37 cents a pound, down 1 point. Cottonseed oil futures spurted 11 to 15 points.

Coffee futures fell under liquidation promoted by declines in Brazilian markets.

No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap in Pittsburgh was boosted another 50 cents a ton to $19 to $19.50 a ton, an increase of $1 in less than a week.

STOCKS REBOUND; RALLY SHARPEST IN MANY WEEKS

Steel Shares Lead Upturn; Activity Increases.

Oil issues continued active, but price changes were mixed in a fractional range. Gains in the railroad division were not large and advances were small.

International Telephone and Telegraph was an outstanding performer in the utility division, adding 1¼ points. Other communications equities, including American Telephone and Western Union, climbed 1 to 3 points.

Rubber Shares Rise.

Goodyear and U. S. Rubber were outstanding in their group, the former on volume and the latter with a 3¾ points jump. Farm equipments joined the pace set by other leading industrials with increases of from 2 to 5 points, Case Threshing chalking up the latter figure. Montgomery Ward, up 2¾, and Sears-Roebuck, up 2⅞, featured the merchandising group.

EDUCATOR LAUDS MACHINES' ROLE AS JOB CREATOR

The common belief that machines throw men out of work is a fallacy because machines have created more jobs for men than they have ever destroyed, Dr. James Shelby Thomas, Detroit, director of the Chrysler Institute of Engineering and president of Clarkson College of Technology, yesterday told the Chicago Rotary club at the Sherman hotel.

There is no such thing as "technological unemployment," he said. The reason for the wrong impression is that persons with narrow vision see a machine doing work with one man that a dozen men formerly did without it and rush to a faulty conclusion instead of counting the machines, the men who made them and the men who supply the materials and market the products.

PROFIT TAKING WIPES OUT RISE IN WHEAT PITS

New Highs Reached Before Setback Occurs.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices on the principal September deliveries of grain on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday were:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$1.25⅞	$1.27	$1.05⅞
Corn	1.13⅜	1.12⅛	.77⅞
Oats	.39⅜	.39⅞	.37⅞
Rye	.91	.90⅞	.71⅞
Soy beans [Oct.]	1.13	1.13⅜

New high price levels for the season were established on the future deliveries of wheat in leading North American markets yesterday as the result of a steady increase in reports of crop destruction in the American and Canadian northwest due to intense heat and drouth.

September wheat in Chicago advanced 2c over Saturday's close at the extreme and touched $1.29⅜ to react late in the session on profit taking and selling induced by the forecast for a breaking of the heat wave in the spring wheat belt and a possibility of showers.

Losses at Close.

Closing trades were at net losses of ⅜ to 1⅛ cents a bushel, the latter on July. Wheat futures in Winnipeg rallied over 6 cents a bushel at one time, but weakened later in the session to close ¾ to 1⅝ cents lower as compared with Monday and unchanged to 1⅜ cents a bushel lower than Saturday.

A drastic downward revision in the estimated wheat crop in the western half of North and South Dakota was indicated by trade reports as the intense heat over the July 4 holidays seared fields in that territory and in the southern section of the three Canadian provinces.

Near record receipts of cash wheat were reported yesterday. The ten leading winter grain markets, exclusive of Chicago, received 9,544 cars, or approximately 5,000,000 bushels. This compared with about 2,500,000 bushels for the corresponding day in 1936.

Corn Develops Strength.

Dry weather reports from parts of the corn belt west of the Missouri river, where there is decided lack of subsoil moisture, resulted in corn futures developing independent strength. Closing trades were ¾ to 2¼ cents higher, the latter on the new crop. Receipts of 690,000 bushels of Argentine corn at Chicago over the holidays and reports that nearly 20,000,000 bushels of that grain were afloat on the ocean and headed for North American ports tended to cause the July delivery to lose ground on the distant futures.

LONDON METALS.

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—Closing prices per ton: COPPER—Standard, spot, £56 17s 6d; future, £56 15s; electrolytic, spot, £68 bid, £65 asked. TIN—Spot, £262 5s; future, £262. LEAD—Spot, £24 11s 3d; future, £24 7s 6d. ZINC—Spot, £22 8s 9d; future, £22 12s 6d.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets were more active today and prices showed a strengthening tendency. Raw silk was 10 cents a pound higher. Burlap showed little change and business was light. Rayon yarns were fairly active. Wool goods market was slow.

AXTON-FISHER OMITS DIVIDENDS; OTHERS PAY MORE

Extras and Increased Rates Announced.

With the exception of another omission of payments on Axton-Fisher Tobacco stocks, dividend news was generally favorable yesterday. Along with the regular payments, there was a sprinkling of extras or increases in the regular rate.

An extra of 25 cents a share will be paid July 30 on common stock of Waukesha Motors company, and the Modine Manufacturing company declared a dividend of 75 cents a share, compared with 50 cent payments in the preceding two quarters this year. Waukesha Motors made a quarterly payment of 25 cents July 1, and is to pay a 5 cent extra Aug. 2.

Regular Dividends Voted.

Regular quarterly dividends were declared on Walgreen common, National Tea preferred, Illinois Northern Utilities preferred, Schwitzer-Cummins common, Altorfer Brothers preferred, and capital stock of the National City Bank of New York.

Cerro de Pasco Copper will pay a dividend of $1 a share Aug. 2, the same as was paid May 1. Sterling Aluminum Products, Inc., will pay 25 cents July 10, the same as was distributed May 10. Welsbaum Bros.-Brower will pay a 15 cent extra and a 10 cent quarterly dividend July 23.

PRICES OF MEATS AND LIVE STOCK RISE SHARPLY

New July peaks for recent years were established in most live stock and meats yesterday on abnormally low supplies for this season.

Cattle led the sharp rise in prices at the stockyards, top steers soaring to $16.25, the highest July mark since 1929. This price shows a gain of $6.90, or 73.8 per cent, over the same day last year.

Heifers brought $14.75, also highest since 1929 and $6.00 over a year ago, an increase of 68.5 per cent. Top hogs reached $12.75, a new eleven year high for the month, showing $1.60 advance over 1936, or 14.3 per cent, while lambs at $11.75, highest since 1929, were $1.25 above last year, a gain of 11.9 per cent.

Post-holiday receipts of live stock fell below all expectations and brought a deluge of buying orders as additional gains up to 50 cents and $1.00 per hundred pounds were recorded in wholesale meat channels.

TWO RADIO TUBE FIRMS REPORT EARNINGS GAINS

Research for Television Makes Progress.

Two radio tube companies, National Union Radio corporation and Raytheon Manufacturing company, both listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange, yesterday reported improved earnings for fiscal years ended in 1937.

National Union Radio reported net income of $47,548 for the year ended April 30 after interest, depreciation, federal income, and undistributed profits taxes, and a special writedown of $45,476 on equipment no longer used. This compared with a net loss of $90,434 for the preceding fiscal year.

"There has been an increase in volume of sales and prices have advanced in some cases," said the report of S. W. Muldowny, chairman, and Harold R. Peters, president. "The results of the general recovery are reflected in the company's improved condition. Opportunities for further price increases are limited, however, as competition for business is keen.

Progress in Research.

"During the year we have made additional progress in research work on cathode ray and other tubes necessary for television work.

"It is the expectation of the company that improving general business conditions will be reflected in an increased desire for radio sets and tubes and it is felt that the company is in a position to take advantage of any such increase."

Raytheon Manufacturing reported net profit of $151,277 for the year ended May 31 after federal income taxes, depreciation, and other deductions, including provision of $157,375 for disputed royalties, against a net loss of $80,823 in the preceding fiscal year.

Earns 46 Cents a Share.

The profit for the year ended in 1937 was equal to 46 cents a share on the common after annual dividend requirements on the 6 per cent preferred.

No provision was made for surtax on undistributed profits due to the loan agreement of subsidiaries restricting dividend payments and no provision was made for legal expenses in connection with pending litigation as the amount was not determinable at May 31, 1937, the company said.

"Pig Iron."

Basic materials used in making pig iron, an intermediate product in the process of making steel, are iron ore, scrap metal, limestone, and coke. Some of these materials frequently are transported long distances from the steel mill, although companies try to locate their plants near both raw materials and markets as far as possible.

Big companies usually have their own iron ore mines. This gives them an advantage over the small companies which depend on scrap metal or supplies of iron ore controled by big concerns. The larger companies can use iron ore when the price of scrap metal is high and scrap metal when it is cheap. Frequently both materials are used at the same time, the percentage of each varying with the market price.

Raw materials are placed together in a big furnace in proportions carefully measured by automatic devices. Usually the materials are put into the furnace in alternate layers so they can mix freely when the coke is ignited by blasts of hot air. The limestone helps the chemical reaction in the furnace to take place.

The molten iron settles to the bottom and is drawn off. This is the "pig iron" which is later refined into steel. The name "pig iron" was adopted many years ago when the hot, liquid iron was allowed to run along a channel in the earthern floor of a casting room into small impressions or molds leading off from the channel. Some one suggested that the little molds along the channel looked like pigs eating out of a trough.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Trees Win Life Fight.

July 6, 1937.

SHADE trees that were badly injured by fire when a horse barn burned on the Tribune's Wheaton farm in the spring of 1934 have lived through two summers of severe drouth since the fire and now are making rapid recovery. So persistent have been the trees in their fight for life that they have convinced tree lovers at the farm of their ability to make the best of the most trying circumstances.

Most of these trees are ordinary American elms and bur oaks. Except for their sentimental value they likely would have been cut down and replaced by new plantings. But they were a part of the farm's family, with personalities all their own, and, despite their scarred tops, they now are valued far above more shapely trees that might easily have been put in their places.

Some of these trees are expected to make full recovery in a few more years. Others may never regain their former shapes, but likely will live for a long time.

Free from Disease.

John Wallner, the farm's head gardener, says the chief reason the injured trees have made such remarkable recovery is that they were comparatively free from disease and in a thrifty condition when the fire occurred. Although the bark was completely burned away on the sides of the trees next to the fire, there were narrow strips of bark left intact on the other sides of the tree trunks. These strips were sufficient to provide contacts through which plant foods could be carried from the roots to the leaves.

Since much of the tops of the trees were burned off, less than the normal amount of plant food was needed for the parts that remained. The root systems were not harmed by the fire and were, therefore, able to supply more food than was needed for the foliage that was left. The rapid growth made by the trees since the fire has been a result of nature's attempt to bring about a balance between the root systems and the above ground portions of the plants, Mr. Wallner explains.

New Growth Spreads.

Some young American elms that were about thirty inches in circumference at the time of the fire had more than half the bark burned from their trunks. New growth has spread three inches in both directions from the sound bark, leaving strips only about ten inches wide yet to be covered. Water sprouts sprang up around the bases of these trees as a result of the balance between the tops and the root systems being upset, but the sprouts have been cut back to allow the full strength from the roots to go to the tops.

The burnt places have been kept painted to keep the wood from decaying until new bark could grow over the injured areas.

Two Colorado fir trees actually were helped by the fire. They stood too far away from the barn to be badly burned, but some large oaks between them and the barn were destroyed. Evergreens, especially firs, are hermits by nature; they like to live alone. Now that the oaks are gone they get more sunlight and are making better growth than before the fire. They are putting out new branches near the surface of the ground and also in the tops.

FEDERAL AGENCY OFFERS SHORT TERM NOTE ISSUE

Approve Reynolds Metals Boost in Stock.

The Federal Intermediate Credit corporation through its fiscal agent, Charles R. Dunn, yesterday offered $30,000,000 of 1⅛ per cent debentures in two maturities, six or nine months, subject to choice of subscribers. The six months' issue, dated July 15, will yield 0.55 per cent to maturity, while the nine months' obligation was offered to yield 0.65 per cent to maturity.

Stockholders of Reynolds Metal company at a special meeting in New York approved an increase in common stock from 1,150,000 to 1,500,000 shares, of which 64,019 shares will be offered to present common shareholders at $17 a share in the ratio of one new share for each 15 held.

Approve Plan for Officials.

Approval also was given to an executives' stock subscription plan calling for issuance of 35,980 shares at $25 each to specified executives. Most of the new funds will be used for working capital.

The New York Central railroad announced that $58,699,300 of a total issue of $59,911,100 of 10-year 6 per cent convertible bonds due 1944 had been turned in for conversion when the privilege ended June 30. The $1,211,800 remaining will be redeemed at 102 with interest to June 30.

Creameries of America, Inc., filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington covering 506,647 shares of $1 par common stock to be issued through voting trust certificates.

Seek to Refund Bonds.

Cleveland and Mahoning Valley railroad asked the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $2,936,000 of first mortgage 4 per cent refunding bonds, maturing July 1, 1962, to retire a similar amount of 5 per cent 50 year gold bonds now outstanding.

The Lone Star Gas company, Dallas, Tex., and the Lone Star Gas corporation, Wilmington, Del., filed a declaration with the Securities and Exchange commission under the holding company act for approval of bank loans of $16,000,000. Substantially all proceeds, it was said, will be used to retire present outstanding bank loans.

A $9,000,000 security transaction by the Detroit City Gas company is exempt from the Public Utility Holding company act, the S. E. C. announced.

COTTON

Speculative interest was reported yesterday as increasing in American cotton markets and this class of buying was largely responsible for the active deliveries showing a relatively firm undertone and closing at gains of a small fraction of a cent a pound. Easiness in Liverpool was offset to a considerable extent by unwanted rains in the southeastern part of the main belt. Department of agriculture estimate will be issued tomorrow.

An official estimate on the Argentine cotton crop placed the prospective yield at 189,000 bales, compared with 367,000 bales harvested in 1936. Spot cotton closed .05 to .10 cent higher with New Orleans, 12.45 cents; New York, 12.55 cents, and Houston and Galveston at 12.25 cents a pound. Prices follow:

THE SECRET'S OUT; IT COSTS MORE TO LIVE

Experts Bolster Wives' Budget Demands.

It's no news to the housewife that food prices are going up, but skeptical males who are balking at allotting a larger chunk of the family income to household expenses can find meager comfort in the latest study of food costs issued by the United States department of commerce.

The housewife need haul in by the heels none of those irrelevant arguments that she customarily uses to clinch her case—the pertinent evidence is overwhelmingly on her side. And if the male is in any doubt as to the reason for the increasing frequency with which creamed tunafish and meatless macaroni dishes are set before him, let him refer [in private] to the labor department's findings.

Round Steak Now Kingly Dish.

He will find that round steak, a basic item on the American dinner table, is selling at retail at approximately 40 cents a pound. It has risen slightly more than 4 per cent in the last six weeks and more than 18 per cent in the last year. The labor department's price records show that it is now double in price what it was in 1933.

Other cuts of beef have risen correspondingly. Sirloin steak, of which many American males have forgotten the taste, is now bringing a handsome 44 cents a pound, when it sells. It costs 4 per cent more than it did on May 18 and 18.7 per cent more than at this time last year. The percentage increase in price mounts to 63.9 when a comparison is made with 1933.

Why Pork Chops Have Disappeared.

Should the skepticism of the male persist he may go on down through the list of meat items included in the department's survey. He will find that pork chops were selling for an average price of 37.6 cents a pound on June 15—more than double their cost in June, 1933. In the last year the price has risen 9.4 per cent; in the last two months 9.5 per cent.

The department's index of food prices declined slightly in the month ended June 15, but the change is deceptive. The seasonal decline in the price of fresh vegetables and dairy products was responsible for carrying the composite price down. Virtually all items included in the price survey are selling well above a year ago. Sixty of the 84 articles for which records are kept also advanced during the 4 weeks ended June 15.

Insofar as meat is concerned the outlook is far from promising. The country is now feeling the effects of the big reduction in the live stock population which resulted from the feed shortage in the recent drouth years and the government's effort to meet the problem by slaughtering thousands of animals and paying farmers to destroy millions of pigs and sows.

MAJOR AIR LINES CARRY HEAVIER TRAFIC IN JUNE

American Sets a New Monthly Record.

Three major aviation companies yesterday reported increased passenger business during June, with American Airlines, Inc., claiming an all time monthly record for the air transport industry in the United States.

American carried 30,902 revenue passengers a total of 12,541,000 passenger miles, according to C. R. Smith, president of the company. Both figures set new records, he said. The previous highs were set by American in October, 1936, when it carried 28,751 passengers 12,326,000 passenger miles.

The June passenger-mile mark is 9.4 per cent over American's May figure of 11,463,000 and 52.7 per cent over its June, 1936, figure of 8,210,000. It carried 28,121 passengers in May and 22,551 in June, 1936. In June, 1934, the line handled only 9,635 passengers.

During the first six months of this year American transported 129,935 revenue passengers a total of 54,026,000 passenger-miles, compared with 97,783 passengers and 36,482,000 passenger-miles in the first half of 1936. The respective increases amount to 32.9 and 48.1 per cent.

United Air Lines reported 11,200,000 passenger-miles flown last month. This represents a gain of 22 per cent over the figure of 9,185,000 in May, 1936, and 6 per cent over the 10,694,000 passenger miles in June, 1936.

Eastern Airlines reported that 11,983 revenue passengers were carried on its routes in June. This is 10 per cent above the May, 1937, figure of 10,903 passengers, previous best month in the company's history, according to Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, general manager.
